Active Paschalites Prowl Panther City

Whether it was riding a bike or water skiing, the Paschalite could always find something to occupy his spare time. Hunting, fishing, hiking, or just fooling around, Panthers used their time out of class to its fullest extent. Although each student followed his own interests, the spirit of Paschal reigned over all Panthers giving a sense of pride and unity.

Paschalites Take Part In Community

- ▲ Steve Darrow spends his spare time water-skiing on Possum Kingdom Lake.
- ▲► Sidney Ludvigson prepares to cruise the streets of Ft. Worth.
- Richard McLamore and Sergio Torres clown around at an AFS swimming party.
- ▼► Brenda Robinette looks on disgustedly as her brother, Bryan, plays pinball.

Our lives have only just begun although we have spent a lifetime learning and preparing for this beginning.

Our fortunes will be earned after a few more years. Somehow each of us will live our lives more fully because we will not wait for fortune.

Instead, we will have it all along.

Our hearts are filled with that undefinable emotion, that intangible feeling that came when we took our first step into these halls as freshmen. The spirit and the pride we felt help us to recognize our inevitable status —

We are the leaders,

We are advancing always:

"Praise to thee, Paschal! Purple Reign!"

◀ Rob Loucks and Jackie Meeks wonder at the beauty of nature.

▼◀ Mike Kersey and Cass Duke examine an exhibition at the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History.

Paschalites found the community to contain a surfeit of opportunities to explore new things. Different people chose to take advantage of different activities. Some enjoyed outdoor sports; other pursued academic subjects. No matter what the students did, all managed to leave behind the unmistakable Paschal touch, the unquenchable Paschal spirit. The pride with which they moved throughout the community left no one in doubt that they were truly part of the everlasting Purple Reign.

Dearest Robert,
You have been too kind to me - I'm brat and I know it. Thank for your patience. And now I'll leave you with a few words of wisdom:

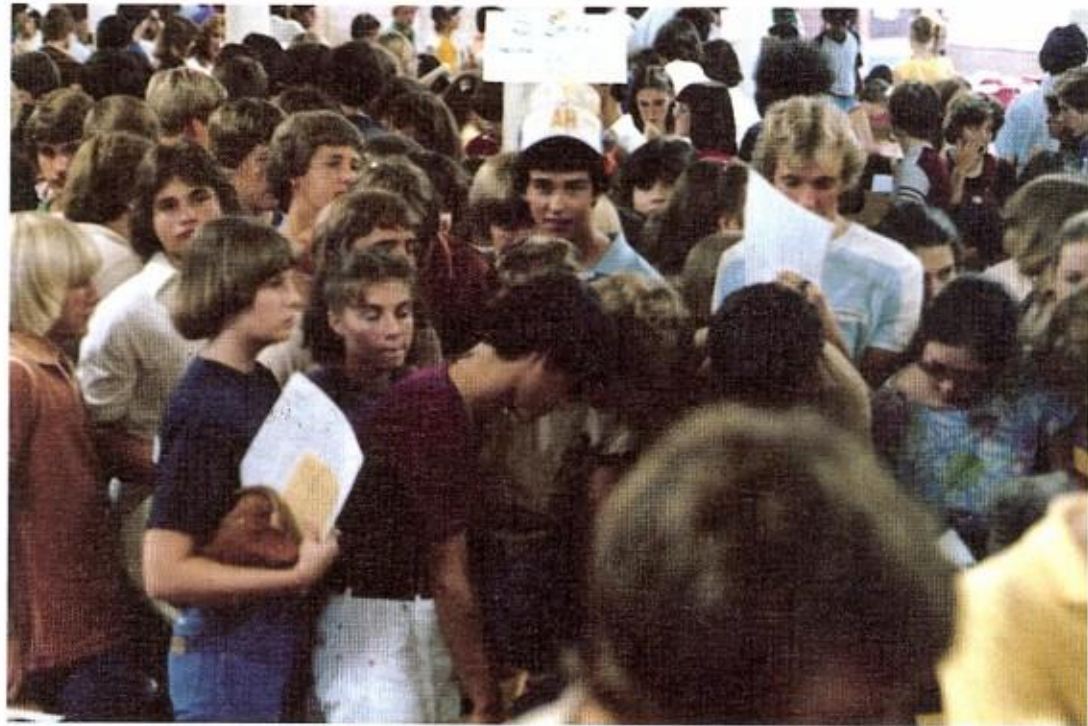

If you think you're crazy, then you're sane; it's when you begin to think you're sane that you're in trouble! Stay crazy and keep smiling!
Much Love,
Cass

Students Tackle Another Year

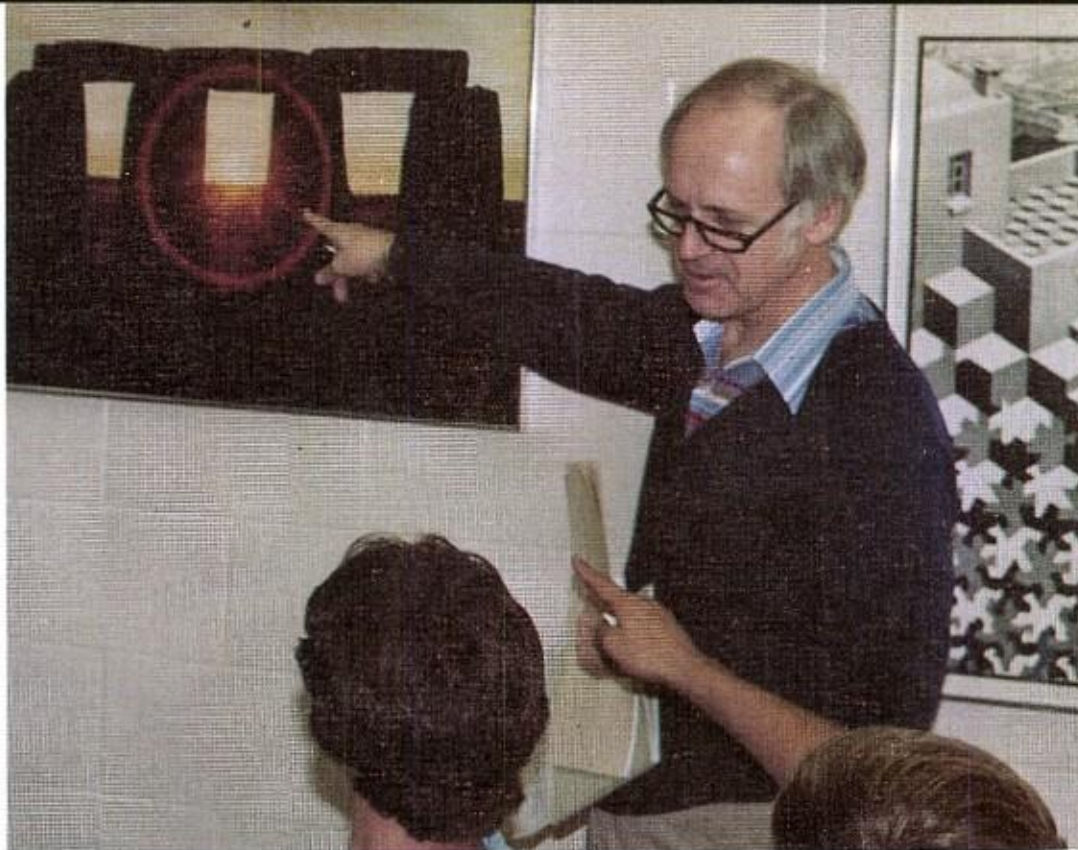

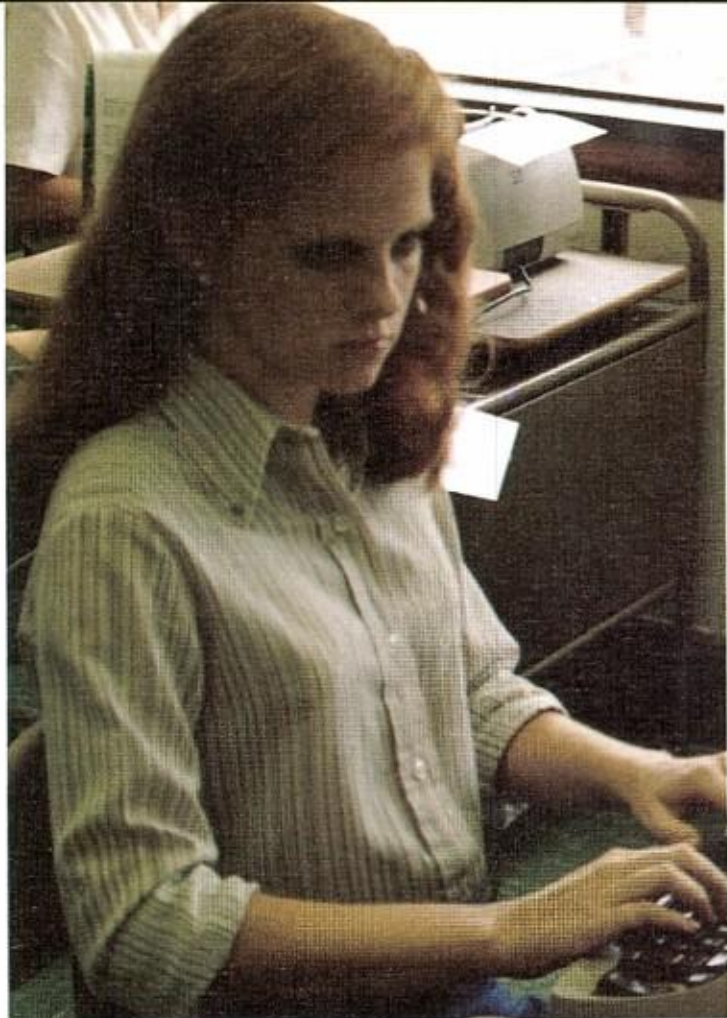

The reaction to registration this year ran the gamut from the bemused fear of the freshmen to the worldly-wise confidence of the seniors. The heat deterred no one as they hurried to and fro signing up for classes. With the help of LC members, faculty, and counselors, students were able to get the classes they needed.

The first week of school was best characterized by chaos. Settling in, as always, included lectures from teachers on expected behavior and students switching classes after long hours in the counselors' offices. By the second week, school began to move smoothly.

▲▲ Students register for classes in the cafeteria.
 ▲ Scott Leslie works on his OAA assignment.
 ▲ Mr. Erwin carries out his duties as vice-principal.
 ▼ Pam Alberts checks homeroom attendance cards in the attendance office.
 ▼ Catherine Curby, Renee Dobkins, Susan Darnell, and Debbie Dishman give reports to their Humanities class.

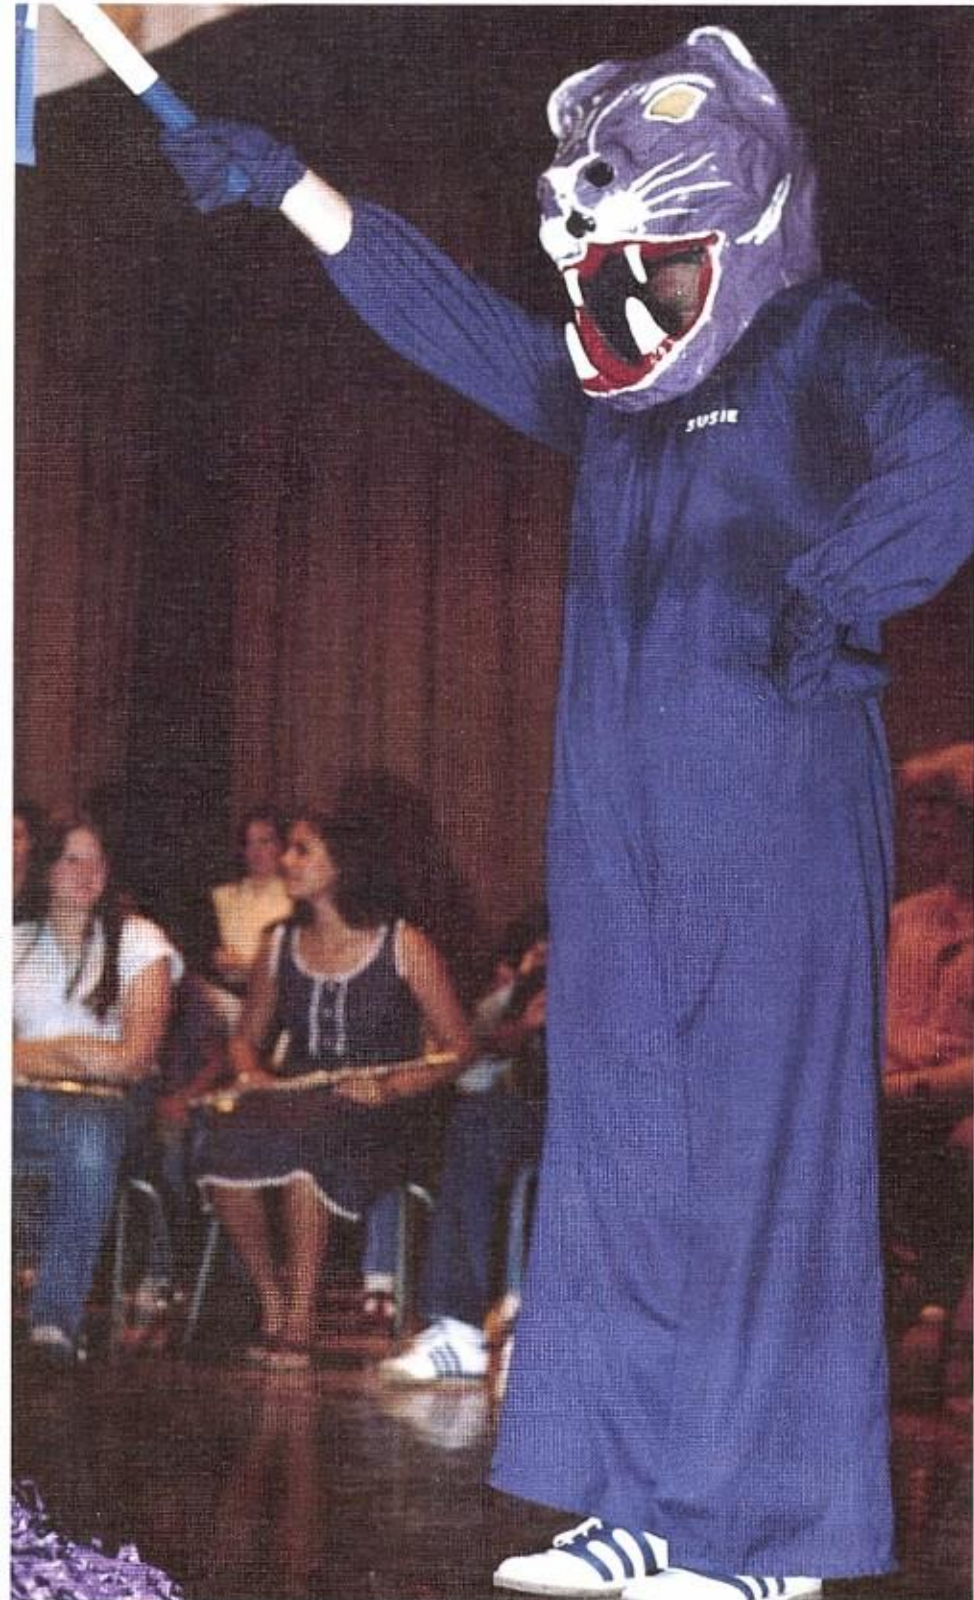

▲▲◀ Sheen Perkins practices her typing technique.
 ▲◀ Mary Maness struggles to remember her locker combination.
 ▲ Mrs. Enright assists Veronica Garcia and Laura Martinez while Charles Jones works diligently.
 ▼ Mrs. Strain helps Evan Pritchard with his schedule.

Traditions Both Old and New Promote Spirit

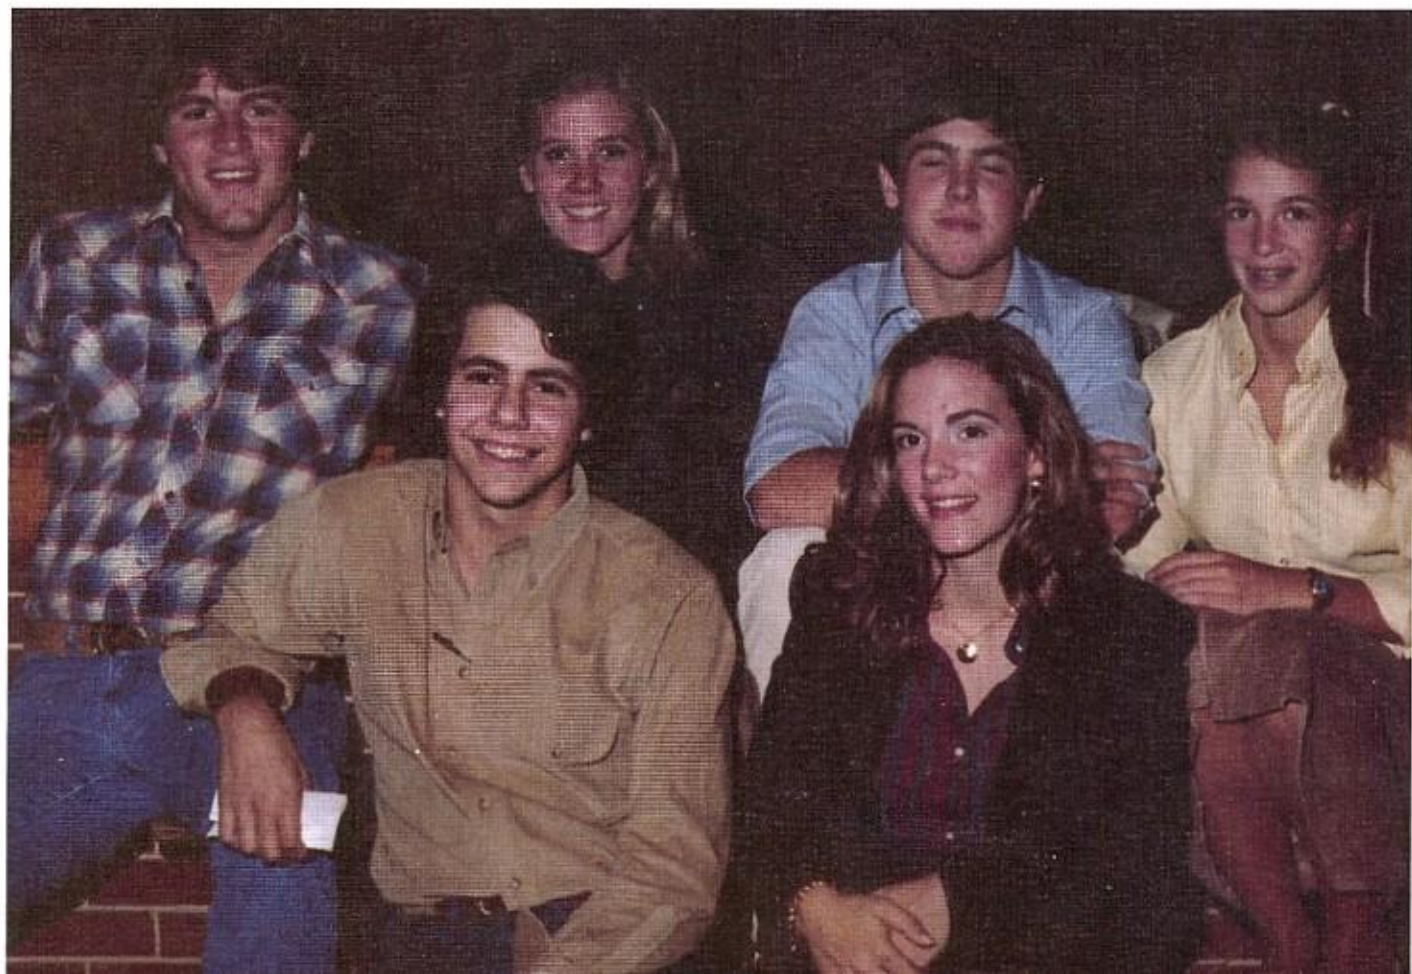

Throughout the years, tradition played a major role in the lives of the Paschal Panthers. Students found involvement in various school organizations. They enjoyed traditions upheld by such groups as cheerleaders, PSOP, student government, and athletic teams. Through these groups the school's identity was passed from year to year, thus uniting Paschalites.

▲▶ Susie Vinson leads Paschal's traditional silent yell.

▶ Newly elected officers — Parliamentarian Craig Berlin, Vice President Susannah Touzel, UHSC Representative Robert Fielder, Secretary Cindy Van Amburgh, President Bobby Patton, Treasurer Cheryl Spector — are waiting to be introduced to the student council.

▲▲ The Student Council listens to an "interesting" proposal.

◀ Let's play follow the leader! Tim Hunter gives the door a good luck tap as he leaves the pep rally.

▲ Don't look now, but there's a rabbit in my hat! Carla Aday, Karen Presley, Joann Lawrence, and Michael Collins all flaunt their new PSOP hats.

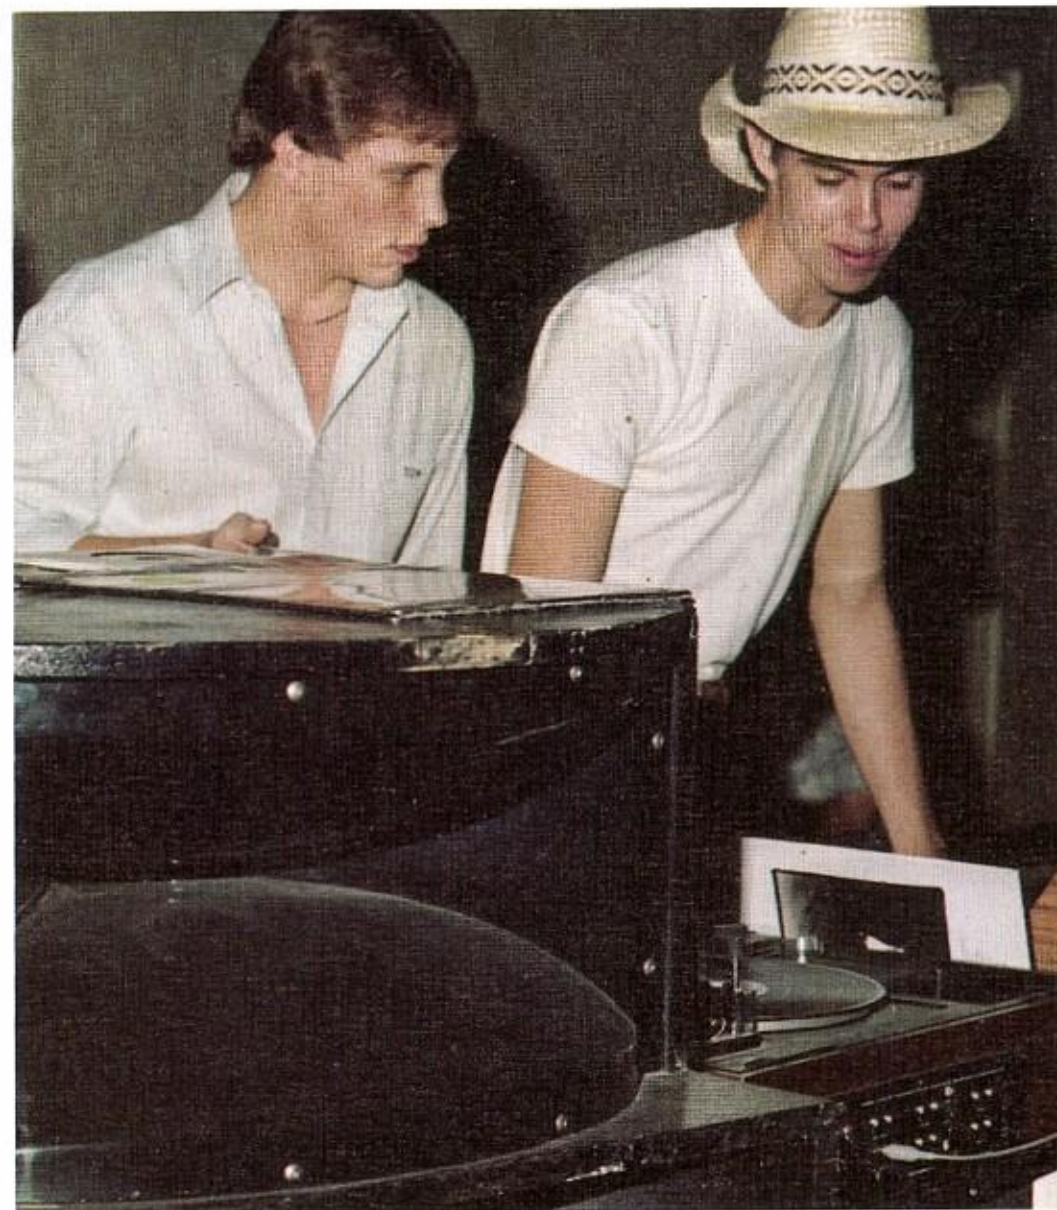

Goals Are Set

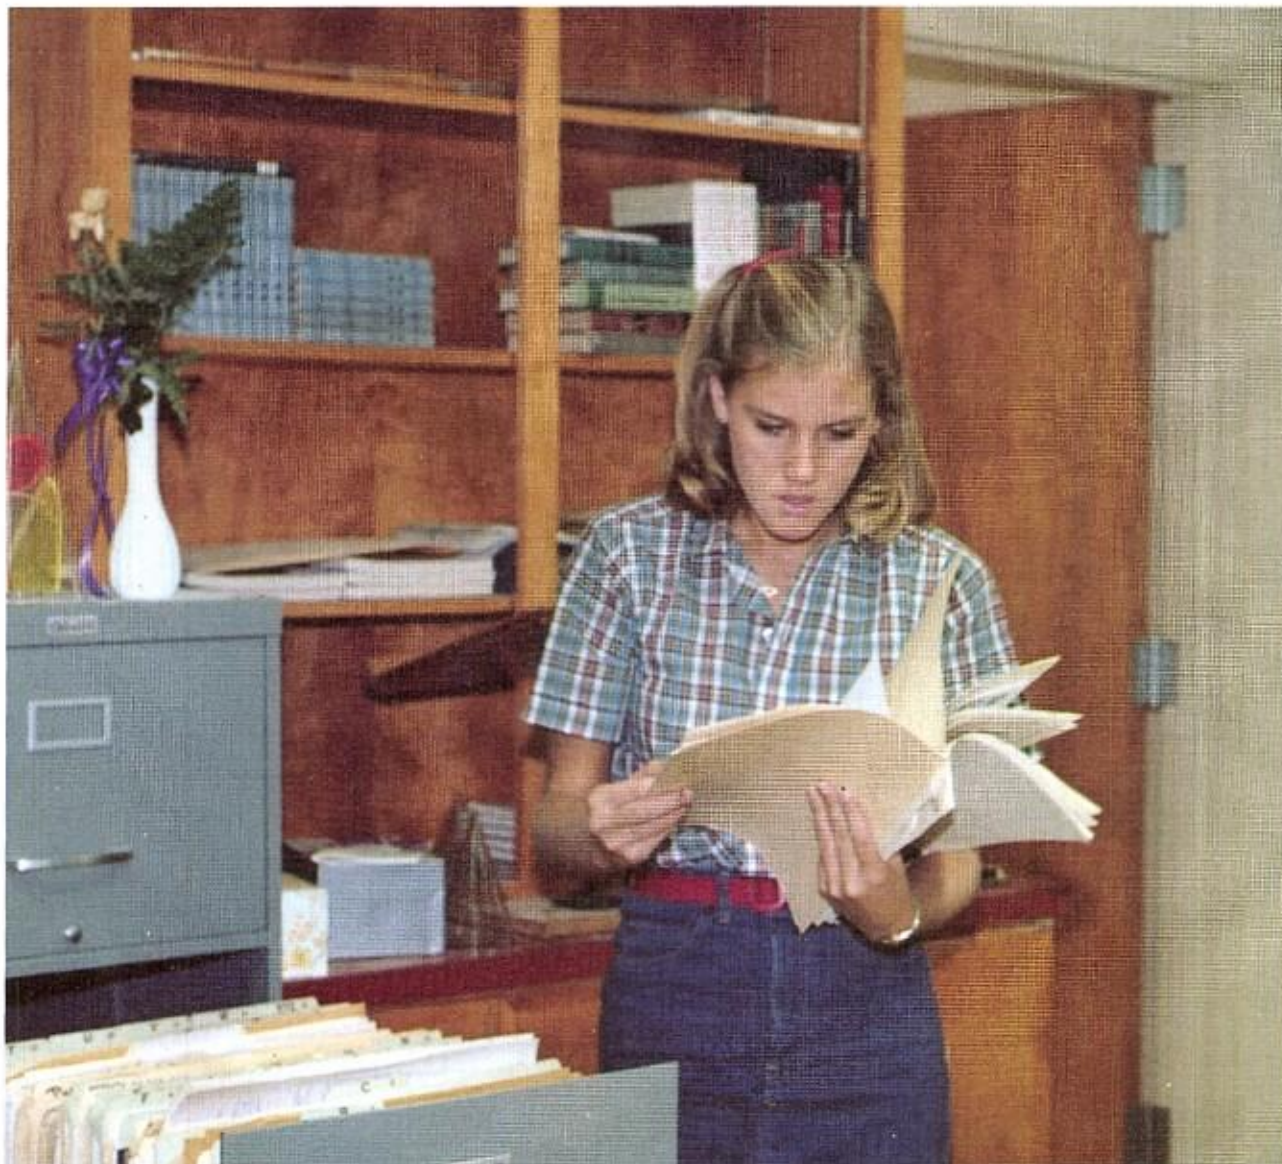

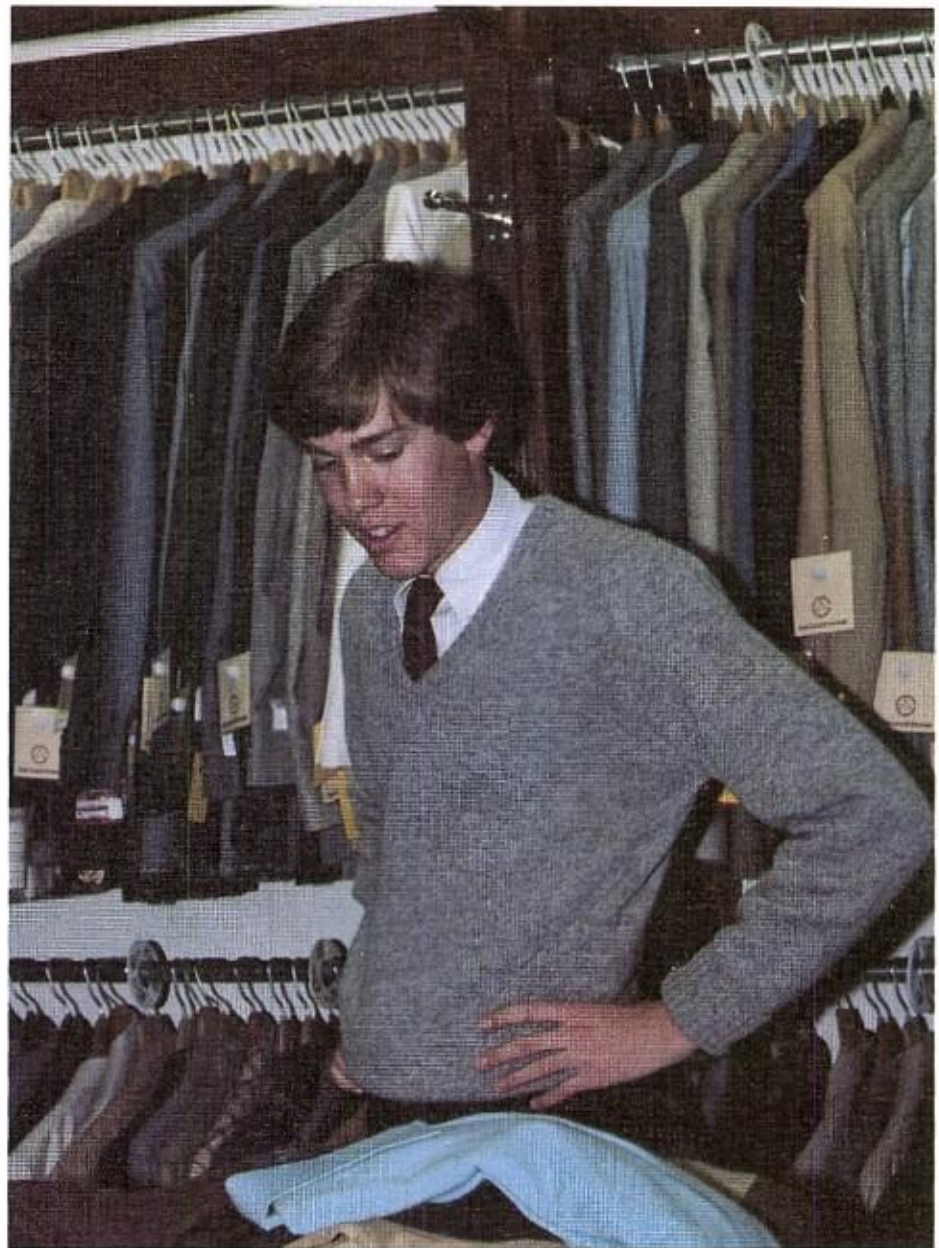

The future was a subject that some students tried to avoid. Others, however, prepared for the future while in school. At Paschal, academic, athletic, vocational, and social programs taught students how to adapt to different situations. Those who did indicate concern with the future wanted active roles in the ruling of the 80's because of their preparation at Paschal and participation in the community.

▲► Of course I know what I'm doing. Miss Maddux puts away equipment.

▼ How do you fold a shirt with three arms? Ellen Knapp is working in men's wear at Sanger Harris.

▼► This tape will self destruct in 60 seconds. Fred West and Danny Hall operate sound equipment at a gym dance after a football game.

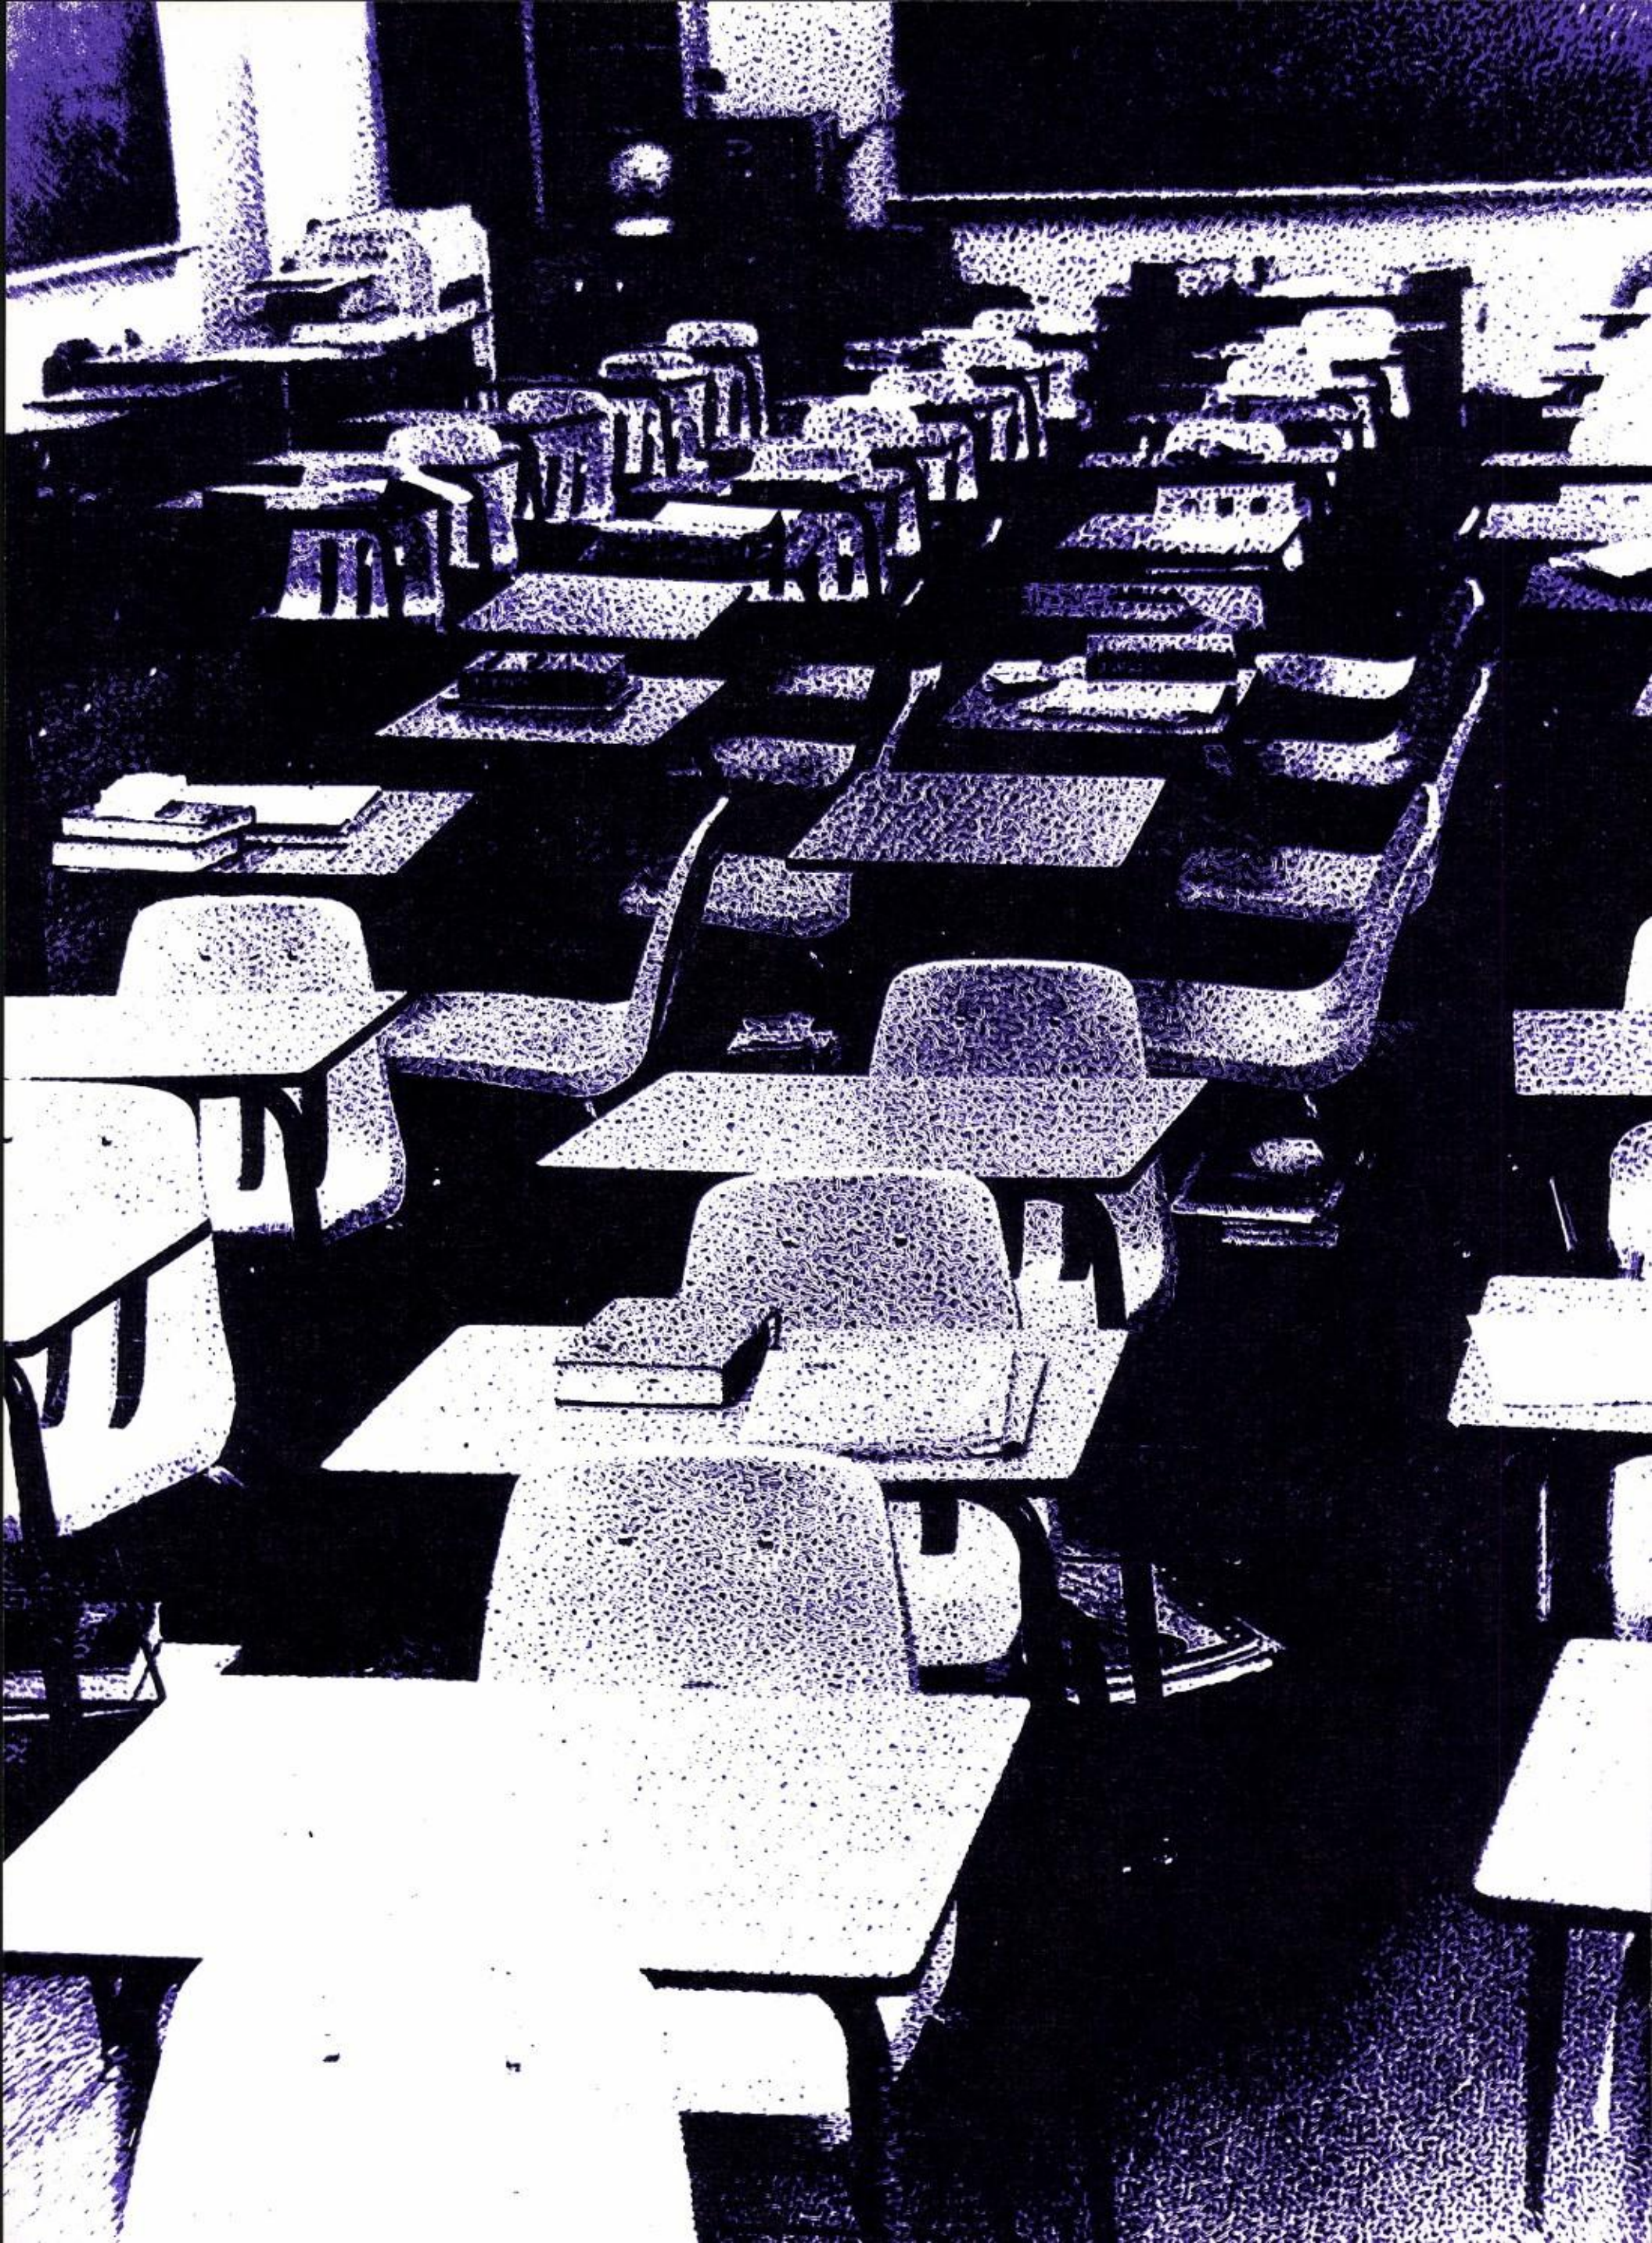

▲◀ Dede Tripp makes miniature furniture at The Whistle Stop.

▲ Would blue be better than grey? Michael Collins straightens sweaters at Clyde Campbell's.

◀ You mean I do the filing now! Cindy Van Amburgh tries to straighten the Leadership Committee's filing system.

Class
class my through ass! I'm done in 8!

I had to have met you

of luck for next year.

Classes

Class of 1981

The Class of 1981 proved that class spirit and pride were alive and well in the school. Academically, the class produced six National Merit semi-finalists, placing Paschal in the lead among Fort Worth high schools with the highest number of finalists in one school. Filled accelerated classes left many ambitious seniors waiting to get into one of the college preparatory classes. All seniors were required to take government and English.

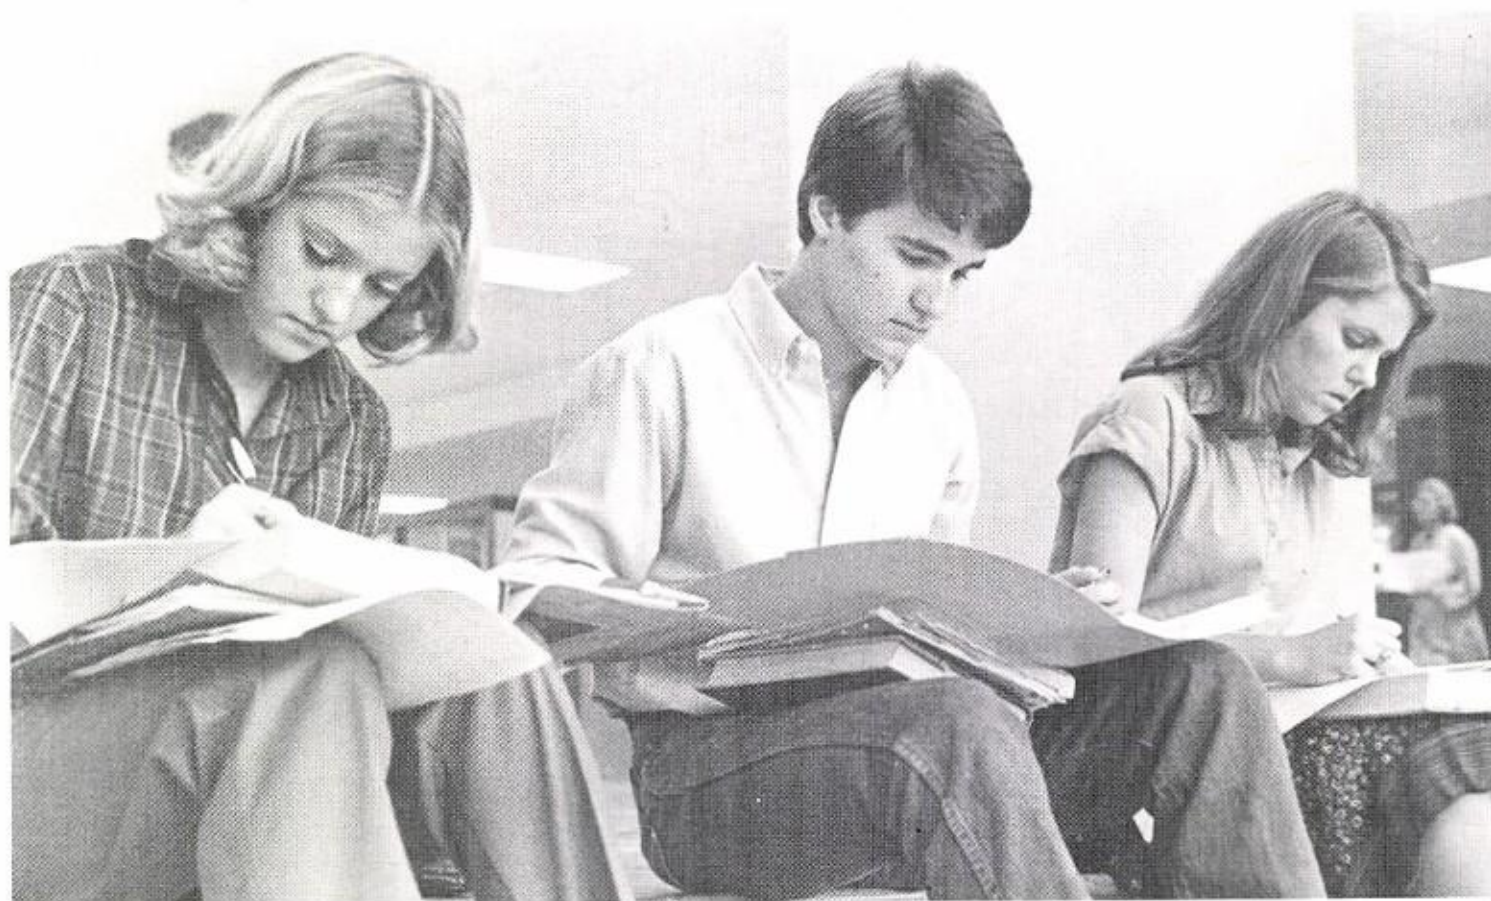

Seniors were also involved in such school activities as sports, spirit groups, and clubs. Special interests for the seniors included magazine sales, senior kiddie day, senior dinner-dance, and finally graduation. Throughout the year, the seniors kept busy with dances, "legal" birthdays, and thinking about the end of their careers as high school students.

After the dances were finished, the books closed, the games played, and the farewells said, the seniors began to plan for their future. However, all seniors agreed that Paschal pride will reign in their hearts forever.

▲ Dionne Bagsby works diligently to complete her pages during annual.

► They told us to work, study, and learn. Susan Frymire, Bill Kelley, and Dana Boles finish their homework before school.

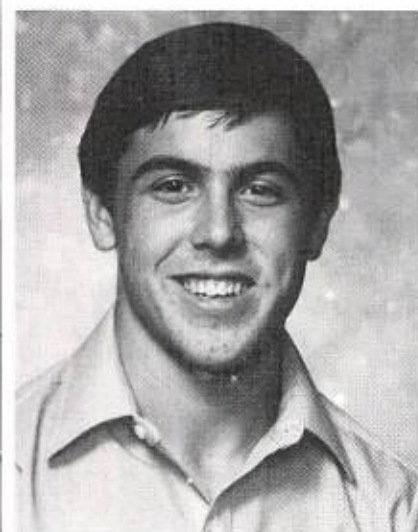

Seniors Define Leadership

The Leadership Committee, principal governing body of Paschal, was lead by President Bobby Patton, Vice President Susannah Touzel, Treasurer Cheryl Spector, Parliamentarian Craig Berlin, Tom Redd, Lisa Sprinkle, and Mark Vinson. Energetic LC members worked diligently during registration, making sure that everything ran smoothly during this hectic time. They also coordinated Howdy Week with activities such as the freshman skit, a roller-skating party, and dress-up day. Committees that the seniors chaired included Student Directories, Christmas Toy Drive, and Senior Kiddie Day.

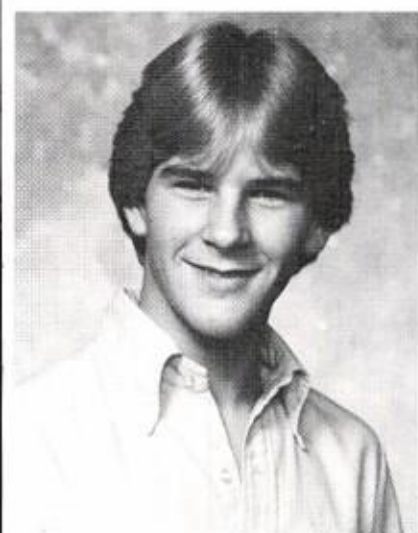

These seven students, along with six elected senior Student Council members made up the Senior Cabinet. The Senior Cabinet was set up to organize the Dinner-Dance that took place at the end of the Year. Senior LC members who kept the spirit of Paschal alive, proved to the student body that purple will always reign at our school.

Class of 1982

The third year in high school when students first became upperclassmen was the junior year. Students realized they needed to start making important decisions about which direction their future was headed. Since not as many courses were required, much time was used to develop special interests such as foreign language, business, and math and science courses. Being upperclassmen also meant that juniors received the privilege of eating lunch off campus in order to get away from the noisy, crowded cafeteria. Juniors also got more involved in school activities and clubs such as Young Life and AFS. Many juniors were eager to get their senior rings. The junior year was one of hard work and involvement during which many long-lasting friendships and memorable times were created.

LC members made up part of the governmental body of students which provided the means of discussion and solution for school problems.

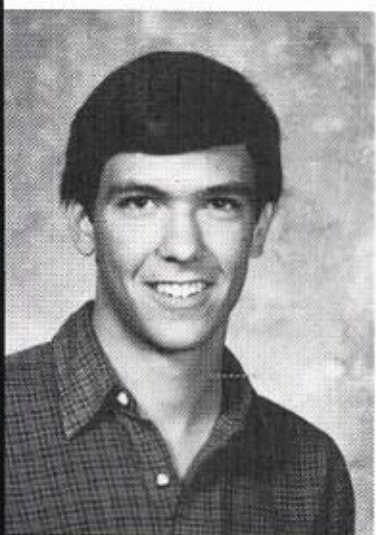

Junior LC members served on committees such as Powder Puff, Muscular Dystrophy, Morning Announcements, Student Handbook, Activities and others. Through leadership and hard work, these Paschalites made purple reign for the class of 1982.

Class of 1983

The sophomores went through the year with enthusiasm and vigor as they moved one step closer to their graduation in 1983. Sophs had a carefree spirit, because they were no longer new to the school, yet they didn't have many responsibilities juniors and seniors had, such as having jobs or determining plans to be carried out after graduation.

Sophomores took electives such as driver education as they hurried to get their licenses and foreign language courses such as Spanish and French. They also took the required classes: English, Biology, and World History. Whether it was in an elective or a required class, the sophomores pursued their studies with amusement and interest.

In addition to classes, the sophs eagerly took part in extracurricular activities. Sophs joined clubs such as PAWS, Ebony Club, and Latin Club. They could often be seen gathered in the parking lots before and after school, sitting on the front steps discussing weekend plans, or standing outside during lunch. The sophomores contributed their share to the cheerful atmosphere prevalent on the Paschal campus.

Sophs Are Well Represented

Sophomores Dorette Bradshaw, Brian Brooks, Kelly Cato, Alison McIntire, Robin Rienstra, and Kelly Roberts served as active members of the Leadership Committee. They were elected in the spring of their freshman year to represent their class. The seven sophomore LC members helped organize such activities as Howdy Week, Thanksgiving Can Drive, Christmas Toy Drive, and the Blood Drive in the spring. They also participated in writing proposals, making announcements, raising the flag, and assisting at registration. Each member represented the class of '83 well by putting in much time and effort to make the activities of the year run smoothly.

Class of 1984

The Class of '84 came into Paschal at a running start, getting involved in all aspects of high school life. Although freshmen got their first taste of high school at registration, which was new to them, they soon became comfortable with the procedure. The freshman class involved themselves with such subjects as health, GPS, English, and numerous electives. Along with their subjects, the freshman class also added extracurricular activities which consisted of joining in on cheers at fast paced pep rallies, socializing with their friends at school dances, and involving themselves in school clubs. All freshmen agreed that their first high school year was enriching and fascinating.

▲▲ Now this is the letter A. Shelly Young discusses her grades with Mrs. Major.

Freshman students interested in behind-the-scenes activities ran for Leadership Committee this year. Connie Johnson, Monita Johnson, and Laura VanAmburgh were elected to represent the class of '84. Attending committee meetings, judging the beard growing contest, and planning activities such as Western Day and Campus Beautification were included in their new responsibilities. By working hard and dedicating many hours of their time, they showed that freshman representation is vitally important to the Leadership Committee.

Activities

Registration Opens New School Year

Students, who were confident following their recent experience with the semester system, approached the new year with spirit. They met in the auditorium to acquire the needed information to register for the upcoming year. Once Mr. A. M. Erwin explained registration procedures to them, they went to their homerooms for additional information. After preparing their schedules, they went to the designated registration areas including the halls, the large cafeteria and the large auditorium. By a first-come first-serve method, students eventually registered. With the guidance of faculty, the Leadership Committee, and fellow students, both new and returning students were enrolled and anxiously awaiting their first day of the school year.

▲▲ Gordon Pritchard registers for Mr. Bennett's government class as Karen Simons and Robin Smith enroll in another class.

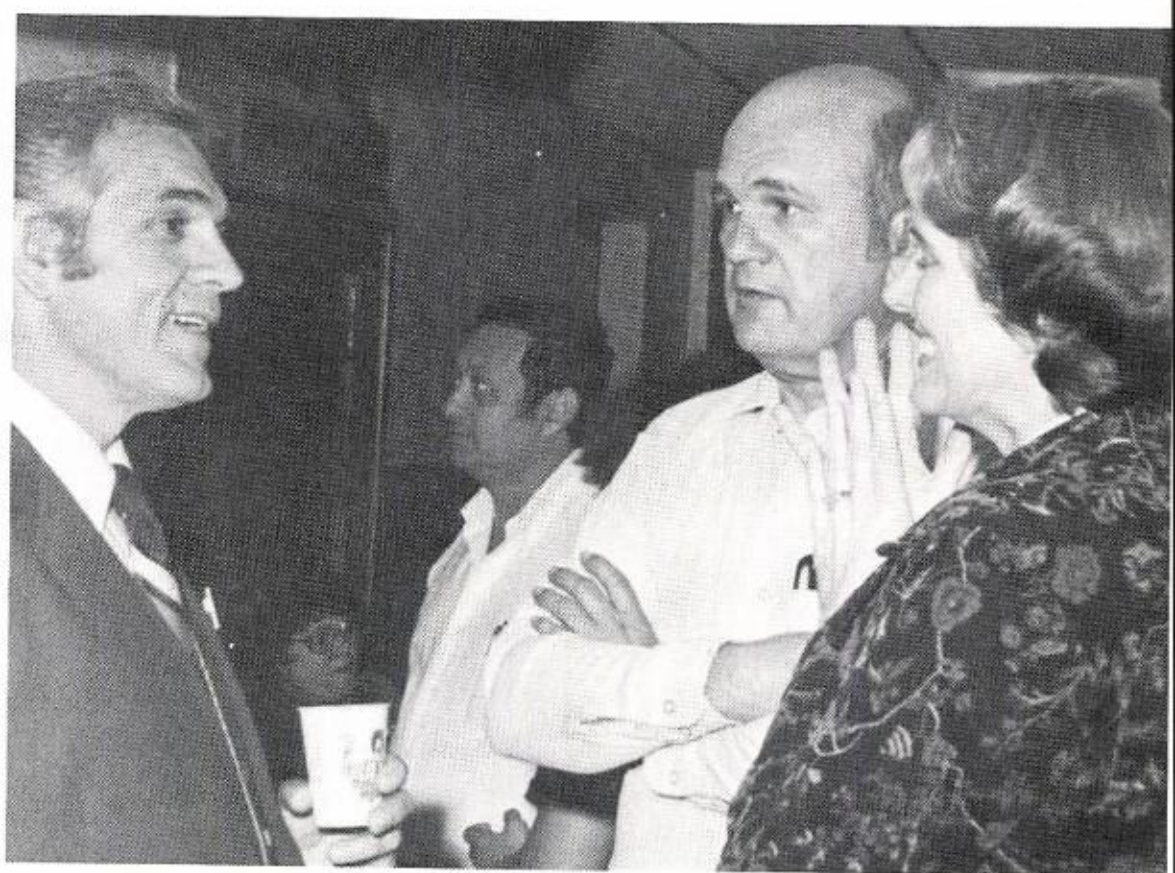

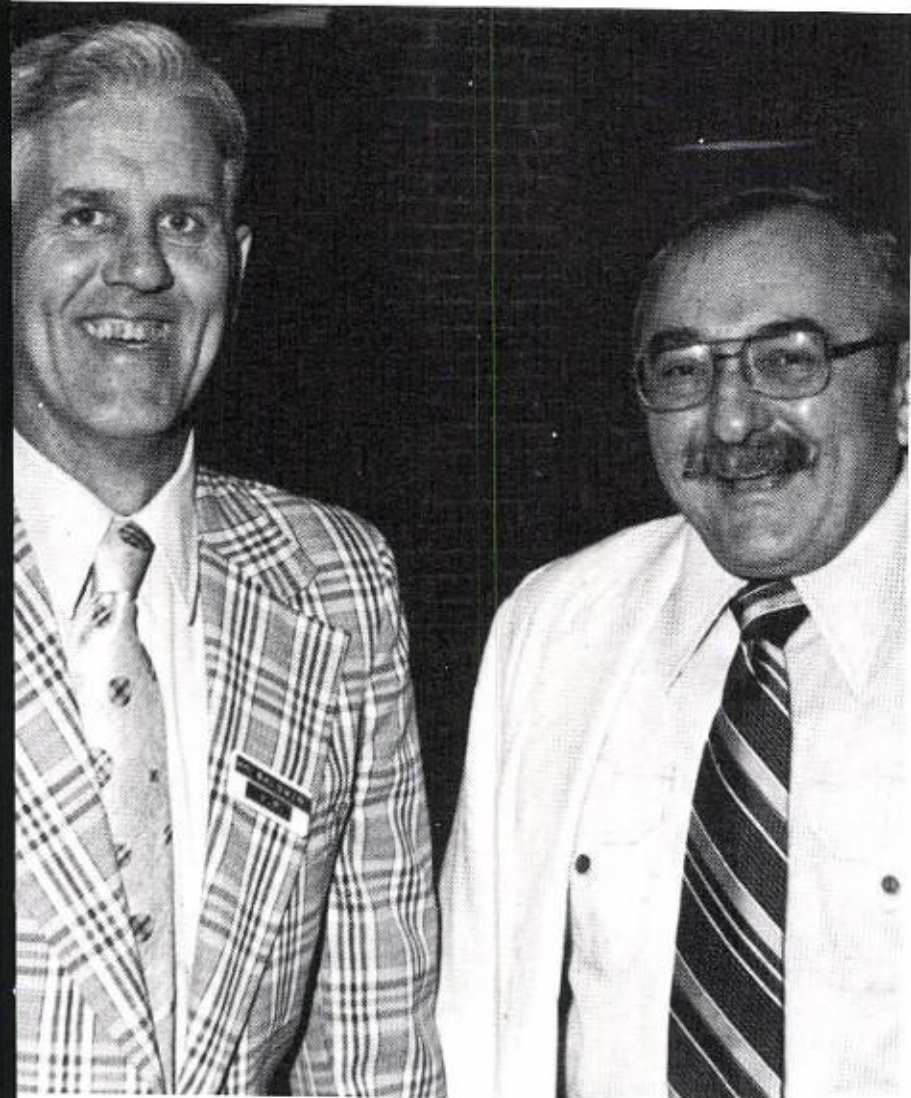

▲◀ Seniors and juniors go into the auditorium for registration instructions.

▲ Mrs. Martin discusses registration procedures with Christine Torres, Cheryl Touchette, Micki Hudson, Julie Thomas, Suzanne Thrash, Peggi Taylor and Todd Thompson.

Open House provided an opportunity for parents to show their support for the teachers of Paschal. Through this gathering, parents became better acquainted with teachers of PHS. As a fund raising project, the PTA sold refreshments in the cafeteria. Membership dues were also collected in the front foyer. The large crowd that attended Open House was attributed to the community's concern for public education.

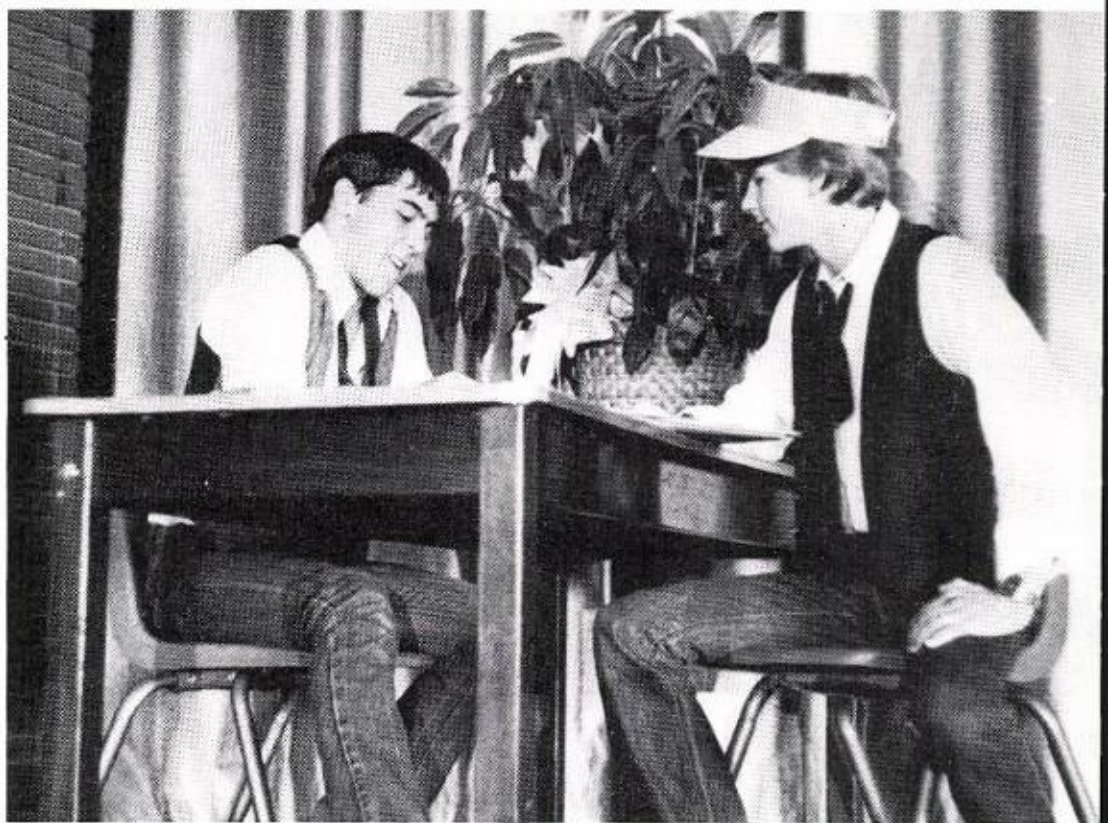

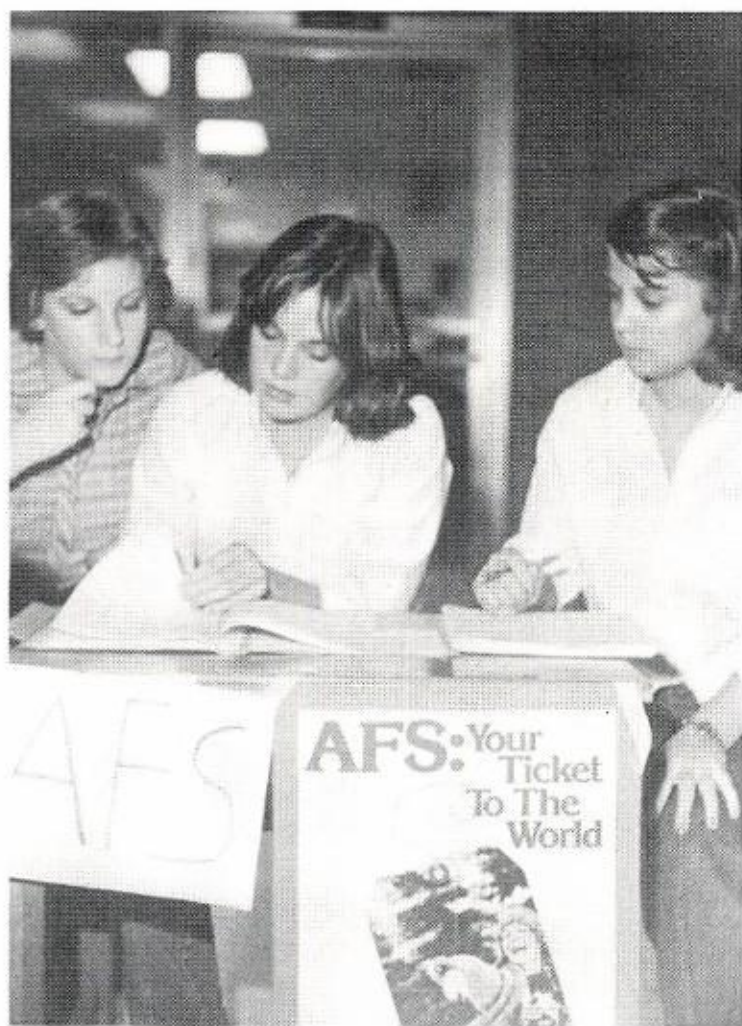

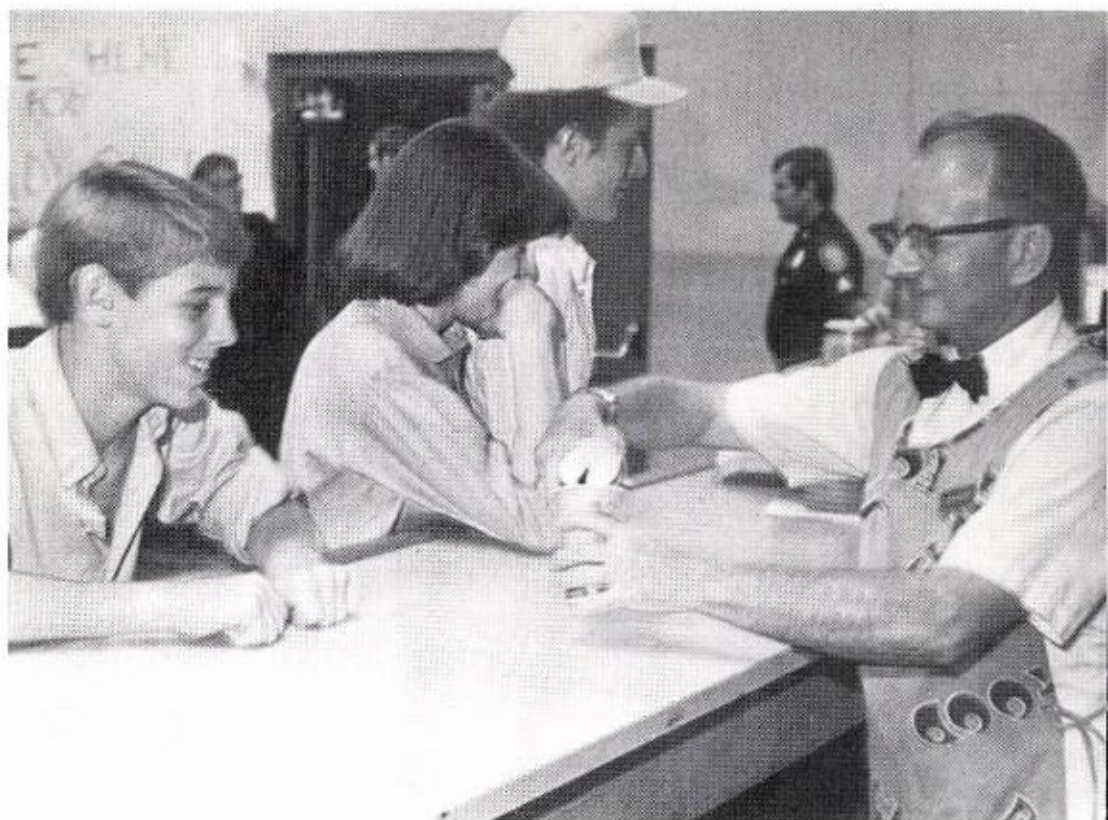

Open House Draws Parents and Students

 ▲ Yes, your child is passing! Mr. Lotspeich has a conversation with Mr. and Mrs. Sid Mair.

Howdy Week Greets Freshmen

Howdy Week, which welcomes freshmen to school, used the theme "Extra, Extra, Read All About It!" The theme was carried out in the freshman skit, the decorations modeled after newspapers, and the dress up day, when students mimicked cartoon characters. Other activities which involved freshmen and the other classes were the roller skating party, Pepsi and cookies served on the football field, and club day. The week concluded with a Howdy Dance at Round-Up Inn. The planning by LC, the friendliness of other students, and the attention focused on the freshmen helped make this a welcome these young Panthers would not soon forget.

▲ "Now, let's see, Andrew is booked on flight #1981." Patty O'Neil looks through the AFS sign-up booklet while Glynis Andrews and Lynn Vaughan watch over her shoulder.

▲▶ "Dad, can I have my allowance?" Bobby Patton and Tom Redd act in the freshman skit.

▶ Jackie Owens and Tracey Crawford impatiently wait in line for refreshments.

▲▲◀ Cindy Oliver, Lynn McNeill, and Lisa Sprinkle help to prepare refreshments for students on the football field.
 ▲ A banner in the front foyer displays tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders' feelings toward the freshmen.

Students Frequent Nearby Restaurants

To break away from the mid-day doldrums, students enjoyed lunch with their friends at local food establishments. Jack-in-the-Box and Taco Bell were favorite fast food restaurants that dealt with those students who were rushed for time. The Back Porch and Daniel's were preferred by those who wanted a relaxed and informal meal. The purpose of going off campus for most upperclassmen was to relax and visit with their friends.

- ▲▲▶ Jon Deluca and Linda Balcom wait for their order at Jack-in-the-Box.
- ▲ M-m-m good . . . Linda Ward and Sharion Innis eat a hurried lunch.
- ▲▶ You first . . . Tammy Phillips and Cheryl Beaty eat at Taco Bell.
- ▶ Alice Blair and Carol Hooker enjoy an ice cream cone at The Back Porch.

Seniors Find Sales a Challenge

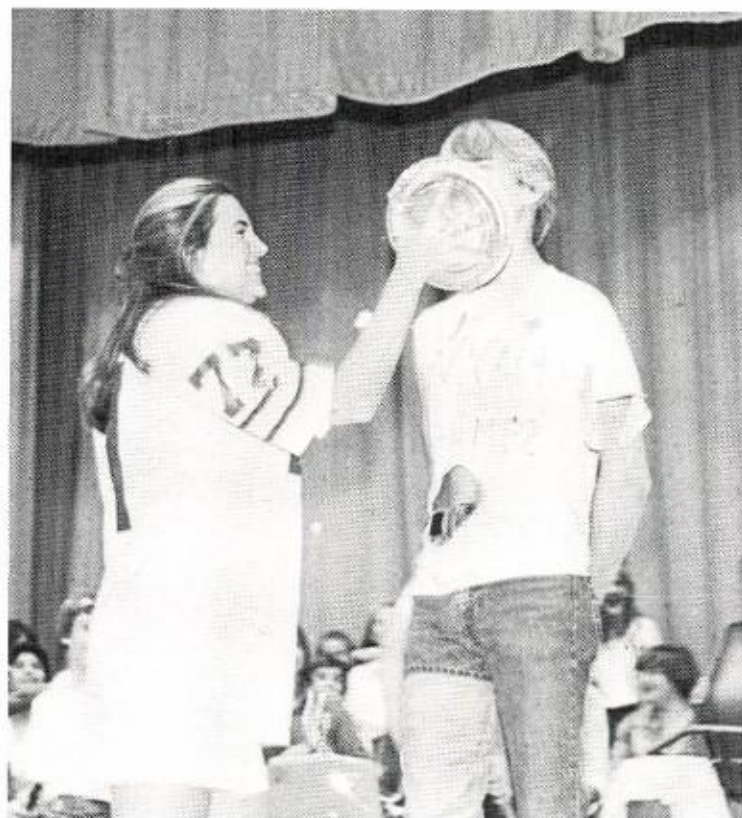

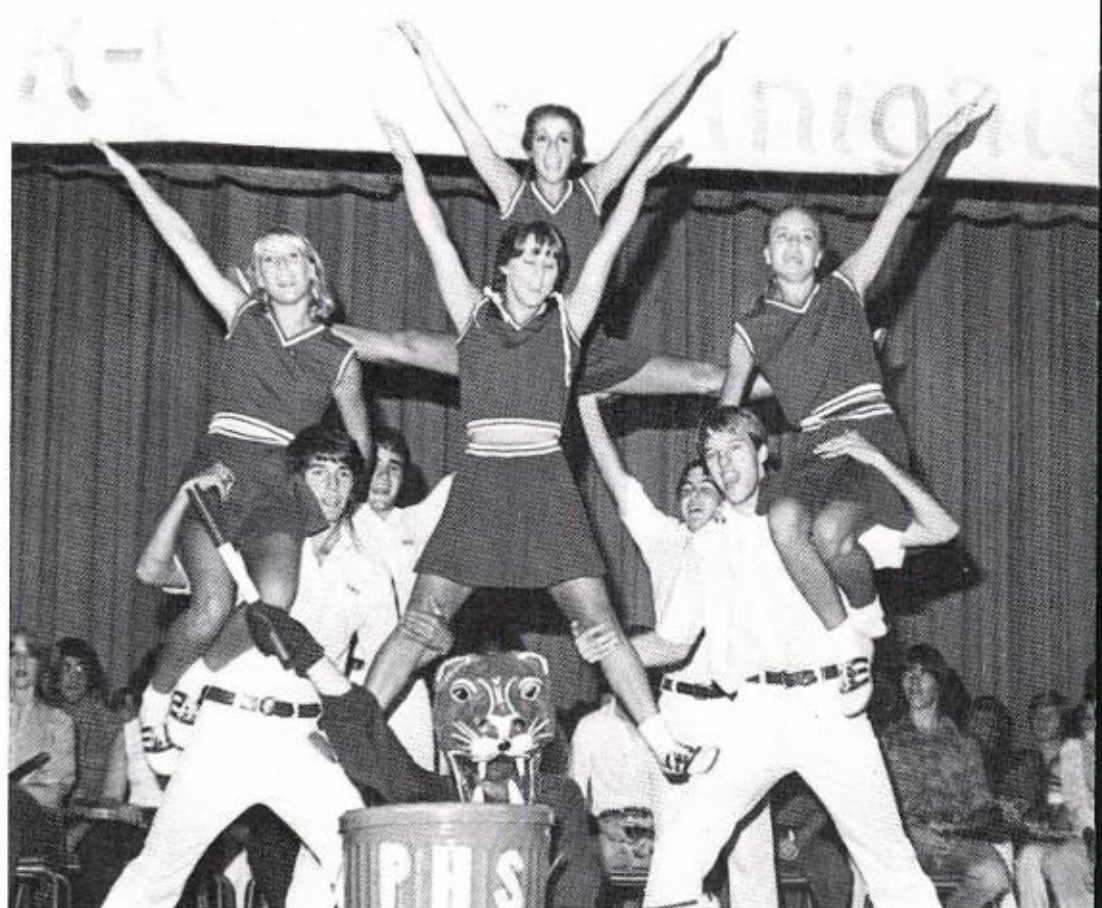

Senior magazine sales provided benefits for the students and various contributions to the school. Although the over all sales total was not the largest ever reached, the top sales day was tremendously successful. The top sales persons, Eddie Stivers and Trey Fielder, won stereo systems out of the many prizes such as stuffed animals, tumblers, candy, and money. Mrs. Cecilia Villa's homeroom sold the most subscriptions and were taken to dinner at Joe T. Garcia's. The new senior class sponsor, Mrs. Ilene Harwell, was pleased with this year's sales.

Pep Rallies Exhibit Support for Teams

The excited screams of students, the gymnastic abilities exhibited by the cheerleaders, the musical talents of the band, the well coordinated dancing by the Spirit Steppers, the spirit contributed by PAWS, and the zany humor of PSOP were all components in this year's pep rallies. The cheerleaders, who planned the rallies, encouraged spirit by having a purple day and a 50's day. Each pep rally contained a victory competition when classes competed to see who had the biggest mouths. Each rally ended with the silent cheer, followed by the Alma Mater, during which the football players exited. The athletic teams surely felt the support of the school this year.

Panthers Enjoy Busy Homecoming

Homecoming was, as usual, an exciting day of events. First exes registered at a table in the front foyer, receiving name-tags. In the afternoon, the second annual parade was held. Each class had prepared an elaborate float for the parade. The basic theme tying together the four contrasting floats was spirit for the school. Homecoming Queen candidates — Debra Castillo, Janice Gearhart, Dana Hall, Jane Shaw, Lisa Sprinkle, and Lisa Weaver — rode in vehicles with open tops, waving joyfully to their friends on the sidelines. Students stood along the road, cheering for their class float, and joined the cheerleaders, band, PAWS, and PSOP in raising spirit.

After the parade came the hot, but rousing, pep rally. During the rally, it was announced that the senior float, which depicted a "Spirit of '81" airplane, had won the competition among the floats. In the evening, Paschal played O. D. Wyatt at Farrington Field. At halftime, a jubilant Jane Shaw was crowned queen. After the game, many tireless Panthers journeyed on to the dance, while others went home to sleep.

Homecoming Rally Raises Spirits

The Homecoming pep rally was a fitting climax to the parade. Students, teachers, and exes who had viewed the parade, proceeded to the auditorium to join the cheerleaders in a rousing rally. The band, Spirit Steppers, and PSOP performed in this production. Several alumni also participated in the shouting, and the cheerleaders read letters from exes that were not present. Football players, as well as other students, sported purple balloons sold by AFS. Concluding the pep rally was the traditional football line dance, performed by senior girls.

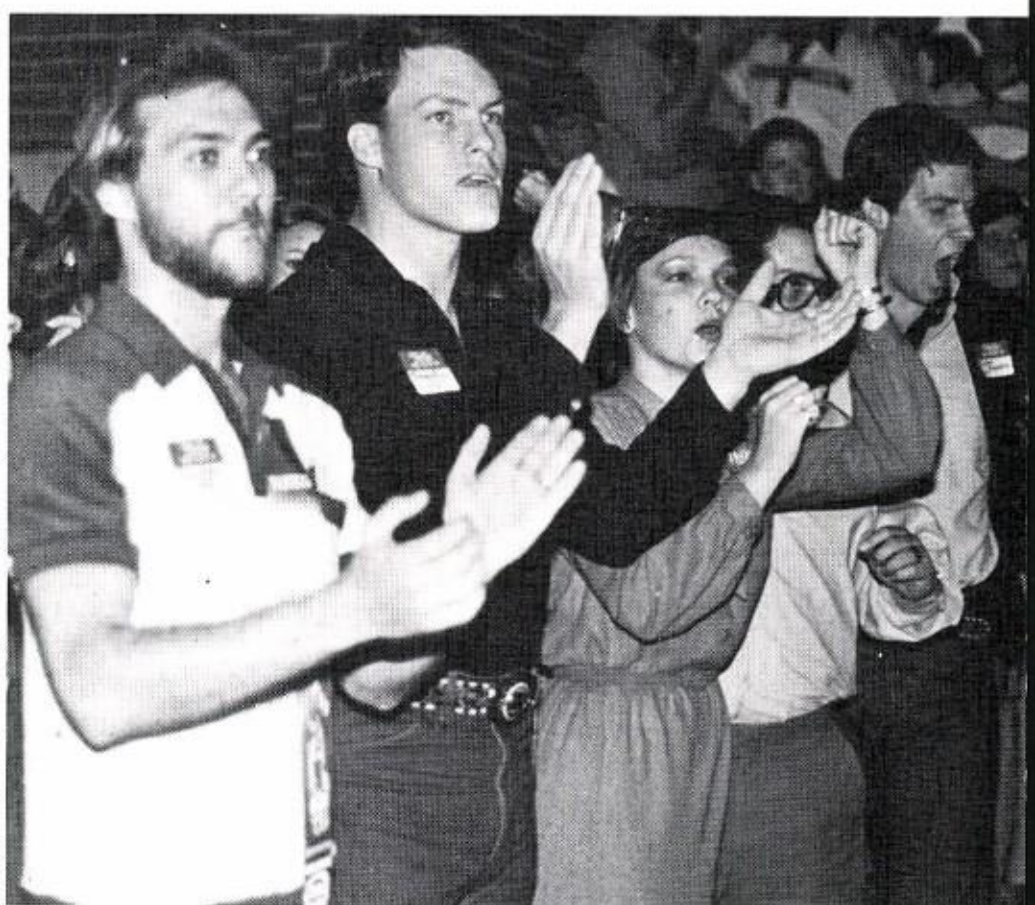

▲▲► Hey, we're gonna get you, too! Senior girls perform the football line dance.

Dance Provides Reason to Rock

Spirited Paschalites and exes attended the annual homecoming dance, held at the Elk's Lodge on Halloween. Zeus, a rock band, played music made popular by the Beatles, the Cars, and Devo. Many couples enjoyed dinner and the football game before the dance. Although it was only one of several homecoming events, the dance was a nice ending to a memorable day.

Students Display Talent In "Bye Bye Birdie"

The musical production of "Bye Bye Birdie" combined the cast's dramatic and musical talent. Mrs. Jean Graham, Mrs. Joy Howington and Miss Susan Williams worked to put the musical together. Student Director David McCreath, Orchestra Director Brent Ault, and Stage Manager Joe Lopez helped in the technical and musical aspects of the production. Behind the scenes talented and hardworking students did the props, costumes and lighting. In addition, cast members brought the script to life. Conrad Birdie, a rock star who was drafted into the army, was portrayed by Craig Berlin. Albert Peterson, the sentimental composer who wanted to revive his mother's publishing company, was played by Michael Collins. The role of Rose Alvarez, a secretary who was in love with Albert Peterson, was taken by the comical Cheryl Harnest. The combination of these diversified talents made the show successful.

The Christmas season was one of good cheer. LC members sponsored a toy drive during which students donated money for toys to go to the children at the Fort Worth State School. Organizations such as AFS and the Latin Club had parties to celebrate the merry holiday. LC also bought and decorated a sparkling Christmas tree to brighten the front foyer. After school hours, students spent their time in crowded shopping malls searching for that just-right gift, or at festive parties celebrating the season with close friends. School activities helped build the Christmas spirit and make the weeks before the holidays more exciting.

Dance Begins Holiday Spirit

The Christmas dance, sponsored by the Spirit Steppers, was one indication of holiday cheer. Students danced tirelessly to the pulsating beat of the rock music provided by the Penguins. The walls of the Blackstone Hotel were decorated with outlines of kissing angels, each bearing the name of a couple. The proximity of the dance to Christmas helped the enthusiasm level remain high throughout the night.

Teachers Spark Enthusiasm

The mundane routine of schoolwork was broken up by some clever teachers who planned various activities. Besides the usual load of schoolwork, these teachers integrated special projects and parties into their curriculum. Classes invited guest speakers to talk on specific subjects, and went off campus to visit museums, courtrooms, and even parks. Some teachers came up with creative reasons to have parties and others had their students construct banners or geometric projects. The ingenuity of these teachers helped the students sustain an avid interest in their classes.

Winter Season Chills Panthers

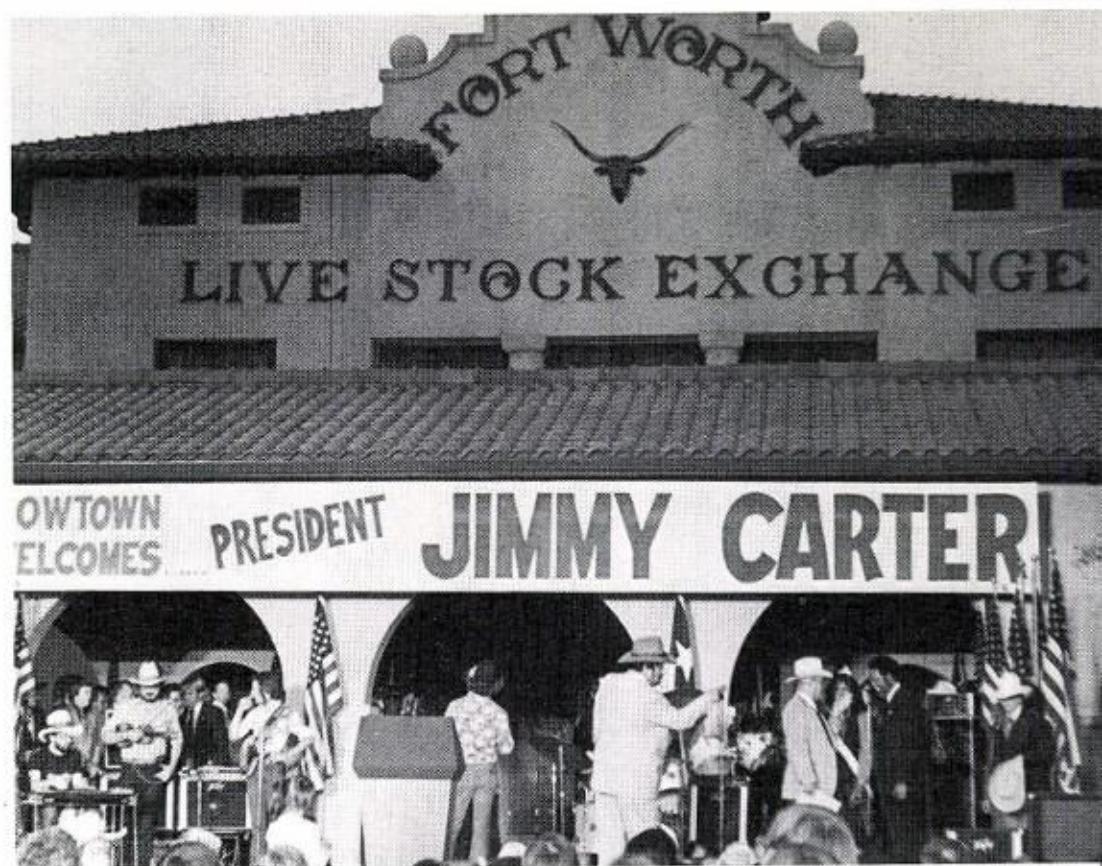

The wintry chill of December and January did not hinder Paschalites' activities. Little snow fell, but cold winds and ice storms brought out warm gloves, boots, down jackets, long underwear and mufflers. Seasonal activities included skiing, ice skating, sledding, having wiener roasts, playing hockey and keeping warm. Although winter represented fun and movement, the freezing temperatures and ice covered bridges limited travel.

Election Enthusiasm Breeds Involvement

The fact that 1980 was a Presidential election year was important not only to students eligible to vote, but also to those younger than 18. The three major candidates this year were Jimmy Carter, a Democratic incumbent; Ronald Reagan, a Republican; and John Anderson, an Independent. Students supported the candidate of their choice by donating money, working at nearby campaign offices, and engaging in debates with friends loyal to other parties. At the finish of this arduous campaign, those students eligible to vote joined the rest of the American people at the election booths. There the populace elected Ronald Reagan the 40th President of the U.S.

Students Display Variety in Fashions

Fashion has always held dominion over student interest and this year was no exception. Girls wore shoulder length hair and bangs while boys' styles consisted of cool, above-the-ear length hair. Designer jeans and topsiders were common attire along with the ever-popular blue jeans worn with penny loafers or cowboy boots. Clothes-conscious guys set as many trends as the girls with the monogrammed look and western wear. Students selected such clothes for comfort as well as for fashion.

Where the West Begins

Western Day marked the beginning of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show and allowed students to dress in the traditional western attire. In the Leadership Committee sponsored beard growing contest, John Cohn won for having the longest beard while Mark Dabney had the fullest one. Each class elected a Mr. Cowboy and a Miss Cowgirl. The winners were Seniors Rusty Bowsher and Teresa Cox, Juniors Richard Andrus and Missy Cole, Sophomores Jeff Coffey and Dedee Wreay, Freshmen Victor Flores and Stacey Stuart. Many students attended the annual stock show parade to end the eventful day.

Romantic Holiday Extends All Week

Although the calendar indicated that Valentine's Day landed on a Saturday, the week before this holiday many students celebrated at school. Penta Club sold carnations, valentines, and singing valentines, and delivered them on Friday. The PTA sold heart-shaped lollipops which were extremely popular among the students. On February 14, students celebrated by going to dinner, or by exchanging the traditional candy, flowers, or cards.

Students Exhibit Interest in Classroom

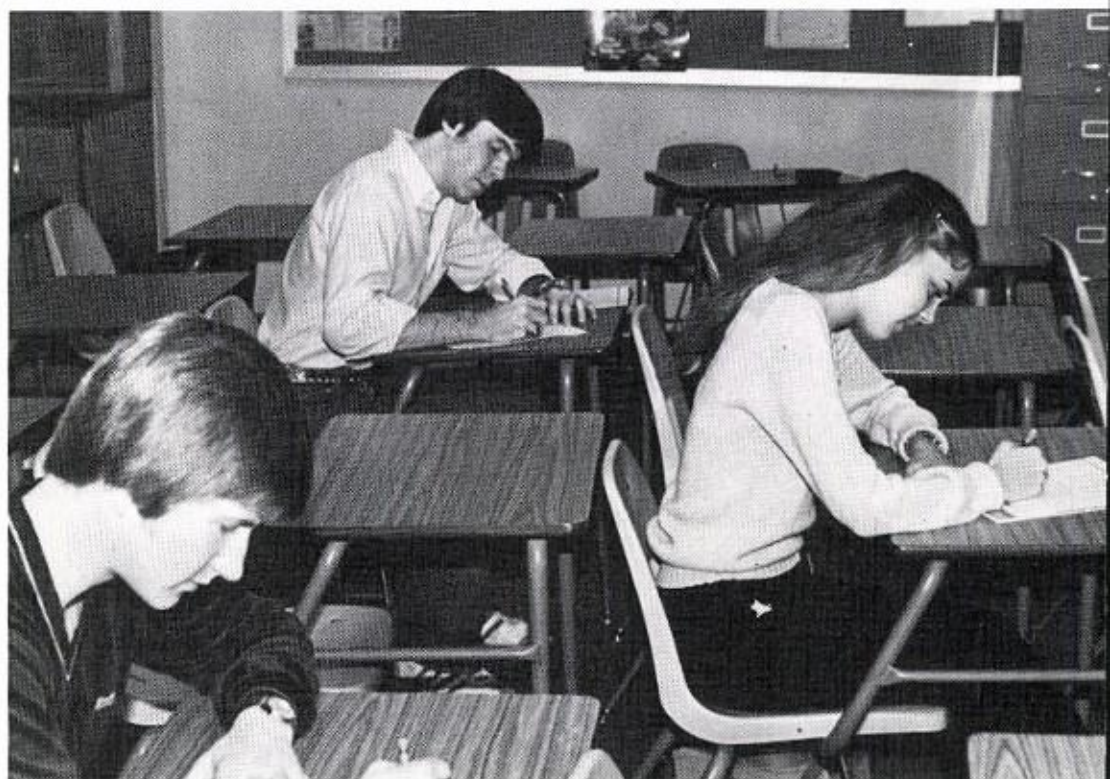

Representatives from Paschal joined other high school students from around the nation to attend Presidential Classroom in Washington, D.C. Students went in pairs for a week's stay where they met other students, listened to lectures, attended sessions of the House of Representatives and the Senate, and met government employees. Some participants received financial aid from organizations such as the Lions Club or from various individuals. Mrs. Prudence Laird, who directed the program locally, provided students with information through announcements. Seniors Begin to Plan Their Lives

Seniors prepared for a variety of futures — educational and vocational. Most college-bound students took the SAT or the ACT, which were requirements for entering college. Some students were enrolled in college preparatory classes such as calculus and advanced biology to prepare themselves for the work load of higher education. Other seniors took courses such as distributive education and vocational office education to qualify themselves for better jobs in the field of their interest. Although some seniors were reluctant to leave their alma mater behind, most began to plan for their life after Paschal.

Frosh Elect Representatives

In December, freshmen elected Connie Johnson, Monita Johnson and Laura VanAmburgh to the Leadership Committee. They raised and lowered the flag and helped plan activities such as the western day and the blood drive. Although it was their first year in high school government, they gained more and more experience as each day passed.

Game Provides Fun and Funds

One annual spring event many junior and senior girls anticipated was the Powder Puff game in which a group of seniors battled a group of juniors for control of the football. Admission to the game, which was played at Blue Raider football field, went toward the Charles M. Berry Scholarship. The girls took tips from their male counterparts and learned how to pass, kick, block, and dive. Their coaches consisted of five boys picked by the teams of their respective grades. Practices before the game helped the girls not only learn the game, but get mentally ready to play. The game highlighted the spring for the many people involved.

Blood Drive Aids In Community's Need

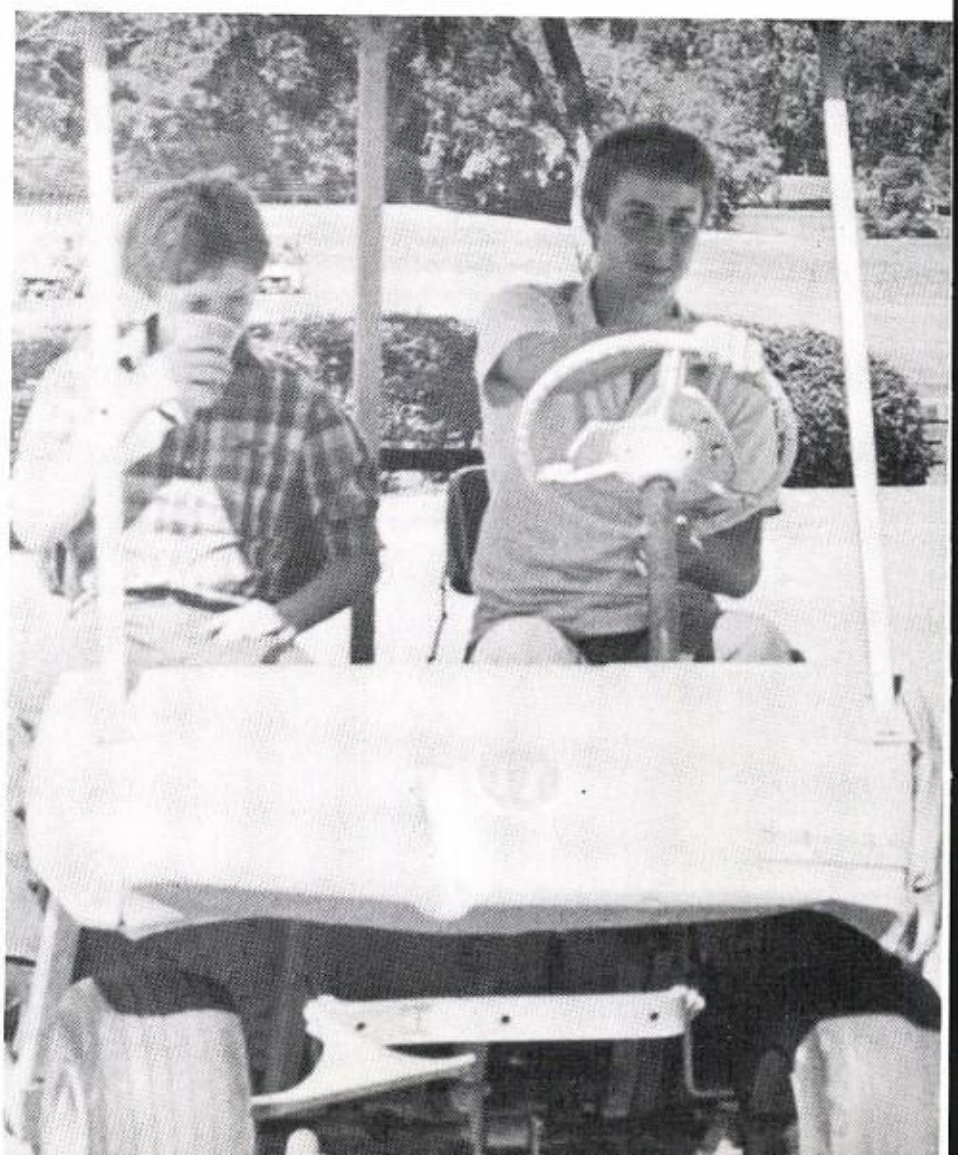

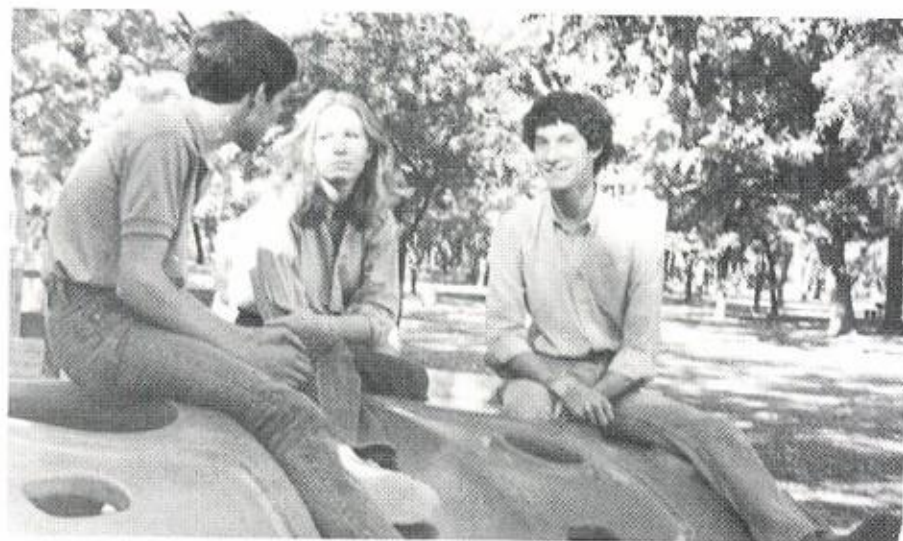

The Leadership Committee sponsored a drive to replenish the blood stored at the Carter Blood Center. Students, teachers and exes responded well to this cause. After the qualified donors gave blood, they were treated to cookies and punch to provide a beneficial energy boost. The central purpose of the drive was to make needed blood available to the immediate family members of those who donated.

Spring Plays Havoc With School Regimen

The increasingly warm temperatures of spring cast a glow of laziness over students who participated in such mentally strenuous activities as playing in the park and soaking up the sun. Dress transformed stiff, thick clothes of winter to the laid-back costumes of shorts, sandals and bathing suits, accompanied by sunglasses to protect students' eyes from the bright sunlight. Schoolwork took a back seat to trips during spring break. The laziness brought on by the March winds really made the students anticipate summer and the irresponsibility it held.

Costumes Add To Schooldays

Panthers made merry on dress up days. On these occasions, a stranger walking down the halls of Paschal might feel especially out of place. He or she might notice great nostalgia on 50's day; he might feel stranded on a lone prairie on western day; he might feel like he had invaded the North Pole on a Christmas dress up day. Students compounded their creativity with boldness to come up with some exceedingly clever costumes, such as Andrew Carr and Danny Hall who portrayed the Blues Brothers. Most of all, the students enjoyed this outlandish change in wardrobe.

School Campus Unites Students

The common bond tying together all the students was the campus itself. Students met in the cafeteria for lunch, exchanged gossip by their lockers, and congregated in the parking lots. They caught up on their school work in the library, on the steps, or any other comfortable spot they could locate. They "loitered" in the front foyer before school, after school, and during lunch, making contact with friends they did not otherwise see during the day. Students with different and conflicting views, values, and personalities were united by the campus of Paschal High School.

Honors

Mr. Paschal

Bobby Patton

Miss Paschal

Susannah Touzel

Bobby and Susannah Exemplify Paschal

Leadership, intelligence, and school spirit were just a few of the qualities that prompted seniors to vote for Bobby Patton, Mr. Paschal of 1981. When he wasn't leading cheers or playing baseball, Bobby was participating in extracurricular activities as well as academic programs. He served in many capacities: Leadership Committee, United High School Council representative, president of the student body, annual staff reporter, baseball player, cheerleader, Latin Club member, and AFS member. His other achievements included being honored in WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS and by the SOCIETY OF DISTINGUISHED AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS. Some of his hobbies included fishing and playing tennis.

Although he had many commitments, he maintained a 3.7 grade average. Another mark of academic achievement was membership in the National Honor Society. Bobby helped keep the Paschal standard high by combining scholarship and participation in organizations and athletics.

The senior class did not find any difficulty in electing Susannah Touzel, Miss Paschal of 1981. Her sunny disposition and lively sense of humor delighted students and teachers and enabled her to make new friends easily. Not only a favorite with seniors, Susannah gained the friendship of underclassmen through her amazing talent to make anyone who knew her actually feel a part of Paschal.

Susannah participated in almost every extracurricular activity possible. She was Leadership Committee representative, vice president of the student body, student council member, annual staff photographer, girls' vice president of PSOP, and a Powder Puff player for two years. She also participated in OAA, Student Advisory Committee, Latin club, and Presidential Classroom. Some of her hobbies included swimming, horse-back riding, and playing the guitar. She was awarded the Optimist Club Outstanding Senior Girl award. The class of 1981 expressed their admiration of this vibrant senior in their selection of Susannah Touzel as Miss Paschal.

Paschal Honors Finalists

Participation in activities and maintenance of high academic standards were of prime importance in the selection of Mr. and Miss Paschal finalists. Keeping this in mind, the senior class elected Bobby Shropshire, Mike Bevers, Lisa Weaver, and Lisa Sprinkle as the four finalists.

Bobby Shropshire, involved with varsity basketball and the Latin club, enjoyed all sports. Mike Bevers, who participated in PSOP, PANTHERETTE, student council, senior cabinet, baseball, Latin club, and the National Honor Society, also found time for several hobbies: camping, fishing, and golf.

Lisa Weaver participated in varsity and junior varsity cheerleading and gymnastics, as well as being elected junior class favorite, senior class favorite, Homecoming Queen finalist, and being honored in WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS. Her hobbies included swimming and gymnastics. Lisa Sprinkle participated in the Leadership Committee, Drill Team, and senior cabinet. Some of her hobbies included dancing and collecting items for her doll house.

Because of their spirited and enthusiastic support of school functions, these four upper-classmen were appropriately honored as Mr. and Miss Paschal finalists.

Friendly Seniors Selected Favorites

The senior class chose Trey Fielder as favorite for many reasons. He was a varsity cheerleader, attended Boys' State, was a member of the National Honor Society, and was listed in WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS. His hobbies included such diverse activities as playing the guitar, scuba diving, and skiing. Many students were drawn to Trey because of his easy-going and friendly manner.

Senior class favorite Lisa Weaver brightened the halls of Paschal with her vibrant personality. She followed her year as junior varsity cheerleader with two years as varsity cheerleader. Lisa earned her place in WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, was a member of the Homecoming court, and the gymnastics team. In her spare time, she enjoyed swimming. Lisa's warmth and outgoing style helped her gain the friendship of her classmates.

Talented Finalists Come Close

The four favorite finalists — Woody Holman, Jon DeLuca, Linda Balcom, and Belinda Franklin — exhibited admirable athletic as well as artistic qualities. Linda played Powder Puff, was a member of the drill team, and took dancing classes. Belinda was selected for all-district choir. Jon and Woody played on the baseball team, with Jon lettering for three years. Belinda and Jon were members of PSOP and the National Honor Society. This group of finalists enjoyed such hobbies as sailing, photography, bowling, and fishing.

Juniors Justly Chosen as Favorite

Fernando Pacheco was chosen favorite because of his affability and achievements. In addition to the athletic skill evidenced by his three years on the golf team, he received several academic honors which included being on the honor roll, receiving a geometry award, and being named in WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS. The class decided Fernando was the perfect choice for junior class favorite.

The class of '82 chose Shelagh Brown as favorite for the third consecutive year. Her energetic personality and eagerness to meet people made her a well known figure to her classmates. Shelagh, a varsity cheerleader, was active in Young Life as well as being a high jumper for the track team. A "B" honor roll student, she was selected for WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS. Her hobbies include gymnastics, water skiing, and talking on the telephone.

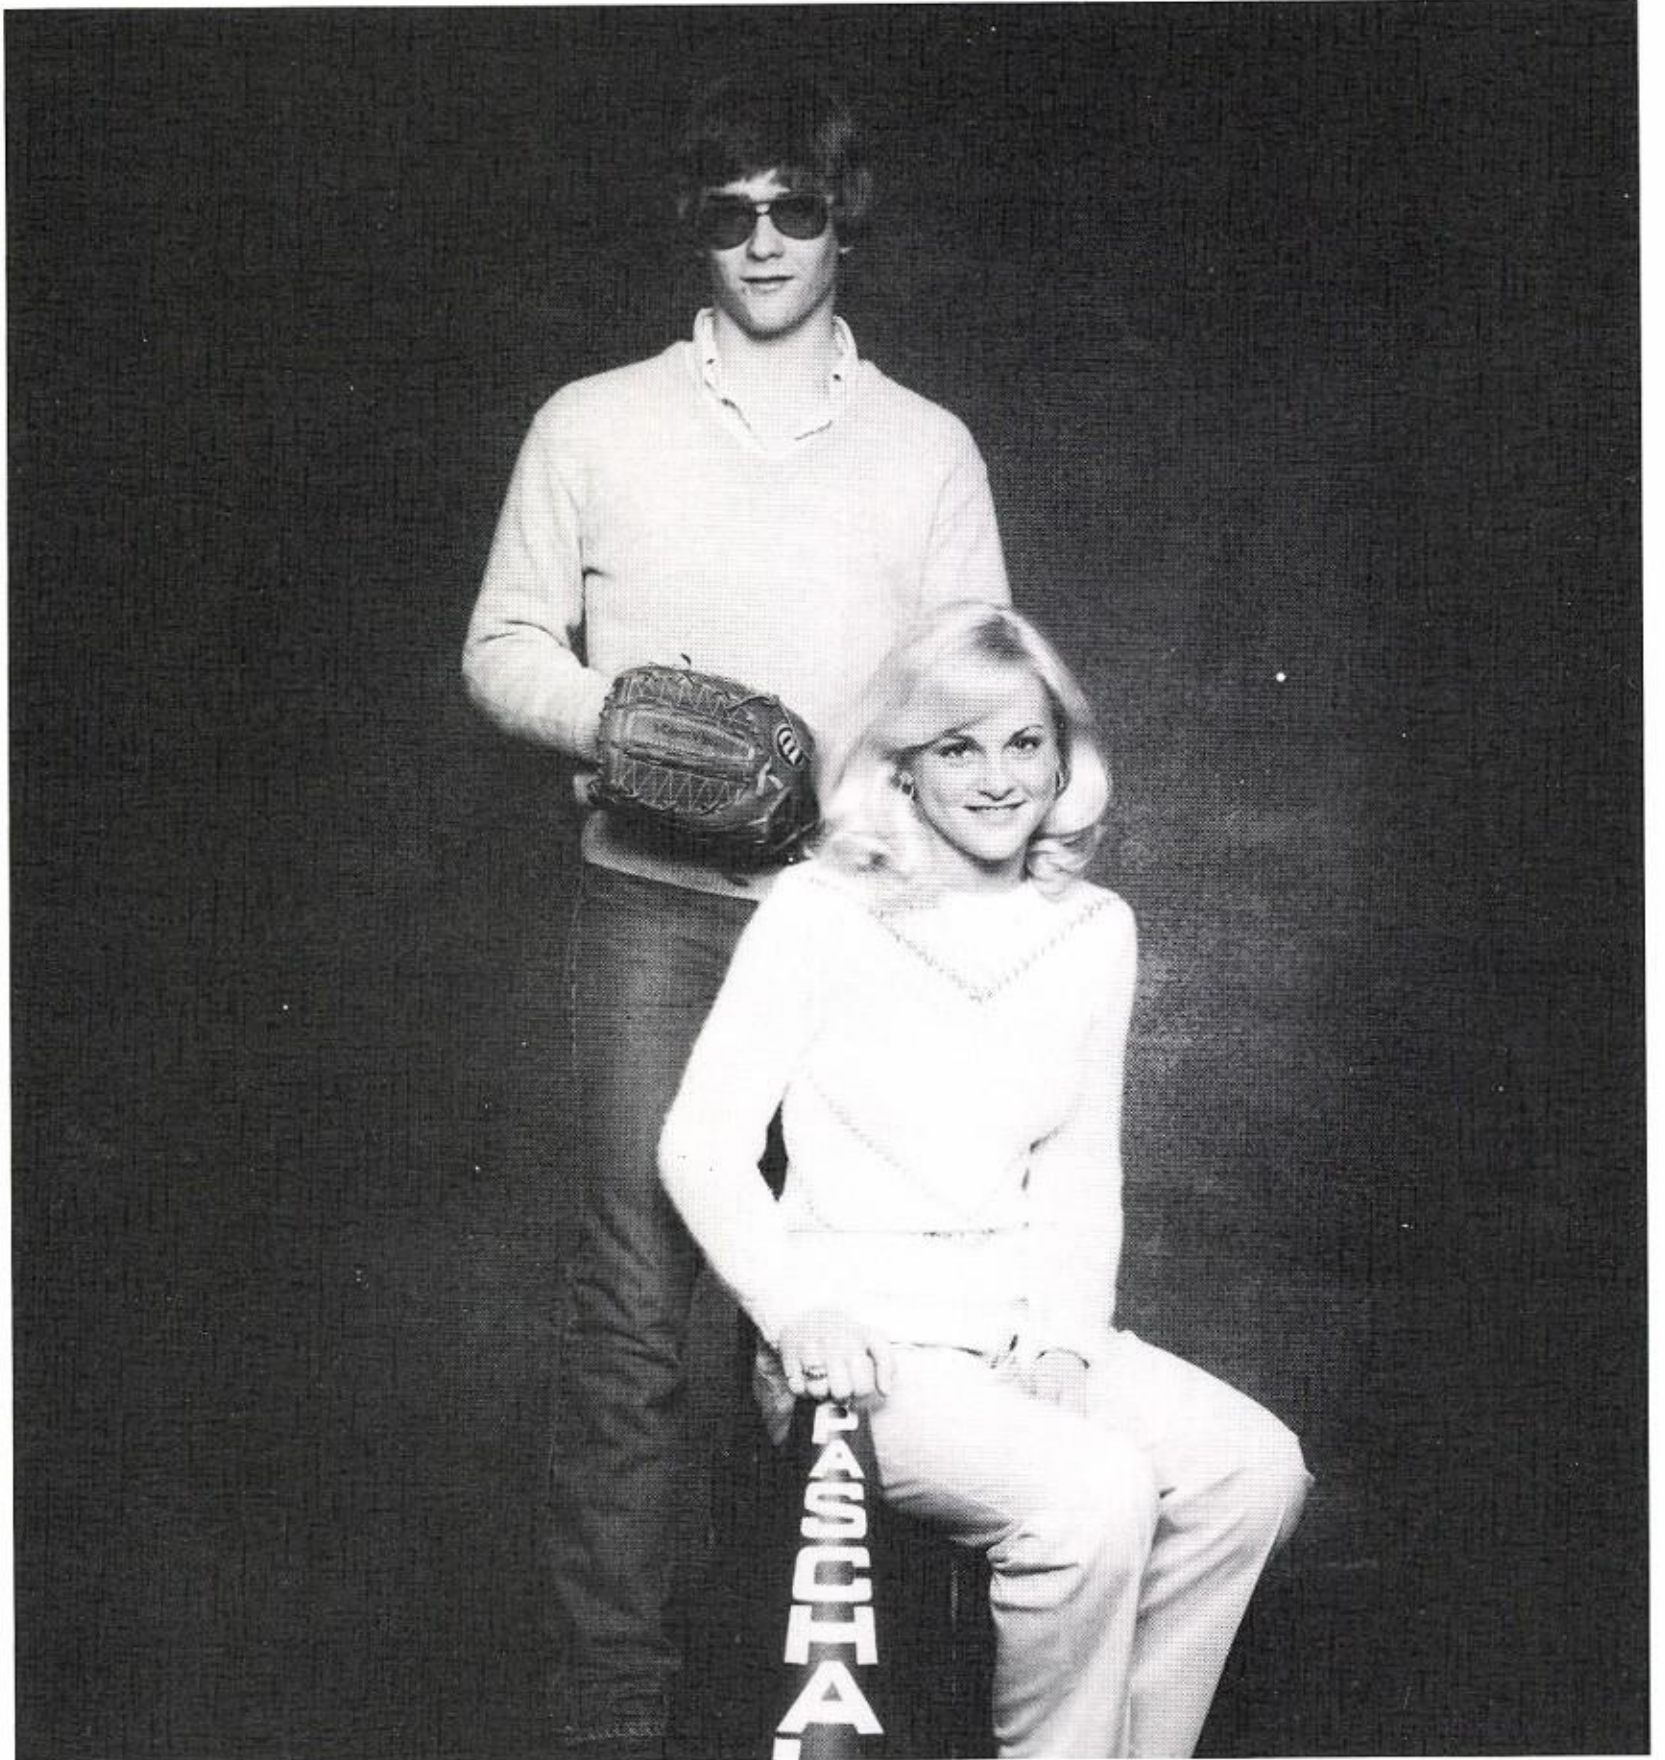

Favorite Finalists Radiate Personality

Close competition in the race for junior favorite came from Lynn McNeill, Rita McDonald, Janet Hicks, and Carl Johnson. Lynn served on the Student Council with Rita and Janet. He was on the Leadership Committee, in the German Club, and he enjoyed water and snow skiing, racquetball, and golf. Rita enjoyed motorcycle riding and pencil sketching. Janet danced on drill team, as well as being Miss NAACP in 1979. Carl lettered in varsity football, participated in Young Life, and liked hunting and other sports. Janet and Rita were on the honor roll, while Lynn and Carl were active at church. These finalists saw Paschal as a good school with friendly people. Some of their favorite classes were ACT, art, P.E., and algebra.

Favorites Reach New Heights

Favorite Robert Price was enthusiastic about sports and played on the JV football and baseball teams. Outside school his interest in sports continued as he spent his spare time lifting weights and fishing. Robert said that his favorite things about Paschal were "the friendly people and most of the teachers."

Sophomore Sherri Nowell, favorite finalist in 1980, won this year's election. Sherri took part in Young Life and church activities, as well as being a JV cheerleader. Sherri's hobbies included swimming, jogging, and talking on the phone. In school, her favorite class was Mrs. Barnes' English.

Finalists Have Varied Interests

Sophomores Rhonda Kubicek, Luther Henry, Brian Frost, and Tracy Asher represented their class as runners-up for favorite. All were active in various sports such as basketball, volleyball, football, baseball, swimming, and track. Brian and Tracy were both on the "B" Honor Roll. Brian was also a member of the student council and enjoyed hunting, and both water and snow skiing. He was also an active member of Young Life. Tracy showed her spirit by being in PAWS.

Some of her hobbies included dancing, reading, and boys. Luther was a member of the Ebony Club and active in his church youth group. He enjoyed talking on the phone and listening to records. Rhonda was also active in her church youth group. In her spare time she enjoyed reading and roller skating. When asked what they liked best about Paschal, all the finalists agreed their favorite things were the friendly students and the helpful teachers.

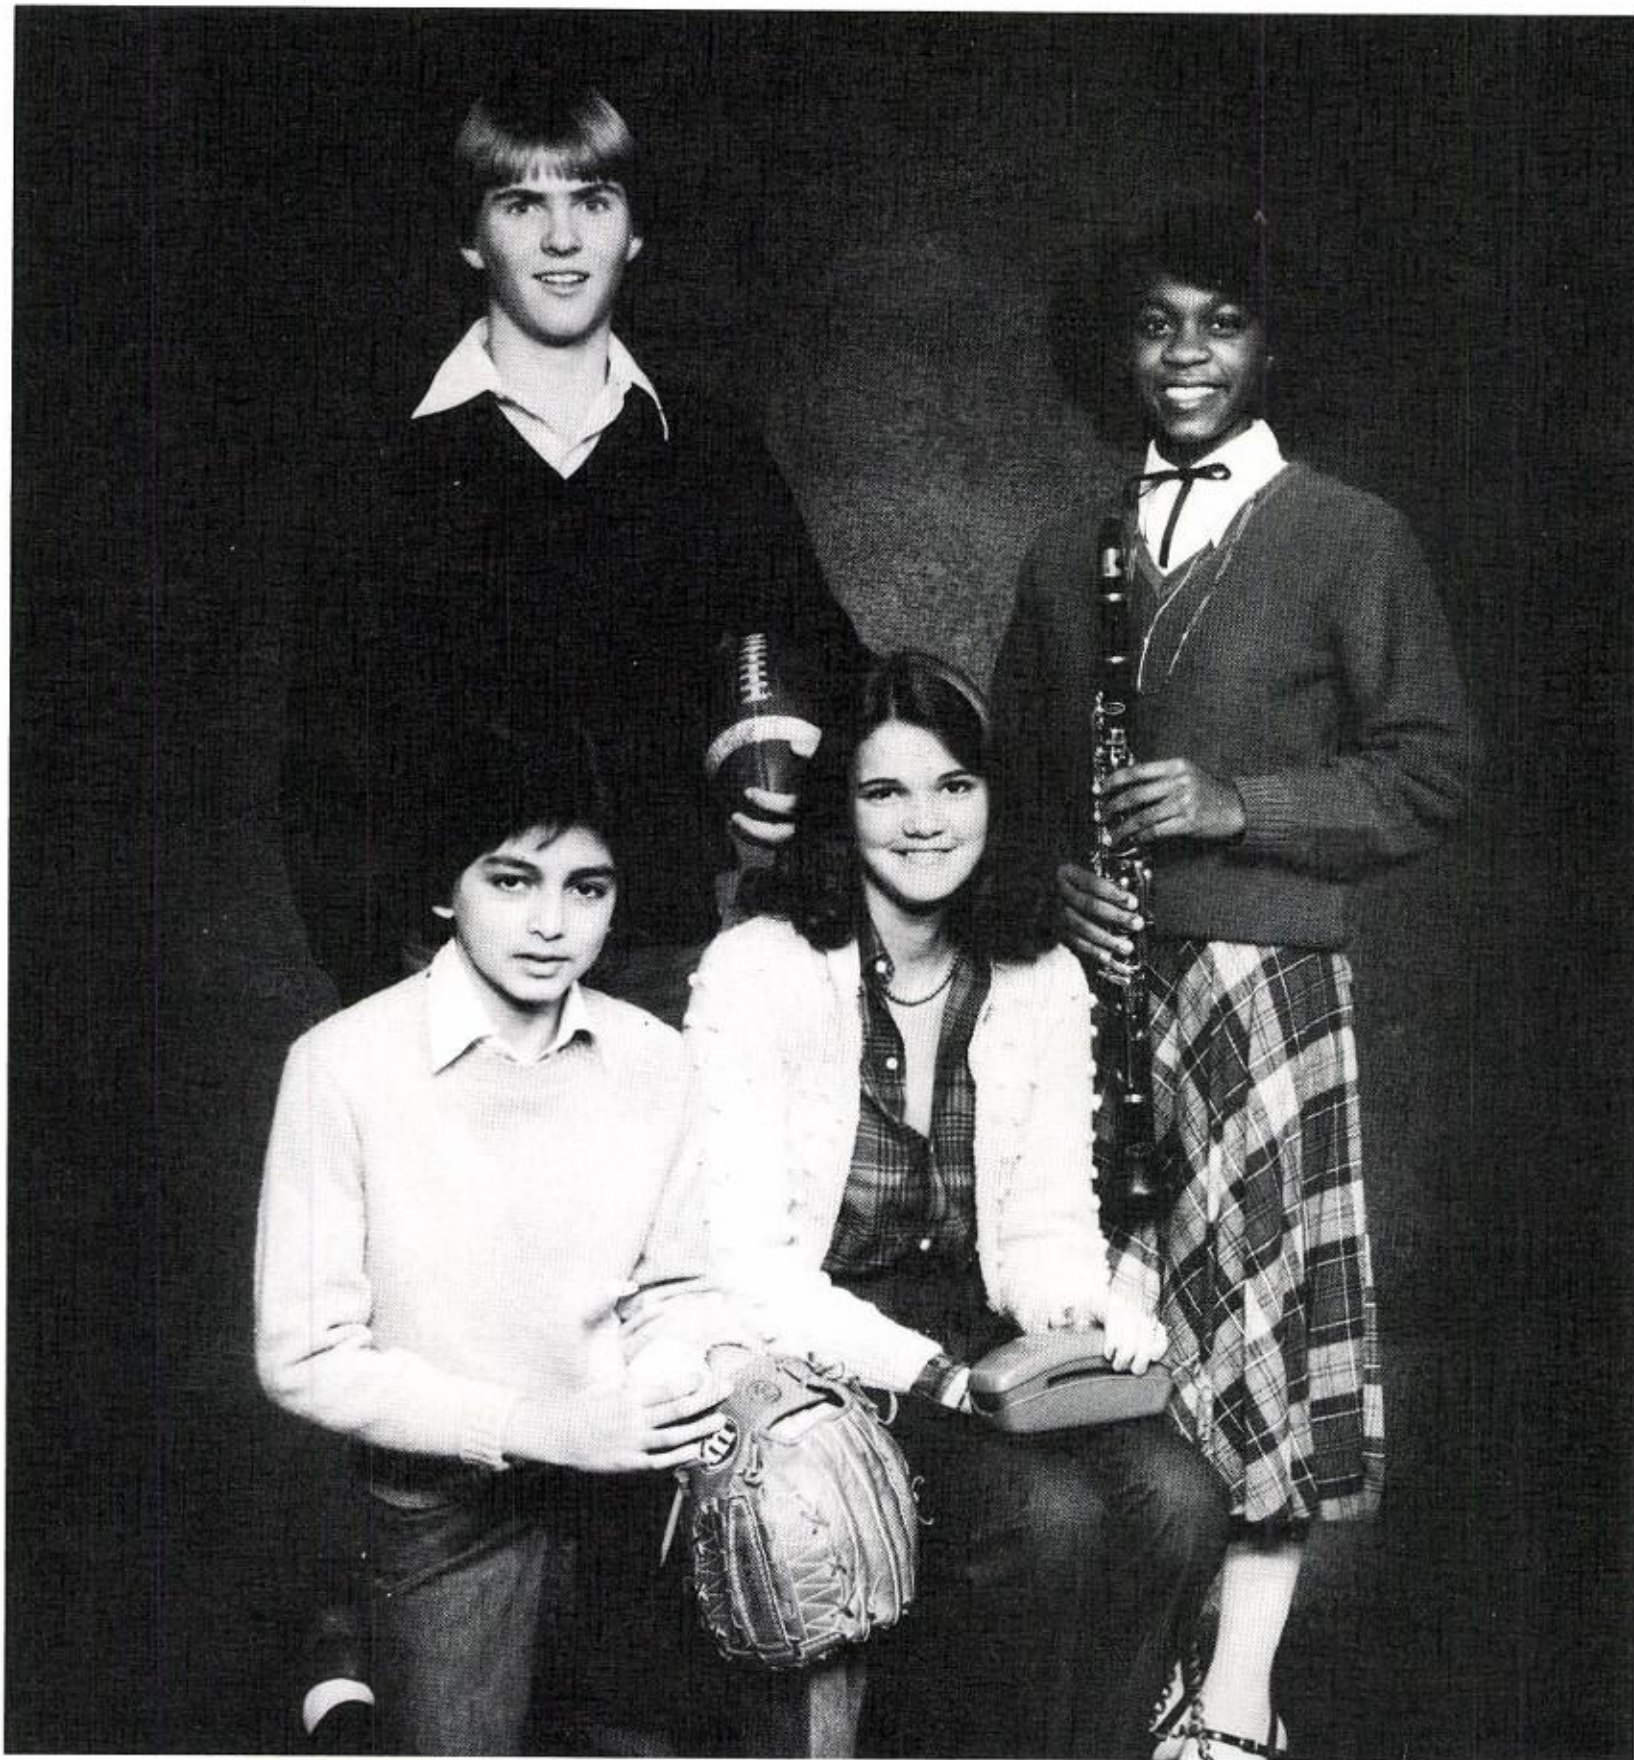

Favorites Enjoy Various Hobbies

Byron Burns was chosen freshman class favorite because of his involvement in school activities. As a member of the track team, he participated in the 440 dash, mile-relay, and 440 relay. He also played the trumpet in the band. Byron enjoyed art, band, and algebra while maintaining a "B" average.

Laura VanAmburgh, with her winning smile, was elected freshman favorite. She was also elected LC representative. By studying diligently in her classes, Laura earned honor cards each six weeks. Mrs. Annie Conley's geometry class was Laura's favorite. Outside school, she enjoyed Young Life and hobbies, such as painting and jogging.

Class of '84 Chooses Finalists

This year's favorite finalists included Carter Johnston, Richard Escobedo, Melissa Cox, and Connie Johnson. Connie was on the Leadership Committee and in the Ebony Club. She also belonged to Drill Team and participated in her church choir and in Miss Youth pageants.

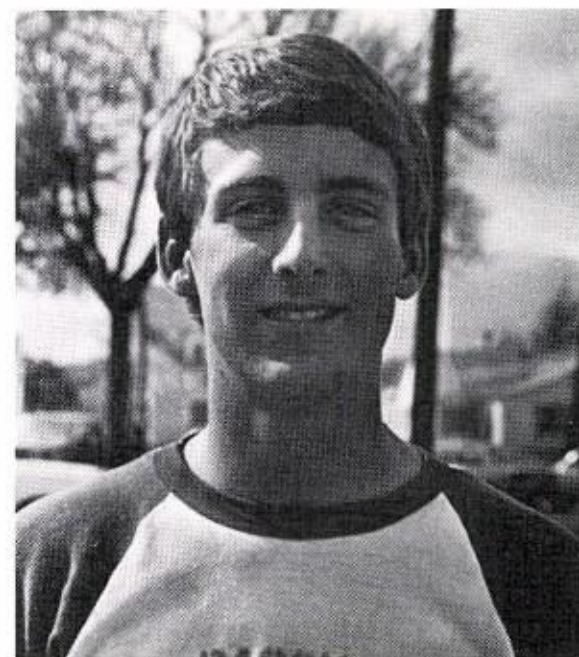

Carter played on the golf team and worked with motorcycles in his spare time. Melissa was a Latin Club member and a gymnast. In her free time she enjoyed playing tennis. Richard, a member of Latinos in Action, involved himself in baseball during his free hours.

Royal Purple Revived

This year the PANTHER staff reinstated the Royal Purple section in the annual. Students pictured in this section were nominated and chosen solely by the teachers who were asked to consider students who made the teachers want to continue working in this school. Selections were also based on scholastics, school loyalty, citizenship, and participation in school and extracurricular activities. The list was narrowed to those people the teachers considered to be the top students in each grade. The 1981 PANTHER staff is proud to honor the people pictured on these pages.

Board Improves Relations

The Board of Education of the Fort Worth Independent School District (FWISD), guided by Dr. I. Carl Candoli in his first year as Superintendent, implemented a new policy of more direct responsibility to its "clients." Dr. Candoli, along with the eight board members elected from single member districts and the at-large president, were responsible for setting policies as well as developing and improving instructional programs. Along with Dr. Candoli, board members encouraged more active participation in the system by speaking at schools and by advertising the dates of report card issuance on television, thus improving community relations. In addition, the board held fiscal responsibilities, which were met by collecting taxes, a difficult task during a year calling for tax reform.

Principal Ralph Miller along with Vice-Principals Herman Baldwin, A. M. Erwin, and Prudence Laird carried out their duties as administrators diligently. The four principals worked to guide and assist Pachalites, to maintain discipline, and to encourage school traditions.

Mr. Miller's main concern was improving instruction and scholastic ratings. Along with other responsibilities, Mr. Miller was involved with student life and activities around the school. He felt he should encourage honesty, sportsmanship, and pride in oneself in order for each student to build a proud character from which he would benefit. Assisting Mr. Miller in his traditional responsibilities were the vice principals. Among their duties were textbook distribution, registration, busloading, and parking lot supervision, as well as student discipline.

Clerks Aid School

The office staff aided faculty, students, and visitors. Paschal's new secretary, Jody Gatewood, worked in the main office, handling telephone calls, mail, office bulletins, school supplies, and the lost and found.

Mrs. Laura McEntire, who previously had worked at Nash Elementary School, served as the financial secretary. She kept records of organization monies as well as collecting payment for lost textbooks.

Mrs. Dolores Shaw took over the job of secretary and assistant registrar. Her duties included the handling of transcripts, the keeping of personnel records, the typing of eligibility lists, and correspondence for Mr. Miller.

Taking care of the attendance office were Mrs. Oleta Cope and Mrs. Marguerite Fricke. They handled absentees, tardies, dismissals, and messages to students.

Students Rely on Counselors

By working with a student through each of his or her four years, the counselors played a guiding role. Though the changes in class periods, schedules, and grading periods were frequent, the counseling center successfully managed the arrangement of classes for each student, and the updating of his or her transcript. Since not all students traveled the same path after high school, counselors made different opportunities available to students. For those interested in an immediate occupation, there were the occupational preference exams and the job information computer. For those desiring a post high school education, the counseling center played host to representatives from various colleges and universities around the nation, and offered Scholastic Achievement Tests. In addition, counselors were available during school hours to advise students on their personal and academic questions.

Individual Needs Met

The plan "A" program was designed to help those students with some learning disability. These students were recommended to the program by the school system's referral service. In the program, the student was tested to locate the area of his or her impediment. He or she was given psychological tests and the multi-sensory approach was used to see if the student simply could not accept a medium, such as printed material. Once the hindrance was found, an individual program in math and/or English was developed. Through this individual attention, the student could achieve the academic level of his or her peers.

With the rearrangement of grading periods, the English department was able to expand grammar lessons. Spelling, word usage, and sentence structure exercises were emphasized. On the senior and junior levels, literature/composition provided focus during the second semester. For sophomores and freshmen, the entire first semester was devoted to grammar. Literature was not forgotten, however; the students were exposed to the masters, from Poe to Shakespeare in the many available courses.

Other than the set pattern of English one through eight, more challenging courses such as American Culture and Thought, Honors English, and Advanced Placement English were available. For those who desired additional language arts skills, journalism and creative writing electives were offered. These two courses developed creativity as well as providing opportunities to publish works in the VIGNETTE and the PANTHERETTE. Reading enabled students to improve study and reading skills through laboratory work with audio-visual equipment.

The math department offered many different levels of math so students could select the course to fit their ability. Independent study courses, probability and statistics, number theory, linear algebra, and analytic geometry were available to advanced students.

History Program Varied

The history department offered cultural knowledge for students through required as well as elective courses. The required courses went from broad to specific topics. World history summarized the development of civilization. American history told of the struggles for democracy in the United States, while government provided an in-depth study of the resulting political system.

For college oriented juniors, American Culture and Thought combined history and literature to give needed essay experience. Other electives available included contemporary issues which helped students understand the developing controversies around them, and sociology, which gave students an understanding of the reactions of an individual in a group. Newly available under Ms. Jhani Wright was the psychology course for those interested in human behavior.

Students expressed their talent and creativity by taking courses within the fine arts department. Classes chosen from were art, drama, speech, and music. Art classes varied with the talent of the students. First and second year students centered their attention mainly on color design and drawing skills, whereas advanced art students had the privilege of choosing six art projects per semester, ranging from oil paintings to pottery.

Speech and drama were directed by Miss Susan Williams. Speech students studied areas such as public and persuasive speaking. Beginning drama participated in oral readings and character improvisations while students in play production created props and costumes in order to prepare for the spring play.

The music department was chaired by Mrs. Joy Howington. The concert, a cappella and show choirs competed in several city-wide competitions and performed in many community events and the musical.

Paschal's bands were instructed by Mr. Robert Taylor. The marching band, which was later separated into "A" band and "B" band, participated in fall and spring city contests. Paschal's orchestra, conducted by Mrs. Jean Graham played for the musical and in various concerts.

The foreign language department provided a valuable cultural link for students. The Spanish, Latin, German, and French instructors stressed not only reading, writing, and grammar, but also encouraged cultural studies. The students listened to music, saw films, and made original projects such as puppet shows and creative works such as poetry. Those who excelled were urged to join in competitions, such as Novemberfest and the Language Fair. Students of languages were able to experience the social aspects of foreign study through the language clubs. Aside from bringing the culture from abroad to Fort Worth, teachers such as Mrs. Marian Newland brought the language and customs of Fort Worth to others. Mrs. Newland headed the English for Speakers of Other Language program. In this, students newly located to the Fort Worth area were able to adjust more readily to its language.

The business department offered students practical skills for occupational and personal use. Typing classes taught the basics from keyboard positions to letter form, manuscripts, and carbon pack arrangements. Advanced typing classes worked with multi-spaced executive typewriters and dictating machines. Personal business management taught the basics in home records keeping, while accounting taught bookkeeping practices on a larger scale for the career oriented individual. Other classes included business law, business math, and shorthand, which taught quick note taking methods as well as secretarial stenography.

Vocational education courses provided job skills in a variety of fields. For the student interested in sales and marketing, Distributive Education (DE) offered one of several cooperative plans which combined on-the-job training with high school classes. Vocational Office Education (VOE) was divided into VOE Co-op which allowed seniors to work in general office situations and VOE Lab. Medical facilities provided jobs for those enrolled in Health Occupation Cooperative Education (HOCE) while Home Economics Cooperative Education (HECE) students worked in several different fields. Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) involved work in construction and automotive trades. Child Development allowed those interested in child care and education to be volunteer aides in elementary schools. Interior design classes developed student skill in home furnishings and interior decorating. Campus programs in Coordinated Vocational Academic Education (CVAE) also offered two options, food service and office duplication. In addition, home economics classes such as homemaking and home and family living offered consumer and home management skills. Through these vocational programs, students pursued career aims.

Physical education courses provided exercise for students as well as involvement in team and individual sports. Regular classes developed physical fitness through activities such as bowling, softball, volleyball, skating, and weight lifting. Team sports included football and baseball for boys and volleyball, softball and gymnastics for girls. Co-ed teams were track, basketball, soccer, tennis, and swimming. Finally, with a greater knowledge of themselves, the students were given thought provoking questions to answer in the ecology unit, which discussed the earthly surroundings that would soon become the responsibility of the individual.

"Hands-on" was the key to industrial arts training. Students working toward a specific career were given practical experience to help direct their studies. Mechanical drawing classes gave students an ability to work with the many symbols and practices of the various engineering fields, while wood and metal working allowed each individual to train himself to artistically handle and form his respective material. Power mechanics students learned the basics in auto and small engine workings for personal knowledge and career training.

Panthers Open With Win

The 1980 football season opened in a big way with a 26-14 win over the Poly Parrots. A balanced Paschal offensive attack featured quarterback Ardis Ramey throwing touchdown passes of 35 and 25 yards to receivers Alfred Jackson and Mark Patterson. This was enough to give the Panthers a victory in the season opener.

The preseason ended leaving a question in the minds of all Paschalites as to the success of the upcoming district season. After a 35-19 loss to the Longview Lobos and a 23-7 loss to the Kimball Knights, it became apparent the Panther team would have to do some regrouping to bring home the district crown. But behind the strong running of David Brooks and a defensive line based by such players as Tim Hunter and John Barajas, the district title was well within Paschal's reach.

▲▲▶ The Panthers are off to a running start as they begin the football season.

Pre-Season Rivals Prove Too Strong

Pass Proves Harmful to PHS

▼▼ Signal-caller Ardis Ramey prepares to take the snap from center Steve Barrett.

▼▼► Tim, never mind that cheerleader, you have to play football! Coach Brewer sends defensive captain Tim Hunter in with the next play.

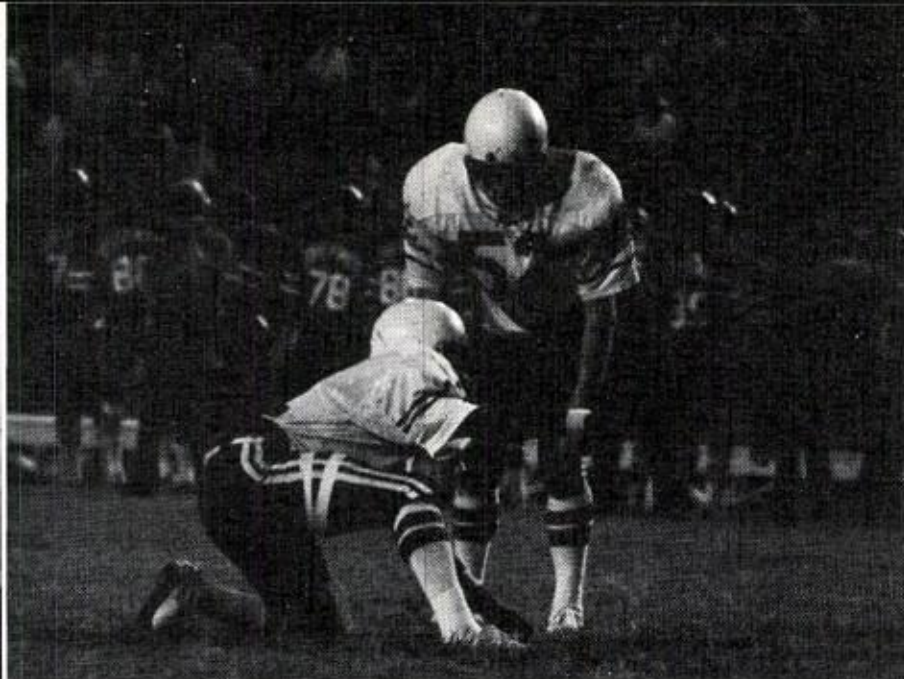

The first half of the 1980 football season produced a dim record of 1-3, but showed a team that wouldn't give up. In the district opener, the Panthers fought head to head with the Highlanders, but allowed EHHS to score on two deep touchdown passes, giving them the victory 20-7.

In the loss to Southwest, Paschal dominated every aspect of the game except the pass. The Rebels passed for four touchdowns as they pulled out a close game 35-33.

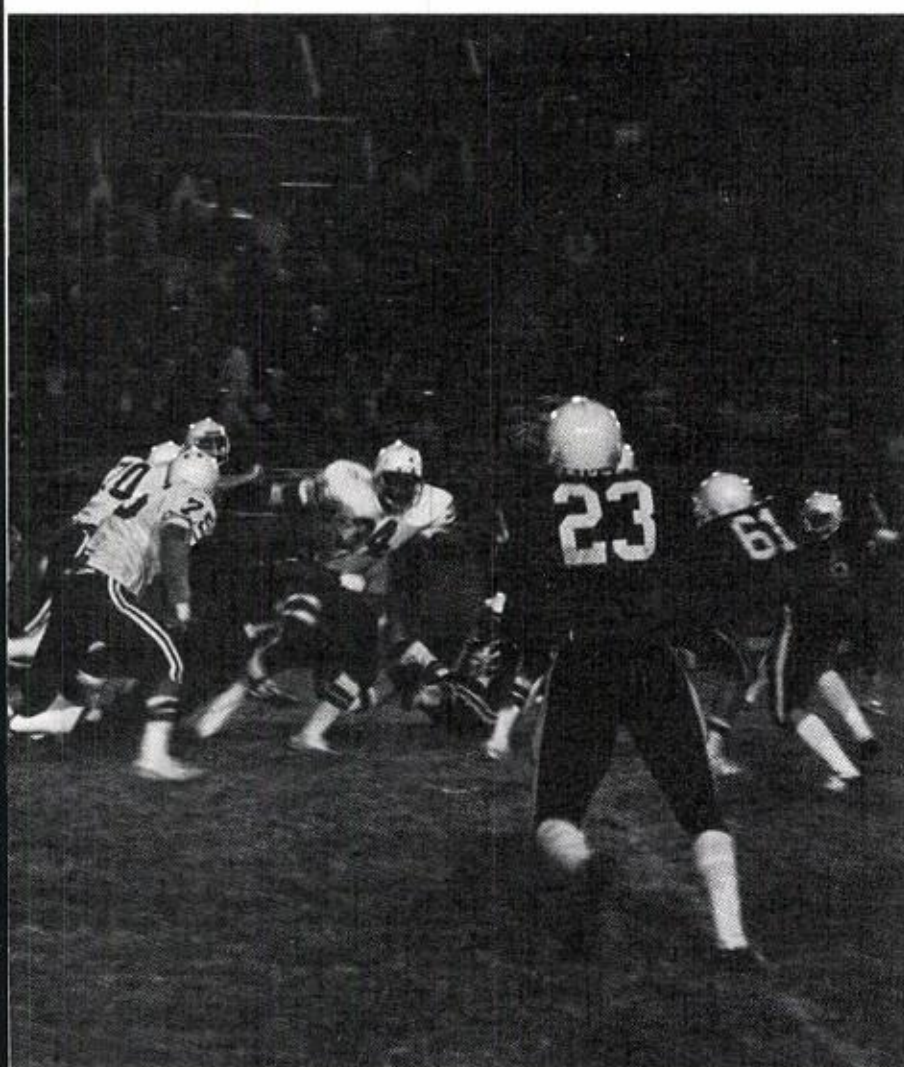

The first win of the district season emerged from a game that was dominated by both defenses. After a scoreless first half and a Bulldog touchdown, David Brooks punched in touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters to give the Panthers a win over Trimble Tech 16-7.

Perhaps the most exciting game of every season is the match against Arlington Heights, and this one was no exception. Both teams moved the ball well, but once in the opponent's territory, both defenses stiffened. In the fourth quarter Heights pushed in for a touchdown and a very important extra point. The Panthers took the ensuing kickoff and drove 72 yards in under three minutes to score on a 23 yard touchdown run by Brooks. The Panthers then elected to go for the two point conversion and failed. Despite outgaining Heights on the ground, the Panthers fell to 1-3 in district play and 2-5 for the season.

▲► Football . . . you bet! Mark Stanley (63), Richard McLamore (37), and Greg Jenkins (74) think about the game.

► Hold em guys, I'm coming! The Panther defense bears down, as Robert Fielder (73) comes to help.

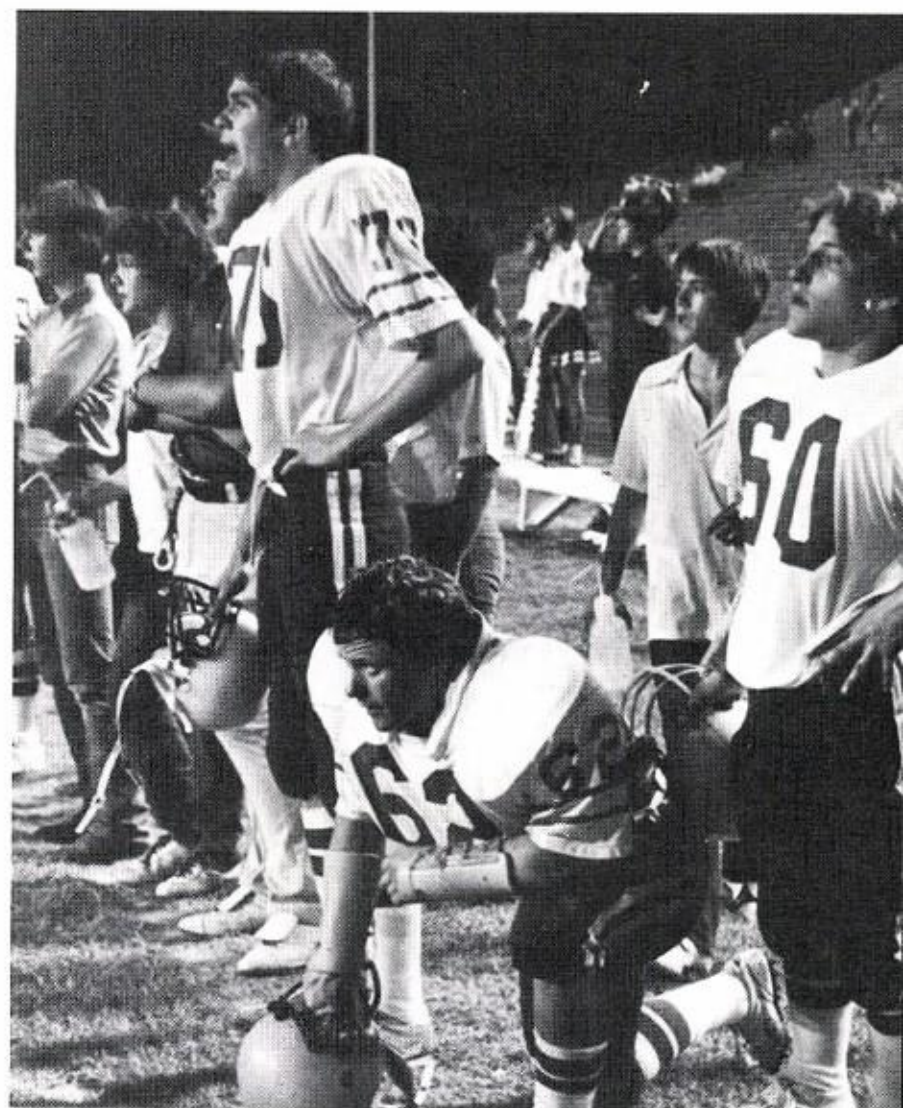

Homecoming Clash Close Contest

► Why is our player running the wrong way? Marcus Fleming (76), Paul Glenn (62), and Stuart Clegg (60) watch the game.

▼ Rusty, get your big hip-pads out of my way! As Rusty Bowsher (70) blocks out Wyatt defenders, David Brooks (34) muscles his way for a first down in the Homecoming game.

▼▼ How am I supposed to know who we're playing, what am I, the coach or something? Andy Moore (33) and coach Phil Hall discuss game strategies.

This year's homecoming game ended in a disappointing manner as the Wyatt Chaparrals won 25-18. The Panthers scored early to take the lead, but to no avail as the Chaps came back with two unanswered touchdowns.

The Thursday night game, against WHHS, again appeared to be lucky, as the Panther's won 22-16. Paschal dominated the whole game as the Cougars seemed unable to penetrate mighty purple defense.

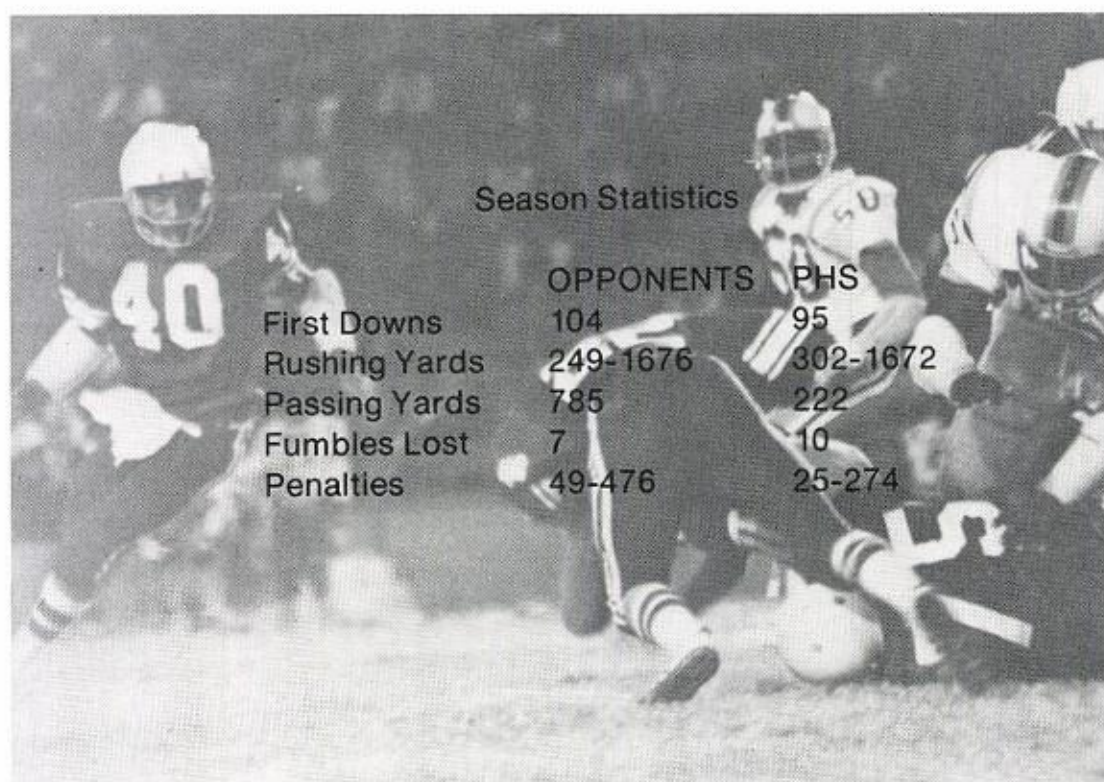

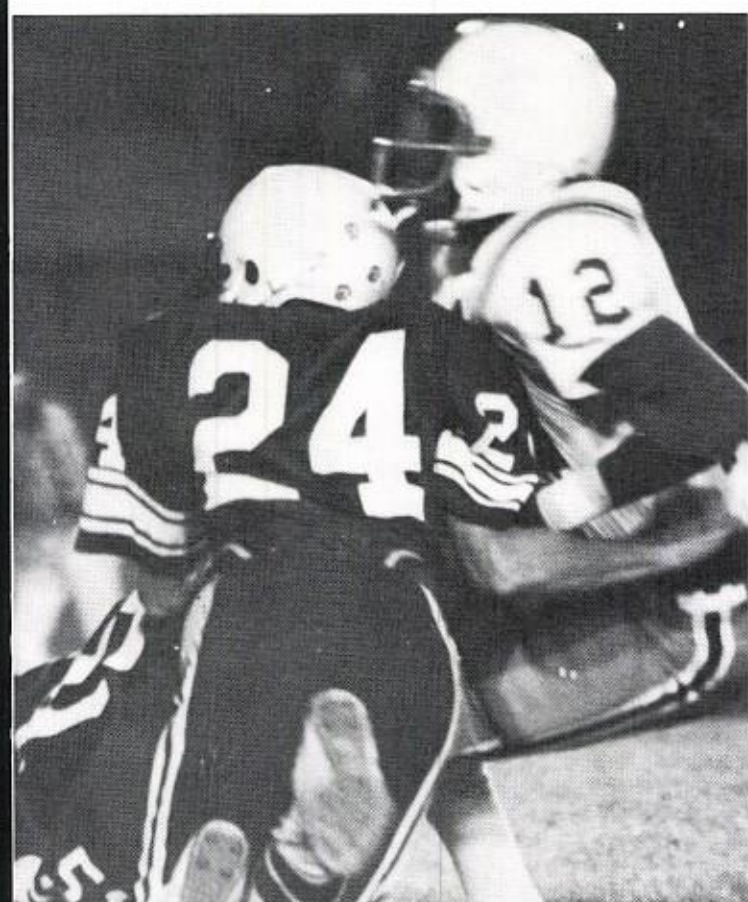

Chilled by a light drizzle and biting winds, the school's true athletic supporters were out to watch the Panther's final game against Dunbar. The cold weather almost seemed to freeze the purple machine, as they were shut out for the first time this year, 47-0.

JV Posts Record of 3-7

The JV football team proved to be tough, despite many setbacks during the year. Coached by Jimmie Crowder and George Taplin, the boys spent many hours practicing to develop a strongly skilled team. Even though the team was defeated in their first two games against Poly and Richland, they bounced back to a 14-12 win over Trimble Tech. The JV team then surprised Eastern Hills with a decisive 16-7 victory in the first game of district play. Although they suffered losses in the next two games to Southwest and Trimble Tech, they prevailed over Arlington Heights 26-6. This game proved to be the highlight of the season. The last hopes for a district title were extinguished when they lost the last three games. These hard-working sophomores and juniors completed the season with a record of 3-7, defeating Trimble Tech, Eastern Hills, and Arlington Heights.

Freshmen Hold Promise for Future

The freshman football team developed their skill as athletes under the direction of coaches Herb Stephens and Jim Wall. The team's enthusiasm and determination resulted in strength on the field which was evidenced by a tie in the first game with Western Hills. The freshmen next pooled their efforts to overcome Carter Riverside 28-8. After this encouraging win, the Panthers rallied to defeat Eastern Hills 28-12 in the district opener. Despite many valiant attempts, the winning streak was broken when the offense could not put enough points on the board to bring home a victory from Southwest, Trimble Tech, or Arlington Heights. Following these disappointing losses, the coaches revived the vitality of the fighting team to insure a 28-6 victory over the Wyatt Chaparrals. The sensation of triumph ended abruptly in disillusionment when Western Hills prevented the players from scoring. Although the Panthers ended their season with a loss to Dunbar, the game resulted in a personal victory for Trey McNeil when he completed over one thousand yards passing in his first year in high school competition. Defensive linemen and backs Garry Ellison, Derrick Williams, and Larry Wallace, as well as others, contributed their special talents to signify much promise for the upcoming seasons.

Team Has Impressive Start

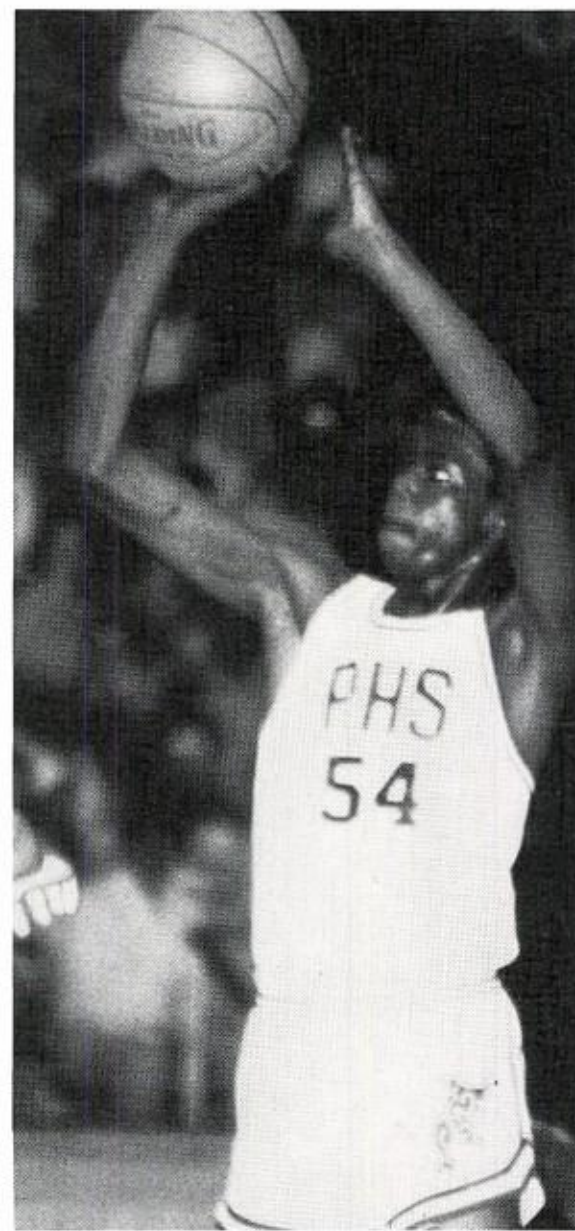

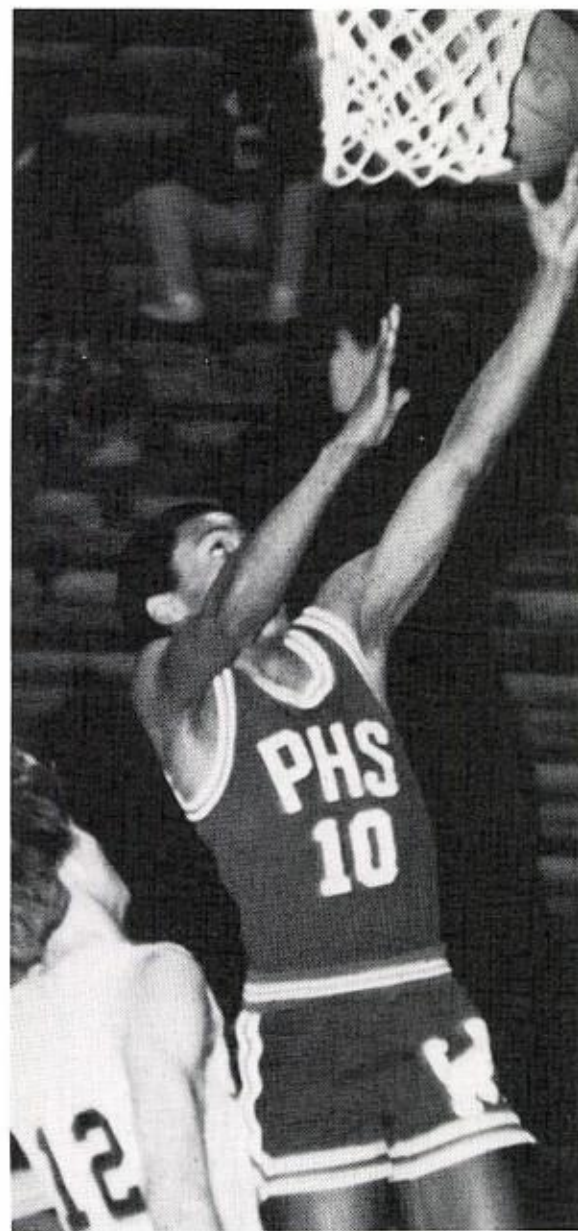

Varsity basketball posted an excellent record in early play. In addition to the many games played at home, the squad traveled to Arlington, San Antonio, and Dallas to play in the Arlington Classic, the San Antonio Tourney, and the Dr. Pepper Tourney. The team placed well in all of the tournaments with Sam Donnell being picked for the all-tournament team and Sam Norton being chosen most valuable player in the Arlington Classic. Panthers Spring Into Action

The varsity basketball team entered the season with high hopes of winning a title. The team barreled into district play with a big win over Eastern Hills. The mighty Panthers next rallied to overcome Western Hills and Arlington Heights. With Paschal, Southwest, and Dunbar in a three way tie for first place, the Southwest game proved to be a challenge. The close game depended on which team was ahead when the clock ran out. However, the cards turned in favor of Paschal when Southwest's star player, John Brownlee, fouled out of the game.

After winning an intense game by such a narrow margin, the Panthers breezed by Trimble Tech and Wyatt. As the first half drew to a close, Paschal had to face Dunbar in a show down. The game was moved to the larger TCU Daniel Meyer Coliseum to accommodate the fans. The contest was close until the last minutes when Dunbar moved ahead. Had the Panthers won, the team would have had first half honors; however, the loss created a three way tie with Southwest, Dunbar, and Paschal.

Panthers Take Second in District

Continuing their winning ways, the Panthers opened the second half of district by trouncing Eastern Hills. Western Hills fell to Paschal by only two points. The mighty Panthers then traveled to Arlington Heights where they decisively beat the Yellow Jackets. Paschal picked up momentum as they breezed past Southwest and Trimble Tech. The Panthers' next match against Wyatt was clinched when a Wyatt defender accidentally gave Paschal two points in an attempt for a rebound. Undefeated in second half, the Panthers met Dunbar once again before a sell-out crowd. The game was tense, with Paschal scoring eight unanswered points to end the first half ahead 23-22. However, the Panthers were unable to keep the lead and were defeated by the Wildcats 59-50. Once again the Panthers had to be content with second place.

Sluggers Swing Past Opposition

The all-American sport of baseball is one of the most popular of all sports. This was illustrated at Paschal where attendance was high for many of the home games. With pre-season games beginning in February, the varsity began practicing after school in September. The Panther baseball team boasted seven returning lettermen, Mike Bevers, Jesse Cortez, Myrick Cox, Jon Deluca, Johnny Hampton, K. K. Noel, Bobby Patton, and Joel Simpson. This collection of experience made this team one of the best squads in years.

JV Catches the Action

The junior varsity baseball team, composed of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, worked diligently to improve their skills. Teammates strived throughout the year to gain experience for district play. Coached by Glen Wood, the boys ran the bases and practiced batting and fielding after their regular classes. These workouts, which proved helpful to the players during the season, also were good training for prospective varsity players.

Freshmen Swing Into the Season

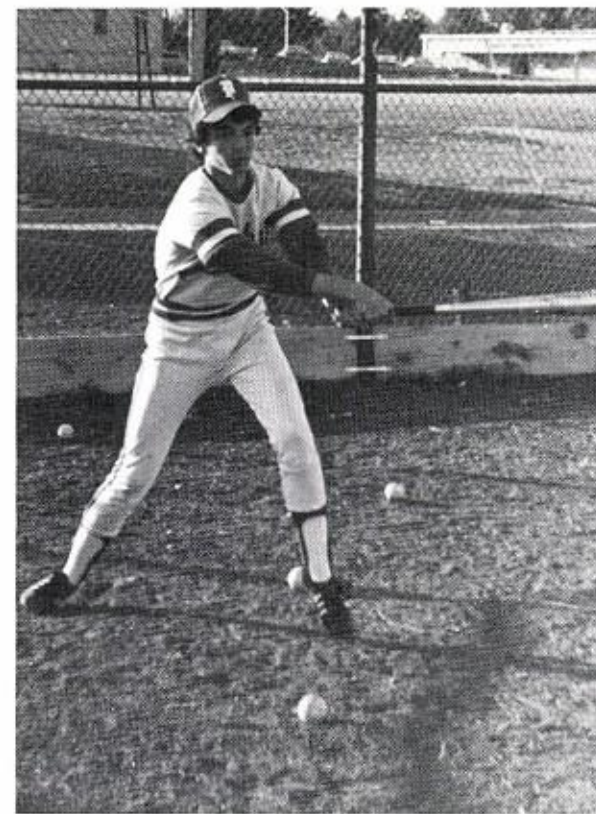

Following experiences with little league and pony league play, freshmen finally got organized at Paschal. As their first year of school-sponsored ball progressed, the boys learned the discipline necessary to play baseball and finish school work. When the season approached, players vied for starting positions. Once the squad was chosen, Coach Earwood helped prepare them for district play.

Cheerleaders Keep Traditions Alive

This year's cheerleading squad was the heart of Paschal's spirit throughout the football and basketball season, as well as other sporting events. Varsity cheerleaders — Shelagh Brown, Trey Fielder, Gina Hopkins, Bill Kelley, Bobby Patton, Molly Sisson, Mark Vinson and mascot Susie Vinson, under the superior leadership of head cheerleader Lisa Weaver, attended cheerleading camp at Texas Lutheran College in Seguin where they won superior ribbons all five nights and the coveted spirit stick at the end of the week. In addition to selling ribbons for each football game, the cheerleaders sold buttons to raise spirit and money.

Boys' Track Runs Past Opposition

Tracksters began working out at the beginning of the year to prepare for their spring season. Workouts at Farrington Field and at Paschal prepared the Panther track team for an excellent season. The strongest event this year was the mile relay consisting of Alfred Jackson, James Carodine, Rondell McAfee, and Andy Moore. Other outstanding athletes were Scott Cameron in the pole vault, Scott Blocker in the 120 high and the 330 intermediate hurdles, and Robert Fielder in the shot and discus.

Girl Runners Stride Toward Victory

Mrs. Charlotte Allar coached the girls' track team. Although basketball and volleyball interfered with track workouts during the early part of the year, the girls practiced every day after school during the second semester. With Dana Hall in the long jump and the triple jump and Mary Woodard in the 880 and the low hurdles, the Panthers made a good showing in district competition. In the Southwest Conference Indoor Track meet, Renee King made an outstanding showing by winning a first place in the shot put.

Wrestlers Place In State Tourney

Dominating opponents in every part of the city this year was Paschal's wrestling team which earned fourth in the Trinity tournament and fifth in the Lake Highlands tournament. The Panthers finished third in district, and sixth in regionals. Qualifying for the state tournament were Jonathan Helm, John Milhollin with a second place in the 112 pound division, and Russell Milhollin with a fourth place in the 119 pound division. Over all the Panther wrestling team finished thirteenth in the state.

Team Improves Competitive Skills

The boys' tennis team worked all year to improve court talents. Coached by Weldon Lotspeich, the team entered tournaments in Duncanville, Irving, and Hurst, and had matches against Southwest, Eastern Hills, Burleson, and Arlington High School. Players Brandon Bledsoe, Jay Blinderman, Ricky Flowers, Alston Roberts, Raymond Morphis, Joey Ray, and Billy Whitmire made up the competitive team. The strength of the players lay in their willingness to work hard for their goals.

Girls' Tennis Team Thrives

The girls' tennis team thrived under the second year of strong leadership by Coach David Helbing. A serious running program, which was incorporated in daily team routine, increased the endurance and physical fitness of the girls.

Starting in September, the team exercised and practiced, playing matches against schools such as Southwest, Eastern Hills, Burleson, and Arlington High School. When spring hit, the varsity team traveled to places like Hurst, Duncanville, and Irving to play in invitational tournaments. The season climaxed with the district tournament, played in Fort Worth.

The strict discipline of Coach Helbing encouraged the players to become more than just potentially good; the girls worked to become a unified, dedicated team.

Students Flip for Gymnastics

After teaching gymnastics for ten years in Australia, Coach Charlotte Allar was well qualified to direct the gymnastics team. For the second consecutive year, she planned work outs and meets for the squad. They competed in tournaments with other schools in such events as the balance beam, floor exercises, the parallel bars, and the vault. Gaining in popularity with boys as well as girls, gymnastics grew in numbers and enthusiasm.

Swimmers Stroke to Success

The swim team, coached by Sherree Wood, had a busy year competing in district meets. Strenuous workouts every afternoon brought decreased times as the season progressed. Proving themselves early in the season were Kathy Broiles and Karen Standerfer who posted excellent marks in the 200 yard medley relay, the butterfly, and the freestyle. Soccer Ranks High in District

A great increase in American soccer players was a testimony to the rising interest in the sport, which had been the most popular game in Europe and Central and South America for years. The Paschal soccer program expanded to accommodate the sport's surge in popularity as the number of athletes participating multiplied each season. Unity and team spirit increased throughout James Bretthauer's three years of coaching.

Defensive fullback Bryan Robinette played a key position in preventing opponents from scoring. The team benefited from the talents of half-backs Freddie Rodriguez and Steve Perez, as well as forward Tony Prado. Versatile Charles Krueger not only did a fine job as goalie, but after being injured, also performed well as a forward. These players aided their team in striving toward a high rank in district.

Soccer Kicks Into Action

Soccer, one of Paschal's newest sports, firmly established itself during the season. Mrs. Jane Blaylock coached the girls' team with the help of Captains Jennifer Baggerly and Devalia McBride. Workouts were conducted every day after school. They played each team twice during the season with most games being held on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Though the crowds were not large in number, the team's zest and enthusiasm were enough to fill the entire school.

Girls Improve Fundamentals

The girls' basketball team underwent an extensive renovation during their second season. Coaches Herb Stephens and Roxie Vineyard believed practice was the key to an improved record. The girls drilled on running the lines to improve stamina and shooting. Although the team did not leave the season with a district title, their skill increased from the last year of play.

Spikers Show Good Potential

Strength and experience were the keys to this year's volleyball season as the varsity girl's team posted a 6-8 district record. The girls began early, starting practice in August, concentrating on agility drills and intersquad scrimmages. Although their efforts did not result in a district championship, the team, led by captain Mary Woodard and all district candidate Yvonne Torres, never let their enthusiasm falter.

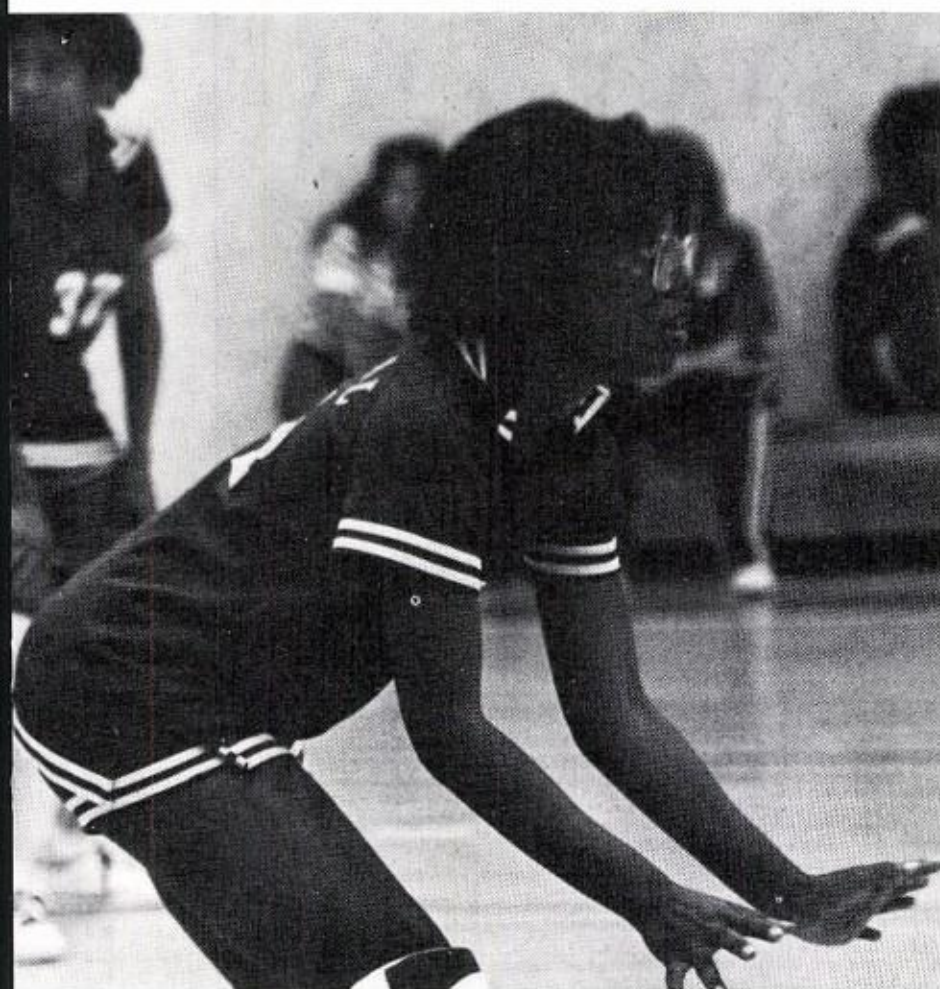

Although a 10-4 season for the J.V. and 3-2 record for the newly formed freshman team might not indicate a successful year, the young players showed promise of great volleyball teams for the years to come.

Unseasoned Golfers Develop Their Skills

It has been ten years since the Panther golf team won their last state crown. With the talent and experience that Coach Herb Stephens had, a high district ranking could be Paschal's again. Senior W. P. Richardson headed the team with the best tournament record. This year W. P. finished second in the Sam Houston Invitational Tournament and won the North Texas long drive contest. Also playing well for the Panther golf team were Stewart Custer, Tracy Hale, and Jeff Jackson.

Girl Golfers State Bound

Paschal's only defending district champion, the girls' golf team, headed toward the state crown. With four girls returning from last year's team that won third place in the regional tournament, the girls' golf program expected to move up to place but up. Top ladies for this year were captain Beth Roach, Kelly Cato, Dorette Bradshaw, and Dorenda Bradshaw.

CLUB MEETING TONIGHT

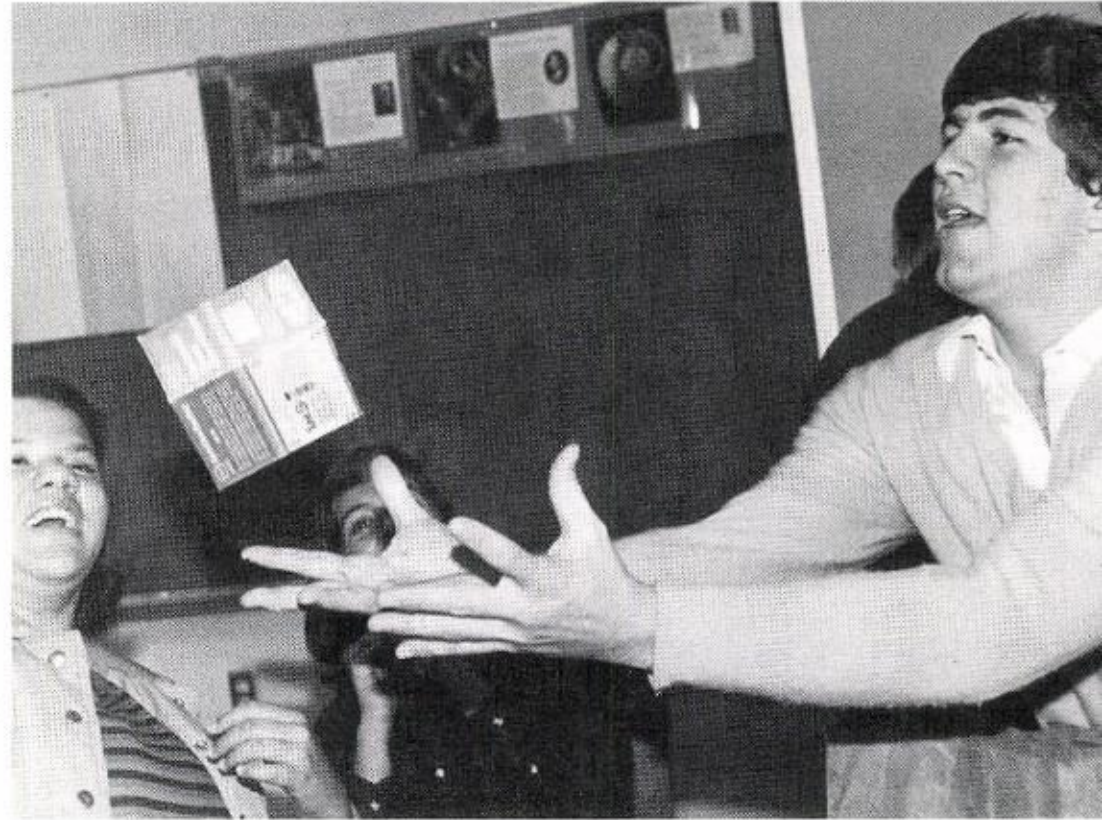

Hail, Paschal Panthers; praise to you!

Organizations

LC Represents Student Body

The twenty-five member Leadership Committee included senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman representatives and the United High School Representative. Faculty sponsors for the group were Mr. John Hamilton and Mrs. Marjory Philp. The LC represented the student point of view on school and community issues.

Throughout the year, LC members worked on a variety of projects. Howdy Week welcomed incoming freshmen through refreshments, an assembly, a roller skating party and club day. Later, the members assembled and sold student directories. In the spring, the LC planned the Powder Puff game to raise money for the Charles M. Berry Scholarship fund. The LC also worked to keep off campus lunch privileges for juniors and seniors. Community endeavors included a can drive, a toy drive, and a blood drive. Through these campus and community projects, LC members represented the entire student body.

SC Plays Decisive Role

The Student Council held the responsibility for helping the school accomplish its aims. The Council, consisting of one representative and one alternate from every homeroom, met periodically to vote on proposals submitted to the Leadership Committee. Each representative was responsible for informing his homeroom about Student Council decisions. Proposals included such activities as Howdy Week, the toy drive, directory sales, and dress-up days. Representatives also elected the student body officers. The Student Council played an active role in the decision making process.

Students Keep Harmony

The Student Advisory Committee, sponsored by Mrs. Julia Grant, was composed of four representatives from each major racial group. The students worked to promote harmony on campus between different ethnic groups. The major goals of the committee this year were to improve public relations and to involve parents, teachers, and students in school activities. Committee activities included a trip to "The Charlie Rose Show," a field trip to the STAR TELEGRAM, and a student-faculty kickball game. The members, selected by the Leadership Committee, worked diligently to promote unity in the school.

PSI Builds Foundation

Paschal Student Involvement provided a foundation for student participation in solving problems at school. This base included after school meetings and a planning session. The group met every other week to examine problem areas. As a special homeroom, members met daily in committees to discuss a handbook, the mailbox, and the lost and found. Not only did PSI work on improving the school, they also bettered themselves. The members and four LC representatives attended an all day planning session at the Boy Scout Center, which was designed to teach problem solving techniques. These included definition of problems, steps needed to solve the issues and steps in the solution. Some of the questions included parking, school spirit, student activities, and racial concerns. PSI, sponsored by Mr. Terry Smith, gave students a chance to improve the school and methods to solve problems.

Scholastic Team Sets Goals

Throughout the year, Whiz Quiz competed in scholastic contests with schools in the metroplex and defeated Bishop Dunn and Irving high schools. Questions came from the fields of science, math, art, music, literature, and history. The group's aims were to earn a set of ENCYCLOPEDIA AMERICANA and to win money for the school library. Seniors in the upper fifteen percent of their class were eligible for membership in the National Honor Society (NHS). These students must have had no citizenship grade lower than an "S" and must not have made an "F" in any subject. Sponsors — Mrs. Prudence Laird, Mr. Robert Bennett, Mrs. Jan Turner, Mrs. Jerina Barnes, and Mrs. Jane King — made sure members met all eligibility requirements. The society's purpose was to promote scholarship, leadership, and service. NHS held a fund raising event for a scholarship to go to a National Honor Society member and all members were recognized at graduation.

PSAE Encourages Academics

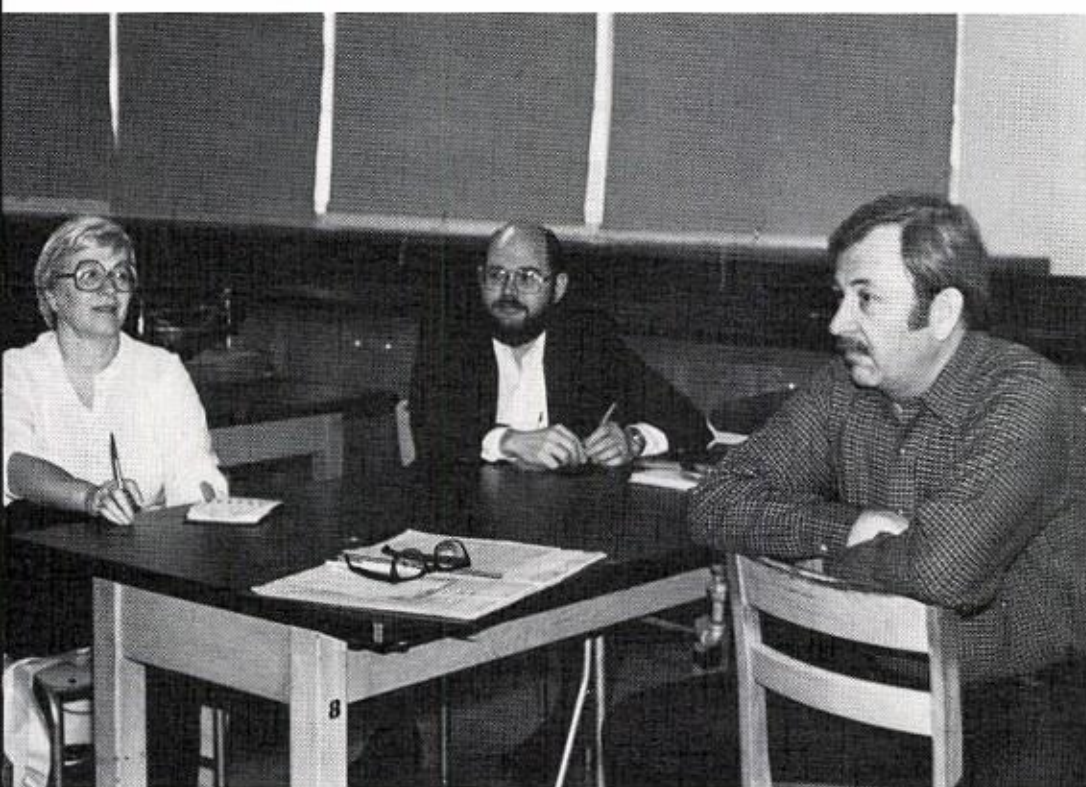

The Paschal Society for Academic Excellence, (PSAE), sponsored by Mrs. Marjory Philp, Mr. Arthur Tave, Mr. John Hamilton, Mr. Terry Smith, and Mrs. Sue Smith, honored outstanding students who had taken advanced classes and maintained a high grade point average. Eligibility requirements included a 3.7 grade point average, two years of a foreign language in high school, and attendance at Paschal for the last two years. In addition, these students must have accumulated a minimum of eleven points by completing advanced courses. PSAE honored its members with a banquet in May.

Traditions Revived

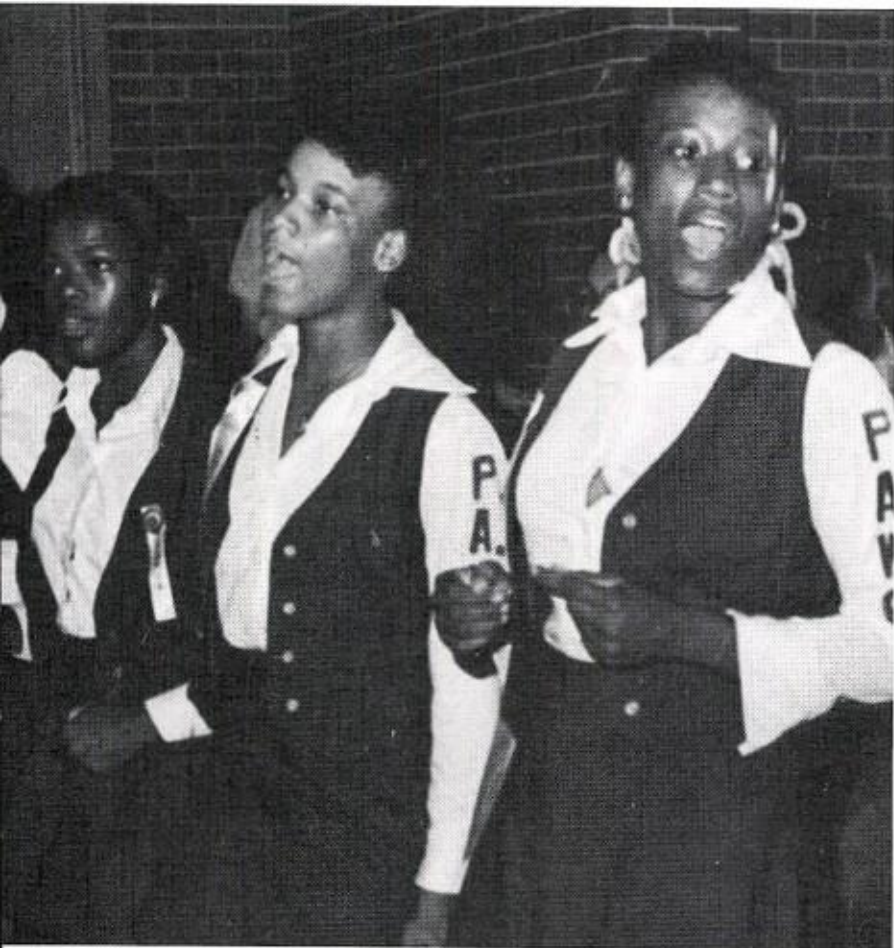

PSOP enriched the athletic scene this year by bringing back a few nearly forgotten traditions. When PSOP was unable to obtain the usual white stetsons as part of their uniform, they bought black ones. The hats were similar to those worn by the group's forerunner, POSSE, over twenty-two years ago. Another tradition that was given new life by PSOP was the election of a freshman girl as Howdy Queen at the PSOP sponsored Howdy Dance.

PSOP also carried out other spirit activities. They performed skits at pep rallies, decorated the halls with banners prior to each game, and turned out faithfully for all varsity games. PSOP's dedication and ingenuity helped keep school spirit at a fever pitch.

PAWS Returns With Pride

After a one year absence from the Paschal scene, PAWS returned this year in full force. Mrs. Sylvia Williams and Ms. Mary Humber, sponsors for the Purple and White Spirit, collected a large group of girls from all grade levels. Membership requirements included a satisfactory average in citizenship and no failed classes. In order to promote spirit at pep rallies and varsity games, pom-poms were used to emphasize cheers. Also, PAWS volunteered for the March of Dimes. The organization reentered the school with the active participation and school pride which had been sorely missed during their absence.

Team Builds Talent

The Spirit Steppers, Paschal's drill team, selected forty girls to form an excellent precision dance group. Throughout the year, the team met three hours daily in order to practice for performances at varsity football and basketball games, and to perfect routines for competitions in Fort Worth and in San Antonio. Besides representing Paschal in performances at athletic events and competitions against other drill teams, the Spirit Steppers produced an exciting Spring Show and sponsored a popular Christmas Backwards Dance. Under the direction of their faculty sponsor, Mrs. Carol Bott, the Spirit Steppers proved they lacked nothing in either school spirit or talent.

Band Sets High Standards

The Marching Band was a group of responsible, talented students who performed during halftime at varsity football games. Band members practiced music and formations every morning during first period in order to perfect their maneuvers. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Taylor, the band performed at pep rallies, provided the music for the Spirit Steppers' routines, and competed against other area high school marching bands. The Marching Band worked hard and provided its best.

Band Shows Music Knowledge

Part of the Paschal band program was the Stage Band which used players music skill in several events around the metroplex. Jazz was the basic part of this program. One such activity entitled "Battle of the Bands," sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, gave the Stage Band a chance to display their expertise. A two day clinic helped members improve their already exceptional skills as they planned to enter a contest. The Stage Band, directed by Mr. Robert Taylor, combined fun and learning, to give fellow students and citizens the joy of music.

Bands Improve Talents

Paschal's Concert Band program improved students' skills through the study of classical music. The A Band included the more advanced players who performed for the Western Hills Nursing Home, planned an exchange concert, and entered area contests. The B Band, which concentrated on musical techniques, entered a concert contest. Both bands, under direction of Mr. Robert Taylor, benefited from a two day clinic held at Paschal in the spring.

Members Excel Musically

Several members of Paschal's orchestra, who also participated in the Fort Worth Youth Orchestra, were LaMonica Jenkins, Mary Jane Cardona, and Elizabeth Thompson. One of these students, Elizabeth Thompson, won a Leo Potishman Scholarship for a cello concerto performance. Directed by Mrs. Jean Graham for the second consecutive year, the Orchestra played in the musical, at Hulen Mall, in the school halls during the Christmas season, and for area middle schools.

Choir Performs Broadway Music

The Show Choir sang, danced, and played their way through Broadway and pop music. In November, the choir, along with the drama department, produced "Bye, Bye Birdie." Choir Performs Concerts

The Concert Choir, composed of students selected through auditions, was directed by Mrs. Joy Howington. The choir held winter and spring concerts and participated in All-City and University Interscholastic League competitions. Choir members also performed for several civic and community organizations such as Mayfest and traveled to East Texas State University to perform on campus. Vagabonds Produce Play

The Vagabonds, under the direction of Miss Susan Williams, worked diligently to produce an annual spring production. The play this year was a comedy entitled "The Man Who Came to Dinner." The Vagabonds spent long hours building sets, making costumes, and rehearsing and publicizing the production. Open auditions were held at the start of the spring semester. The play provided students with an opportunity to display their talents in acting and technical theater as well as a chance to entertain the public.

Club Enjoys Festivals

The German Club, sponsored by Mr. Terry Smith, met once a month to enjoy food and festivals. Members also competed in Novemberfest, Sprockfest, and in Fort Worth's Language Fair. Money raised by selling gummy bears and toblerones was used to help students participate in cultural events and to provide resources for the German department. This active club had a large membership because of the fellowship and competition it encouraged.

Club Promotes French

The French Club served as a foundation for members to learn about French culture while having fun. The members dined at Le Chablis, a Dallas restaurant. During their ski trip to Purgatory and Durango, Colorado, students ate French food, talked with French speaking people and sang French Christmas carols. In order to raise money for the ski trip, members sold candles, candy bars and lollipops. The club, sponsored by Mrs. Sherry Snyder, enjoyed participating in French related activities.

Members Get Involved

Spanish students participated in two organizations related to Spanish culture, the club and the honor society. Members of La Tertulia, sponsored by Mrs. Marian Newland, enjoyed such activities as a swimming party, a chili supper, and an honors banquet for language fair winners. The Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica, advised by Mrs. Olivia Wilkerson, was the honor society. To qualify for membership, juniors had to show exceptional ability and interest in all facets of the language. Members explored cultural events including art exhibits, musical concerts, and academic lectures. Both organizations fostered interest in Spanish customs.

Roman Influence Still Lives

The influence of classical Rome was apparent as the Latin Club "democratically" decided to wear togas to a December party. Their olympics was held at Century City Rollerland. Mrs. Lenore Hurley guided the club's more serious projects to raise money with candy sales for Latin books and to gather in the awards during the Fort Worth Language Fair.

AFS Gets Exchange

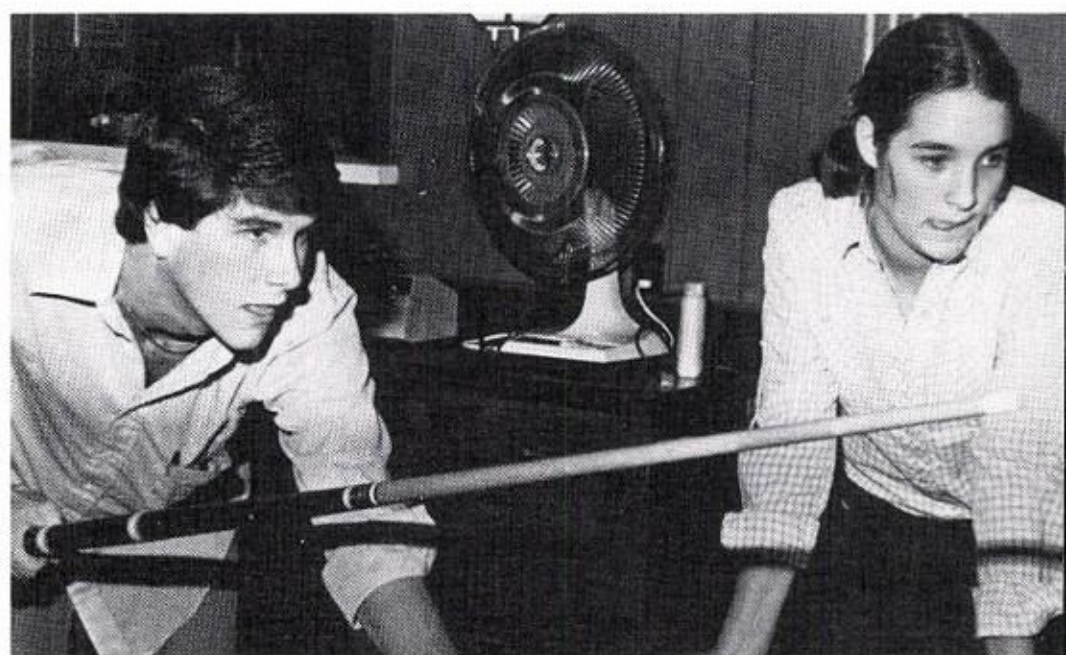

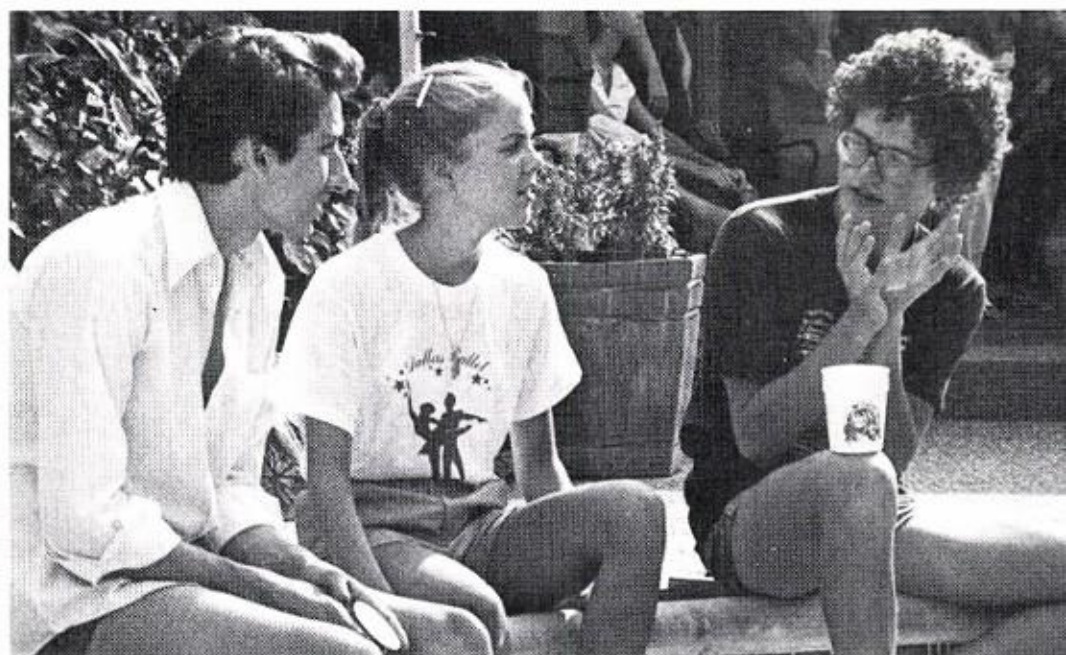

The American Field Service Club, under the direction of Ms. Jhani Wright, was organized to foster international understanding and cultural exchange between Americans and other nationalities. This year the AFS sponsored two foreign exchange students, Sergio Torres who came from Belgium and Andrew Wilkendorf who went to Central America. To help pay for the foreign exchange student's expenses, AFS held fund raising projects such as selling balloons for homecoming. Other club activities included lively monthly parties and an American Field Service Day. AFS members delighted in learning about foreign cultures and explaining American culture to others.

Club Pursues Goals

The Aviation club was established to increase interest in all areas of the aviation field. The club, sponsored by Mr. Arthur Tave, held frequent meetings and took a variety of field trips. Some of the places that the Aviation club visited were Meacham Field, Vought Corporation, Dallas Fort Worth Regional Airport, and American Airlines Flight Academy. The group also planned a trip, with the Science club, to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Houston. Club members sought to learn about and understand different aspects of the aviation field.

World Provides Interest

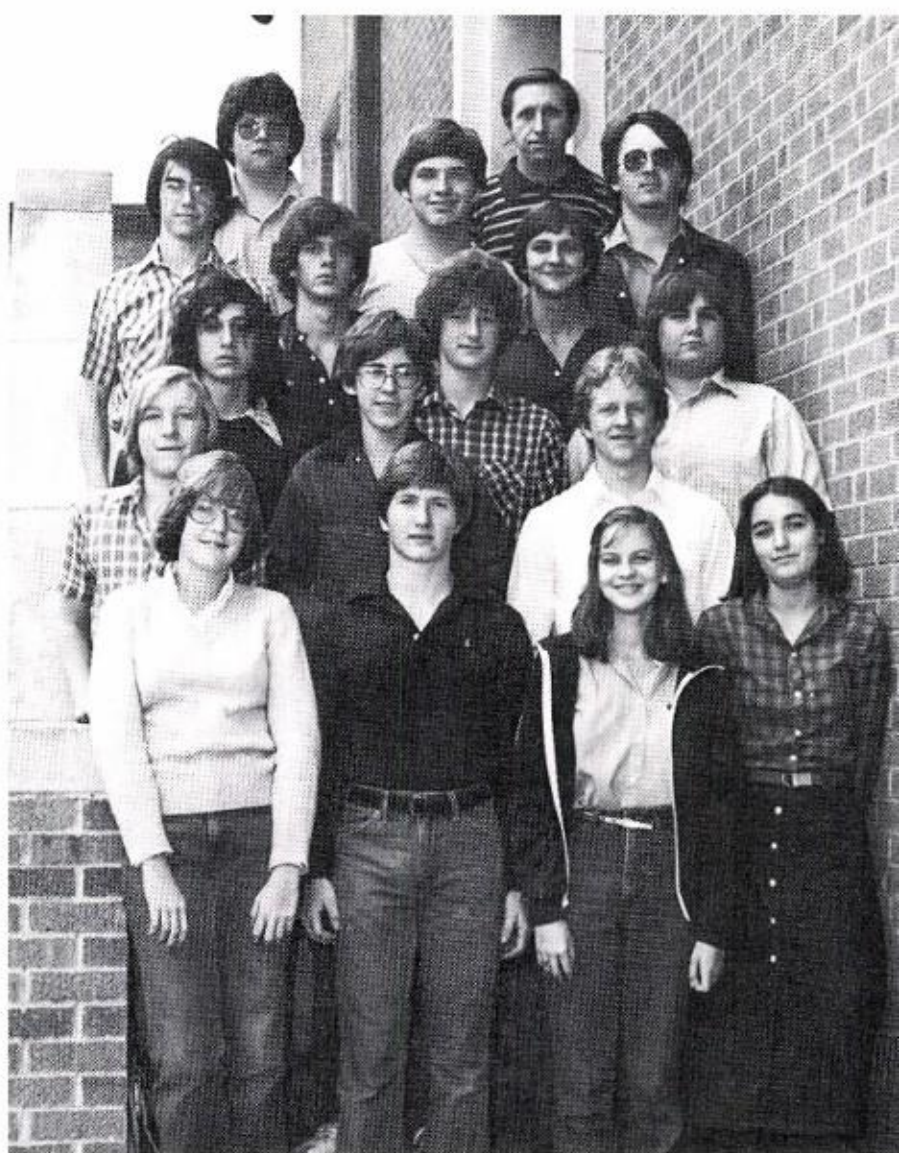

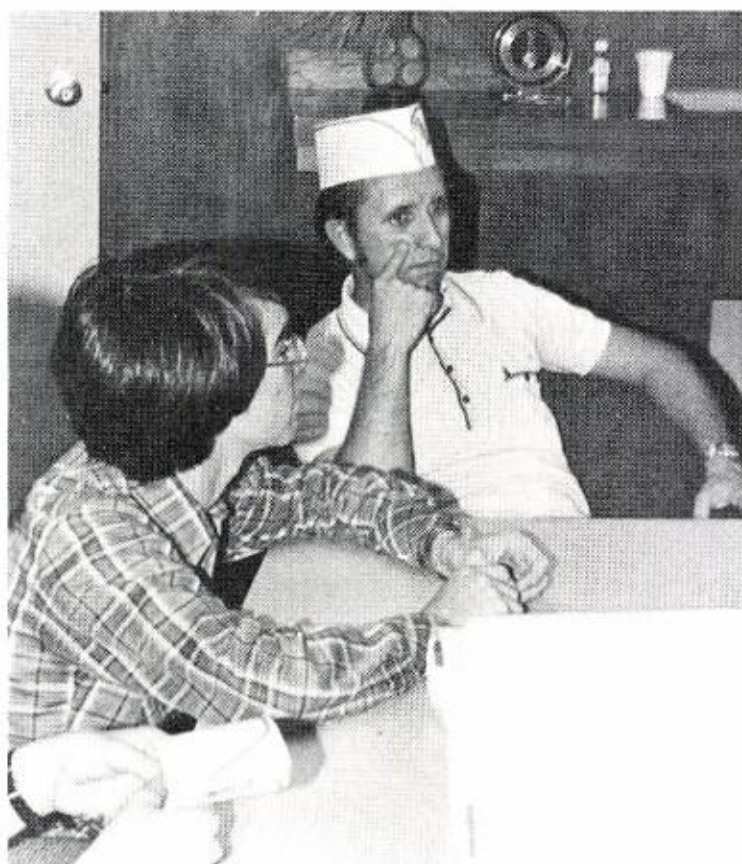

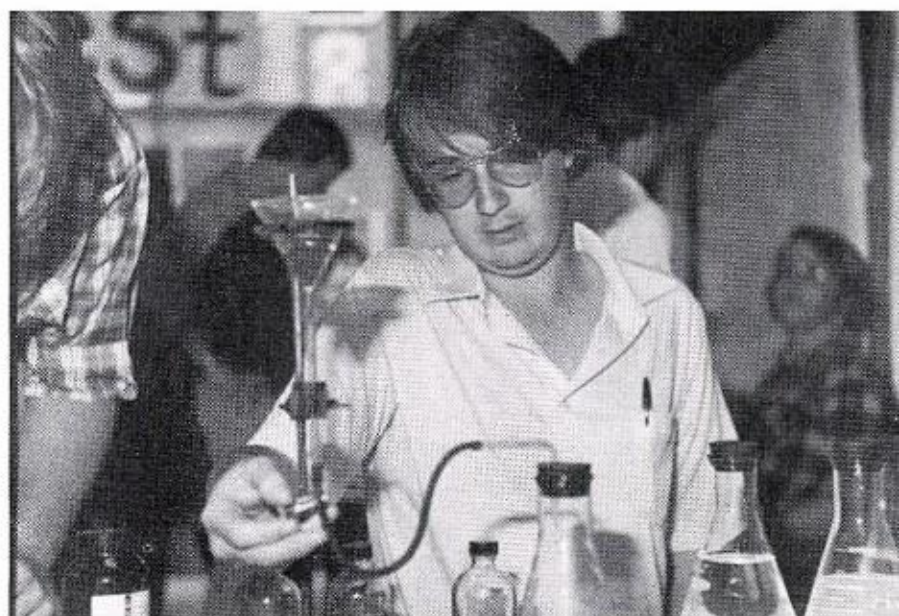

The purpose of the Science club was to increase the members' knowledge of science and technology. This year the club, under the direction of Mr. Gerald Wall, took a variety of field trips to investigate the different aspects of science in the community. Some of the places they visited were Alcon Laboratories, Ranch Style Incorporated, and the chemistry and physics departments at Texas Christian University. The club also planned to take a trip with the Aviation club to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Besides these activities, members conducted various scientific experiments at school and were encouraged to enter the Fort Worth Science Fair. Members of the Science club enjoyed an enlightening and informative year.

Club Involves School

The Penta Club was a service club for the math department of Paschal. Any student interested in math might join. Activities included the sale of turkey awards at Thanksgiving and singing valentines on Valentine's Day. These services were extremely popular with students.

The club also assisted the math department by sponsoring the Math Awards Banquet and by working as tutors for students. An ongoing project was interviewing people from all vocations in order to find out the amount of math needed for that particular job. The club planned to compile this information into a comprehensive list for math teachers. The Penta Club managed to provide useful and entertaining services for everyone.

Club Gives Positive Image

Latinos in Action, sponsored by Mrs. Josie Martinez, Mr. Carlos Padron, and Mrs. Cecilia Villa, worked to give Mexican-American students a positive image. Mr. Richard Salinas from the Court Related Office of Fort Worth Public Schools and Vick Herrera from the Probate Office were guest speakers at meetings. Subjects discussed included job availability in law enforcement and shelters for runaways. To raise money for club shirts and activities, members sold stadium cushions and Valentine candy. Students also held a Christmas Dance at the Worth Heights Community Center. The Cinco de Mayo queen was crowned during the celebration in the auditorium. The club planned to give awards to an outstanding member and the outgoing president. As a goal, the club hoped to someday award a college scholarship.

Club Provides Social Outlet

The Ebony Club provided a social outlet for members in a high school environment through projects and excursions. One project was to sell chances on a twenty dollar mum for Homecoming. They also sponsored Black History Week in February during which members organized a program. This program spotlighted black contributions in music, dance and liberal arts. Members also planned a fashion show and a dance during the spring semester. Both functions were designed to raise money for club activities. Later, students took a short trip to Six Flags where they also had a picnic. The Ebony Club, sponsored by Mr. Luther Craft, supplied social activities for its members.

Club Works on Skills

Anyone with an interest in rodeo was welcome to join the Rodeo club. The club, sponsored by Mr. Dan Sipler, held regular meetings on Monday nights and was a part of the North Texas High School Rodeo Association. The association held weekend rodeos from September to May and a Finals Rodeo at the end of the season. Through these rodeos, members had a chance to compete with other high school clubs in the North Texas area. Members entered such events as saddle bronc riding, bull riding, and chute dogging. The Rodeo club provided a safe outlet for students who wished to gain riding experience.

Class Promotes Nature

Outdoor Adventure and Awareness, a class taught by Mr. Bob Reed, gave instruction in popular sports which the student could continue to enjoy after graduation. These sports included backpacking, canoeing, fishing, camping, and skiing. OAA activities this year were a canoe trip down the Gaudalupe River, and a backpacking trip in Arkansas. The class, which was open to sophomore, junior, and senior students, was conducted with an emphasis on class time spent outdoors in parks and other recreational areas. OAA members learned the importance of the preservation of a truly wild or primitive natural environment which could be enjoyed by generations to come.

Club Develops Leadership

Students enrolled in Interior Design learned leadership skills as well as serving other people. These leadership abilities included conducting class meetings and carrying through projects.

For example, Bob Stempleton, a guest speaker, talked to the group about self-esteem and self-motivation. The members furthered their leadership by attending workshops every two or three months at such high schools as Western Hills and Southwest. At these meetings, the students selected topics ranging from leadership to fund raising. Also, four members who showed leadership abilities and who participated actively in the club, were sent to the state convention held in San Antonio.

The students served other people by making gifts for the Lena Pope Children's Home and for the elderly. In order to obtain money for these projects, the club held a carwash as well as selling candy and Paschal pens. By being involved in Interior Design, the members helped people and improved their leadership potential.

Business Students Join OEA

Students enrolled in Vocational Office Education (VOE) belonged to the Office Education Association (OEA). Mrs. Jane King and Mrs. Tricia Satterfield sponsored the two chapters of OEA. Club members organized the Special Olympics which benefited handicapped children, took fruit to a nursing home, and attended the movie "Nine to Five." Students who showed exceptional ability in office skills took part in regional, state, and national conferences. During February, the club recruited members for VOE during OEA week. OEA offered a foundation for business minded students to meet together in informal surroundings.

Club Improves Family Life

The members of Future Homemakers of America developed leadership abilities and improved family and community life. To expand leadership skills, each class had its own officers who led meetings using parliamentary procedures. To further develop leadership, FHA sent two members to the state convention held at San Antonio in April. In an effort to improve family life, students heard a guest speaker on child abuse and explored other parenting skills. In addition, community life was enhanced by several projects, which included making ceramic pins for the elderly and turkey favors to decorate Thanksgiving lunch trays for patients at the Fort Worth Children's Hospital. Members also took children from Women's Haven to the Forest Park Zoo. With the help of Mrs. Rose Marie Smith, Mrs. Sara Pursley, and Mrs. Becky Richards, FHA showed its members how to help others in an effort to improve community and family living.

Office Skills Taught

Coordinated Vocational Academic Education (CVAE) taught skills which provided students with job qualifications. The office section of the club, sponsored by Mrs. Fay Sproull, supplied practical courses in general office procedures. One of the projects of the organization this year was a combined effort with the homemaking section to produce a recipe book. The club helped develop the leadership qualities of its members and prepare them to enter the job market.

Students Learn Through Experience

The home economic Coordinated Vocational Academic Education Program (CVAE) helped members assume their roles in society through home economics education in areas of personal growth, family life, vocational preparation, and community involvement. The group's activities included a trip to the Crossroad Development Center to hold a valentine party for the children there. Other trips were to Denton and San Antonio. Under the leadership of Miss Mary Humber, members also participated in preparing lunches twice a week for students and faculty in the Local Kitchen.

Club Helps Handicapped

Child Development, with help from faculty sponsor Mrs. JoAnn Popham, focused on helping handicapped children. Students went to the Speech and Hearing Clinic at TCU, the Starpoint School, the Child Study Center, and Fort Worth State School. Members also participated in Headstart and Easter Seal programs. In order to obtain money for these projects, they sold candy and corn nuts. The money was also used to send three active members to the state meeting in San Antonio.

Members Broaden Horizons

Members of Home Economics Cooperative Education (HECE) were part of one of many chapters of the Future Homemakers of America (FHA). By selling stick candy, posters, and stuffed Easter bunnies, money was raised to hold a breakfast for employers and administrators, to contribute to the Goodfellow fund, and to send two members to the state convention in San Antonio. Faculty sponsor, Mrs. Mary Frances Jordan, advised HECE students in their endeavors to broaden horizons and to increase economic skills.

HOSA Serves Area

The motto of the Health Occupation Students of America (HOSA) was to conserve life, alleviate suffering, and promote health. The organization, sponsored by Mrs. Evelyn Pittman, brought together students interested in health careers. In order to be a member of HOSA, students had to attend Health Occupation Education classes. Some members attended area and state conventions. HOSA provided its members with the opportunity to gather information on health and health careers and to perform community services.

Club Values Hard Work

The Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) were designed to guide pupils into the business world. In order to join one of the DECA groups, a student had to be either a junior or senior and enrolled in a Distributive Education class. Through classroom instruction and on-the-job experience, members learned both marketing and distributing techniques. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Clayton Bodiford, the group pursued its goal of developing leadership qualities.

Staff Keeps Records

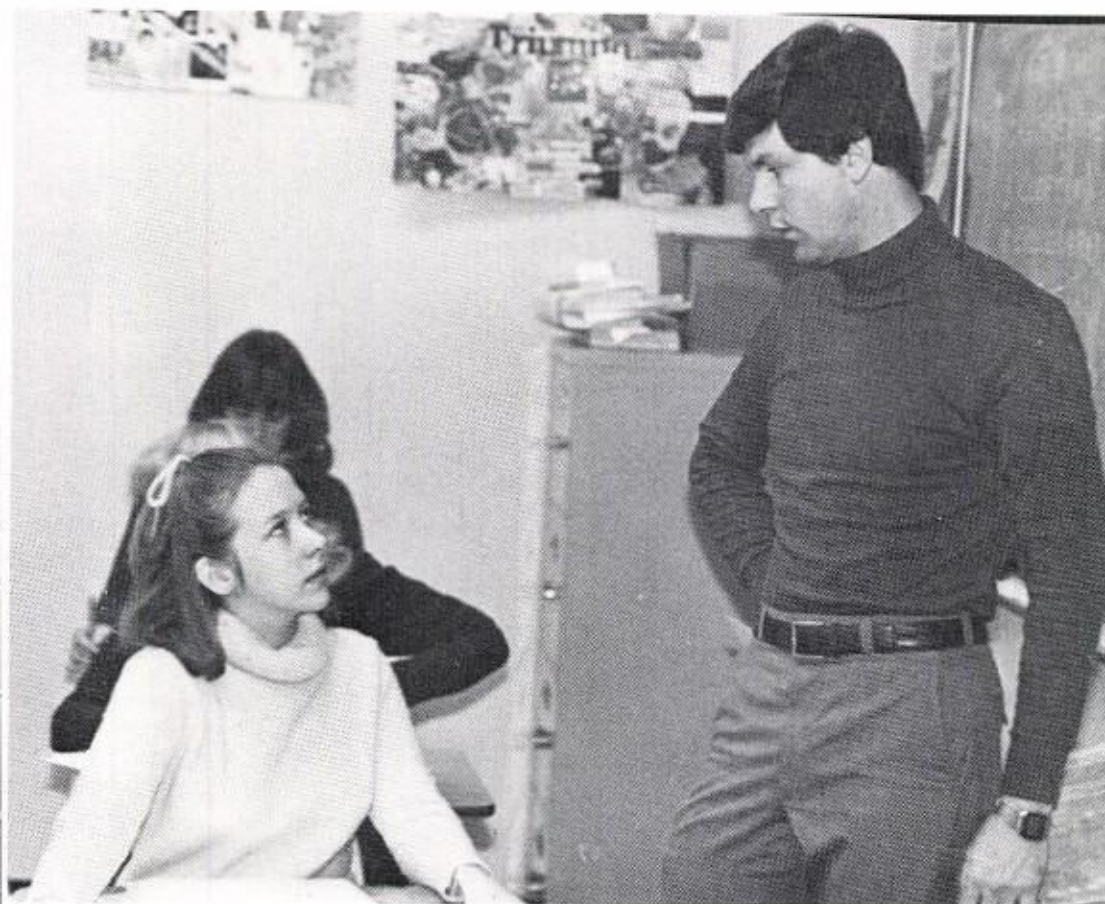

The Sales Staff consisted of five advanced accounting students who kept records of annuals purchased by students. In order to accomplish this, they obtained an alphabetized list of each homeroom. These lists made up the ledger which kept record of the students who bought a yearbook and the dates they completed payments. Every purchasing day, the staff met in Mrs. Enright's room to make sure the annual staffers' deposit slips and money were equal. Then they posted the payments in the ledgers. When the annual staff was short on salespersons, the Sales Staff helped in homerooms. Also, they collected partial payment completions in the front foyer. Toward the end of the year, the group made a list of each homeroom with the names of the people who had purchased an annual. These lists assisted the annual staff in sorting the correct number of books for each homeroom. Each purchaser was required to sign these lists which were returned to the Sales Staff. The final task was to make a financial statement which had to balance with the ledgers. The Sales Staff, with help from their sponsor Mrs. LaTonne Enright, worked to make annual distribution a success.

Staff Critiques Submissions

By producing the literary magazine, the VIGNETTE Staff had a chance to see creative works by students put into print. Submissions from the student body were given to the group to read. Using the selected material, the staff determined the theme of the magazine. To further develop the idea, members took pictures and gathered quotes. The students organized the magazine by typing, proofreading, and making layouts for the selections. The VIGNETTE Staff, sponsored by Mr. Bob Reed, produced a magazine of creative ideas.

Staff Works Diligently

The school newspaper, the PANTHERETTE, was run by a group of hard working staffers. They met Monday through Friday during fifth and sixth period in order to produce an informative publication. The PANTHERETTE class combined journalism instruction with the actual publication. The paper chronicled a variety of school-oriented events, from varsity sports to vandalism. Staffers were responsible for all areas of the PANTHERETTE's production, including ad sales, photographs, stories, promotion, and sales to the student body during homeroom. Staff effort bore obvious fruit, as Paschalites enjoyed the privilege of a school paper.

Staff Follows Busy Road

Hard work was the common factor among the 1981 PANTHER staff. The staff, composed of both juniors and seniors, was directed by Ms. Janice Maddux. Until all the deadlines were met, staffers were required to put in an extra three hours per week at school. The duties of the staffers included arranging for pictures, drawing page layouts, writing copy and captions, and putting the final product down on a page to be sent to the publisher. Photographers had to attend a myriad of activities and meetings and spend long hours in the dark room processing and printing. The entire staff was responsible for the yearbook's theme, cover, and delivery gimmick. Activities such as Santa Pals, birthday celebrations, and welcome home parties kept the staff from feeling burdened by their workload. The general camaraderie and sense of purpose that the staff felt helped make the experience of producing a yearbook a valuable one.

Students Enjoy Picture Perfect Year

It was said that a picture paints a thousand words. During the year, pictures captured some of the uncommon facial expressions, mannerisms, and emotions of the student body on film. Because each individual expressed his or her views differently, the school as a unified institution could not be effectively represented by one picture. It was, therefore, necessary to recognize many students as they experienced love, laughter, knowledge, and growing up together, in order to identify Paschal and to explain the pride students had in the school.

Faces Express Emotional Year

Praise to Paschal

Memories of Paschal's past were held in that famous Alma Mater. Although dimension was added to Paschal as new concepts were admitted to the purple and white curriculum, that sentimental song still fit perfectly in the hearts of Paschalites and helped define school unity. Life-long friendships were made and comrades young and old shared pleasant memories. Standards remained high and true spirit was exhibited by faculty and students. Although seniors and graduates wished to remain close to purple traditions, they eagerly awaited the future. Underclassmen were excited about the future too. They were responsible for the carrying on of class rituals. Because of the strong tie among students, traditions were effectively passed from year to year. The students used the Alma Mater as a tool that was to preserve a magnificent PURPLE REIGN. PRAISE TO THEE, PASCHAL.

Robert,
To a real
sweet guy.
You have been the most sweetest
guy.
It has been fun
knowing you all year long.
I would not have done
without your help.
Even though you were very tough.
I wish that you would stop laughing.
I hope that you have fun in Germany.
I still think you should take care
of yourself and try to stay as one
your family friends.

I think it's such a good idea. well take care of yourself and try to stay.
